WIMBLEY CASE JURY LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

Five Possible Verdicts Are Pointed Out by Justice Proctor.

INSTRUCTION TAKES ONE HOUR AND HALF

Reputed Confession Is Given Prominent Place in Charge to 12 Men.

The jurymen pondering the guilt or innocence of Harry C. Wimbley and John M. Crowder, accused of the murder of Mrs. Wimbley, the former's wife, was deadlocked at 9:45 o'clock last night after deliberating the evidence for more than five hours. They were locked in the Continental Hotel for the night.

The question whether Crowder and Wimbley should be executed in the electric chair, go to prison, or go free, was placed in the hands of the veniremen at 4:30 o'clock after they had listened to the pleas of opposing attorneys and the instructions of Justice James M. Proctor.

The jurors were taken to dinner at 6 o'clock and returned at 7:20 o'clock to debate the evidence to which they have listened for seven days on the question whether Wimbley and Crowder purposely drowned Mrs. Wimbley in the C. & O. Canal on September 17. Their consideration of the guilt or innocence of the accused will be resumed this morning.

After instructing the jury for 1 hour and 30 minutes, Justice Proctor summed up the possible verdicts which it might return as follows: 1. Both guilty of murder in the first degree. 2. One guilty of first degree murder and one of second degree murder. 3. Both guilty in the second degree. 4. One guilty of second degree and one innocent. 5. Both innocent.

Is Closed Dramatically.

Louis L. Whitestone, attorney for Wimbley, closed his argument in dramatic fashion, when he said, "There is the voice of some one who has not testified in this case (Mrs. Wimbley) and it seems to be saying, 'For God's sake, acquit my husband.'"

Adapting the closing phrase of Mr. Whitestone's argument for the use of the Government, Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins appended, "How I would like to hear that voice that has been referred to. What a story of oppression and brutality it might tell."

The Government was accused by Mr. Whitestone of trying to convict Wimbley on his past convictions of forgery and his allegedly bigamous marriage to Ida Mae Graves Dickerson. "If Wimbley went to the canal with the purpose of drowning his wife, he could not have withstood the grillings he underwent without cracking," he said.

Says Statement Made Up.

In his plea for acquittal of Crowder, Cedric Johnson, his attorney, said, "The moving force behind this case is the insurance company. The insurance company told police to get Wimbley. The statement attributed to Crowder is manufactured and the police told him what to say."

Concerning the alleged confession of Crowder, which said a plot had been made against the life of Mrs. Wimbley, but maintained that the actual drowning was accidental, Mr. Whitestone said, "If you believe the confession, these men are innocent, for the statement of Crowder says the drownings were accidental. If you

Lily White G.O.P. Delegates Named

South Carolina Faction Pledges Support to President Hoover.

Columbia, S. C., April 26 (A.P.).—Ten delegates to the national convention pledged to President Hoover were named today at the State convention of the Hambright "lily white" Republican organization. The delegation to Chicago is headed by J. C. Hambright, of Rockhill, who also was elected national committeeman from the State. Miss Clara Harrigal, of Aiken County, was named national committeewoman.

Attended by 1,000 delegates representing all the 46 counties, the convention was the largest Republican meeting held in recent years in South Carolina, a Democratic stronghold.

The leadership of President Hoover in efforts to restore prosperity was extolled by Charles H. Small, of Washington, special assistant to the Attorney General, the keynoter, and by Dallas A. Gardner, convention chairman. No reference was made at the meeting to a rival State Republican group headed by J. W. Tolbert,

Ferrara Off to Cuba; May Be Foreign Chief

Ambassador to U. S. to Consider Offer of Cabinet Post.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The dean of the Latin-American Diplomatic Corps, Ambassador Orestes Ferrara, called on President Hoover yesterday before leaving for Havana, where he is expected to become the minister of foreign affairs for the Cuban government.

The popular representative of Gen. Machado declined to verify the rumor that he would take over the direction of foreign affairs there. The post is now vacant and has been for some time, pending the decision of Ambassador Ferrara. However, the Ambassador declared that he had been offered the vacancy by President Machado and would give his reply on arriving in Havana.

The entry of Ambassador Ferrara in the government at Havana is expected to mark an end to the repressive measures which have hitherto been employed in maintaining peace and order in the island republic. The conciliating influence of the Ambassador

ACCORD IS REACHED UPON TRUCE IN CHINA

Five Points Are Agreed On; American Minister Helps Break Deadlock.

Shanghai, China, April 26 (U.P.).—An agreement on the fundamental principles of a truce in the Shanghai war was achieved today after the American and British ministers had intervened to help bring about the long-delayed settlement between Chinese and Japanese.

The agreement, which is subject to official approval by the two governments, was reached by the drafting committee composed of Samuel H. Chang, and Wai Chiao-Pu, representing China; K. Okasaki, secretary of the Japanese legation, and Eric Teichman, councilor of the British legation, representing the neutral powers.

The efforts of Nelson T. Johnson, United States minister, and Sir Miles Lampson, the British minister, contributed largely to breaking the deadlock in the negotiations, which had been at an impasse since the cessation of fighting.

The agreement will be based on five points:

1. Complete cessation of hostilities.
2. The Chinese will not advance.
3. The Japanese will withdraw troops to positions held prior to January 28—that is, within the boundary of the International Settlement.
4. A joint commission will be created to supervise withdrawal.
5. The agreement becomes effective immediately after being signed.

Although the truce would provide for Japanese withdrawal into the settlement, an annex provided for temporary billeting of Japan's troops in the Chapei area, and adjoining districts, because the large numbers of Japanese soldiers and marines still in the Yangtze Valley would make it difficult or impossible to maintain them in the settlement. The number of these troops is being reduced steadily.

The Chinese patrols already have withdrawn from the so-called neutral zone, in which some detachments have operated recently, and they

Big Japanese Offensive Is Begun in Manchuria

Harbin, Manchuria (Wednesday), April 27 (A.P.).—The Japanese army began today its largest offensive since the capture of Chinchow last December when three brigades under Lieut. Gen. Hirose moved out against a force of Chinese rebels estimated to number 20,000.

NEW MOVE FRIDAY ON ARMS DEADLOCK

"Big Five" Statesmen, Including Stimson, to Seek to Agree on Plan.

Geneva, April 26 (A.P.).—An attempt to smash the disarmament conference deadlock will be made Friday at a meeting of the "big five" statesmen which was arranged today largely through the efforts of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

Plans for the meeting were completed at Col. Stimson's villa during a conference in which the Secretary of State, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, of Germany, and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald participated.

Much significance was attached here to M. Tardieu's decision to attend. The French premier now is battling for the life of his government. The first of the French elections for a new Chamber of Deputies is to be held Sunday. These circumstances placed in bold relief the importance of the "big five" attempt to eradicate the disarmament deadlock.

That deadlock has resulted from the division of the conference into two camps. Heading one faction are the French, who hold that the way to handle the disarmament problem is for each nation to contribute arms and ammunition to an international police force supervised by the League of Nations.

Britain and the United States are the leaders of the other faction, whose thesis is there should be specific reductions in certain classes of arms by each nation.

Paris, April 26 (A.P.).—A telephone call from Secretary of State Stimson today resulted in Premier Andre Tardieu's decision to go to Geneva Friday for a conference on the disarmament problem.

The premier had intended to remain away from Geneva until after the Chamber of Deputies election next Sunday.

Maj. Cohen Expecting To Be Sworn In Today

Richmond, Va., April 26 (A.P.).—Carrying with him credentials informing the President of the United States Senate he is the Georgia appointee to fill the unexpired term of the late William J. Harris, Maj. John S. Cohen, Atlanta Journal editor and owner, left his hotel here late today for Washington, hoping to be sworn in tomorrow.

Gov. Richard B. Russell, jr., of Georgia, met him in Richmond at noon and personally presented the credentials to him. Maj. Cohen had come from New York, where he was yesterday when the appointment was announced.

Prosecution in Honolulu Claims Point on Insanity

Judge Will Instruct Massie Slaying Case Jury That Plea of "Derangement at Time" Will Not Be Sufficient, Ulrich Says.

Honolulu, April 26 (A.P.).—A prosecution hint that it had won an important point against the insanity defense of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie marked the Territory's arguments today before the jury that will determine the fortunes of the Navy officer and three others accused of killing Joseph Kahahawai.

Barry S. Ulrich, asociate prosecutor, told the jurors they would be instructed by Judge Charles S. Davis that the defense showing Massie was insane the moment he fired the shot which killed the native, would not be sufficient to clear the naval officer.

Ulrich continued by asserting that the insanity plea is not to be considered unless the defense has shown Massie mentally unbalanced through every step of the tragedy.

For the defense, George S. Leisure, associate of the aged Clarence Darrow, attacked the prosecution argument and some of its testimony, and asked that Massie, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, Navy enlisted men, be cleared of the second degree murder charge.

Although Judge Davis will not deliver his instructions until after the closing arguments, he did not challenge Ulrich's statement, nor did the defense do so. In its testimony the

KIDNAPER BAND MET IN VIRGINIA BY LINDBERGH

Personal Contact Said to Have Been Made Last Week.

WILL MEET CURTIS OFF COAST OF STATE

Completion of Negotiations and Return of Child Expected of That Conference.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Hopewell, N. J., April 26 (A.P.).—A personal contact with the kidnapers of his son is understood to have been made by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in Virginia last week, a high New Jersey official said tonight. The meeting was reported to have taken place while the famous flier was away from his estate last Monday and Tuesday.

Those with whom he conferred were understood to be the same group which received the $50,000 ransom that Dr. John F. Condon, 72-year-old educator, paid to a man in the shadow of a New York cemetery on April 2.

Meeting Off Virginia Coast.

The New Jersey official also disclosed the colonel is planning to meet John H. Curtis, Norfolk (Va.), intermediary, on a boat off the Virginia coast, where they hope to complete the new negotiations and obtain the return of the child.

It also was stated on the same high authority that $1,500 of the original ransom bills have been recovered, most of them in or around New York, but that investigators so far have been unsuccessful in tracing them.

The next meeting between Col. Lindberg and the group he has been dealing with originally was planned for a certain spot off the New Jersey coast, the State official said.

Curtis Absent Since Sunday.

The change was made, he added, because of the intensive activity of the Coast Guard off the New Jersey shore, where they have been hunting a boat reported to contain the abductors and possibly the child.

Curtis has been away from his home since Sunday. The yacht Marcon, owned by a friend of his, is also away from its port. It has been reported Curtis has been on the Marcon frequently since Sunday working on the Lindbergh case.

The Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, second of the three Norfolk intermediaries, said tonight he was uncertain if the continued absence of Curtis on a secret mission was a "good sign or a bad sign." He added he had heard nothing from his associate since he left home Sunday night.

Willys Resigns Post in Poland

Pays Visit to White House; Will Resume Career in Business World.

(Associated Press.)

John N. Willys, American Ambassador to Poland, called upon President Hoover and Acting Secretary of State Carr yesterday and announced his resignation effective some time in June.

He issued a statement concerning his plans which follows in part:

"After careful deliberation I have decided that I should resign as Ambassador to Poland in order to be as helpful as possible in a business way during this difficult period.

"I shall make immediate arrangements to move back to the United States in order that I may be on the ground to take care of my various interests here and particularly to be more active and helpful in my duties as chairman of the board of the Willys Overland Co."

Toledo, Ohio, April 26 (A.P.).—John N. Willys was reelected chairman of the board of Willys-Overland Co. today at about the same time he tendered his resignation in Washington as Ambassador.

Two More Enter Senate Campaign in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, April 26 (A.P.).—The field in the race for United States senator from Oklahoma was increased by two today with the filings of Wirt Franklin, of Ardmore, independent oil leader, and James A. Harris, of Wagoner, both Republicans. Senator Elmer Thomas, the incumbent, is a Democrat.

Harris is a former State chairman and national committeeman of his party. Grady Lewis, of Muskogee, attorney for the Choctaw Nation, withdrew from the Republican senatorial race today. U. S. Stone, former representative, remains a candidate. R. M. McCool, State Democratic chairman, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination against Senator Thomas.

GAG-RULE VOTE ON SAVING BILL IN HOUSE TODAY

$67,000,000 SLASH TO STIR HOT FIGHT

Administration Forces Map Campaign to Substitute Furlough Proposal.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Federal salaries will be placed on the congressional auction block today, when the Democratic House economy committee, in role of auctioneer, attempts to exact $67,000,000 from Government employes—down payment on a $200,000,000 retrenchment program.

After five months of threatened pay reduction, the issue will finally reach a vote this afternoon. The test will come on a rigid rule giving the omnibus economy bill privileged status as a legislative appropriations rider.

Opponents of pay reduction—a Labor poll indicated there were at least 218—are unlimbering for a battle of words and strategy. They will direct initial efforts at defeating the special rule. Then, step by step, they will fight provisions hitting Government workers.

Party Lines Smashed.

Party lines long since have fallen. Three strong Democratic committee chairmen will meet this morning to agree on a plan of action. Though no formal coalition has been formed, Republican pay-cut foes, under Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia, will work with them.

Second, third and fourth lines of defense have been mapped, in case the rule vote fails. Antireduction forces last night were confident in any event the economy committee plan of 11 per cent pay cuts with $1,000 exemption will not get through unscathed. There will be a fight to increase the exemption. Representative John J. O'Connor (Democrat), of New York, will be recognized for an amendment boosting the exemption figure to $2,000.

Four other pay-cut amendments may be offered under the so-called "gag rule." If the pay-cut opponents go down to defeat on these ballots they may take advantage of two motions to recommit the bill, allowed under the terms of the rule.

To Urge Hoover Plan.

The same strategy holds good for the administration group lined up behind President Hoover's alternative plan of 30-day enforced Federal furloughs, without pay. Representative

Arkansas to Send Hoover Delegates

G. O. P. in State on Record Against Dry Repeal or Modification.

Little Rock, Ark., April 26 (A.P.).—Arkansas Republicans instructed their fifteen delegates to the national convention for President Hoover at the State convention today, and went on record against prohibition repeal or modification despite a declaration by the keynote speaker in favor of a national referendum.

The proposal of J. A. Tellier, Little Rock lawyer, that the two major parties unite upon a common plank in their platforms, agreeing to submit the prohibition question to the people, took the convention by surprise and drew no response.

Later, the reading of a plank in the State platform declaring for strict enforcement of the prohibition law was greeted by applause. The convention elected four delegates at large to the national convention and congressional districts chose nine delegates today. The two remaining will be selected by the third district May 2.

Rain Delays First Lady, ReturningFrom Rapidan

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., April 26.—April showers held Mrs. Hoover up for about an hour here this afternoon on her return to the White House after a visit to the presidential lodge on the Rapidan. Mrs. Hoover, driving her own car, elected to wait here until an electrical storm ended.

She stopped at the Ferndale Tea Shop, a tourist inn, with two men and two other women who were in her automobile. Another machine accompanied them. Although the storm was not very severe, Mrs. Hoover told her friends she would rather not drive until it passed. After an hour of rain the storm ceased and the party left for Washington.

SMITH IS EASY WINNER IN BAY STATE PRIMARY; LEADS PENNSYLVANIA

Davis Ahead of Butler in Contest for Senate Nomination.

M'FADDEN LEADING WIFE OF GOVERNOR

Minor Trouble Reported at Philadelphia Polls; Councilman Is Arrested.

Philadelphia, (Wednesday) April 27, (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt, once political allies, were running almost neck and neck early today as returns from the State presidential preferential came in slowly. Eight hundred and seventy-four of the State's 8,181 districts gave:

Smith, 11,881.
Roosevelt, 11,389.

These figures included the vote of nearly a third of the 1,586 districts in Philadelphia, where much Smith strength was concentrated.

In the fight for the Republican senatorial nomination, Senator James J. Davis, former Cabinet member, who recently came out for prohibition modification, was leading the fiery former Marine officer, Smedley Butler, outspoken dry, more than two to one.

Pinchot Aided Butler.

Returns from 1,334 of the 8,181 districts gave:

Davis, 152,210.
Butler, 68,530.

Davis had the full support of the Vare-Martin State organization. Butler campaigned the State with the aid of Gov. Gifford Pinchot. He launched frequent attacks on what he called "the corrupt machine."

The latest returns included totals from 433 of the 1,556 districts in Philadelphia, stronghold of William S. Vare. There Davis had a 4-to-1 lead which was only partly reduced by the early figures from the rural counties in which Butler's strength materialized.

These 433 districts gave:
Davis, 72,301.
Butler, 18,363.

McFadden's Slight Lead.

In another Republican fight, Representative Louis T. McFadden, veteran of Congress, had a slight edge on Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the governor. In 79 out of 312 precincts of the widespread Fifteenth Congressional District the vote was:

McFadden, 6,944.
Mrs. Pinchot, 5,754.

Mrs. Pinchot jumped into the race after McFadden had made his speech from the floor of Congress criticizing President Hoover for his international finance policies and accusing him of "selling out" to Europe.

The task of compiling the returns was slowed down by the fact the

Pershing on Leviathan, Resuming Reich Trips

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—Carrying Gen. John J. Pershing as passenger, the Leviathan steamed out of New York harbor tonight to return to Germany for the first time since the outbreak of the World War.

Originally christened the Vaterland, pride of the Hamburg American Line, she made her last trip to Germany when that country ordered shipping stopped in 1914. Renamed by the United States Government in 1917, she transported thousands of doughboys overseas to fight the Germans. Since the war, her route has been to Southampton and Cherbourg. The little seaport of Bremerhaven is her destination this trip.

Heflin Pleads 5 Hours for Senate Chair

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Granted two hours as a courtesy, then given an extension, former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, talked for 5 hours and 10 minutes in the Senate yesterday.

At the end, the enchanted spectators burst into applause, and, consequently, were driven from the gallery.

Twilight was filtering through the cathedral-like windows as the marathon neared an end, and Tom, soaring on the wings of eloquence, was trying to carry the dozing senators back to the days of chivalry; back to Charlemagne and his brave nephew, Roland.

"Sir Roland," Tom bellowed, "Sir Roland, true to his oath and to his king. * * *"

Just what Sir Roland had to do with the matter at hand—the Heflin-Bankhead election contest—was not clear, but for the time it seemed that Sir Roland had been reincarnated; that he stood there in the person of Tom Heflin himself.

Glorified by his own lilting words, Tom stood in the Senate aisle holding out the shield of righteousness and hurling his lance at the dragons of

LAGUARDIA CHARGES MART NEWS FRAUD

Financial Writers Bribed by Stock Promoter, Is Claim in Quiz.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

An air of electric expectancy set off a news photographer's flash bulb prematurely yesterday morning in the public hearing room of the Senate banking and currency committee. The explosion turned out to have occurred behind the great, stuffed chair of the calm and philosophical Carter Glass, of Virginia, and it was thus that Peter Norbeck's personal "big surprise" in the stock exchange investigation literally got off with a bang.

The surprise turned out to be, as every one had guessed, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, the indefatigbly vociferous Tom Thumb of the House of Representatives, who once again had caught on to the tail of a sensation to hurl him dramatically to page one of the newspapers.

Mr. Glass opened the theatricals with a demand that all photographers be removed a reasonable and safe distance from the chairs of senators, and Mr. Couzens, of Michigan, followed in an impulsive moment with a demand that no pictures whatever be allowed in the committee room. When

11 Seized in Plot to Stage Synagogue Mass Holdup

Detroit, April 26 (A.P.).—Eight men and three women were held today on charges of planning to raid Shaarey Zedek Synagogue in Chicago boulevard at the close of one of the Passover services and stage a mass holdup of 1,500 or more persons in the congregation.

The plot, police said, failed when three men acting suspiciously in the temple Monday were arrested and questioned. Information obtained from them led to the arrest of eight others.

Permanent Padlock Asked For 'Jimmy LaFontaine's'

Prince Georges County Grand Jury Berates Officers for Laxity in Duty, "Due to Lack of Training and Mental or Physical Inability."

A demand that Jimmie LaFontaine's place be kept closed and an accusation that "laxity of duty," due principally to lack of proper training and often because of mental or physical inability," had been noticed among Prince Georges County officers were contained in the report submitted yesterday by the county grand jury.

Negligence was found "on the part of constables, members of the sheriff's office and members of the police department," the report said. The jury suggested that officers be appointed only on their merits as "mentally active, physically fit, and honest." "No other influence should have any part in the appointment of officers," the report continued.

The report called attention to suggestions that county policemen might have access to the school for State policemen, but made no recommendation that this be done. It also suggested that "officers who are not conducting their investigations properly or making the necessary arrests to warrant a conviction" should be replaced.

Regarding "Jimmie's place," the report stated:

Two-to-One Advantage Held as Full Slate Is Selected.

HOOVER IS ASSURED OF 31 OF 34 BALLOTS

36 Convention Votes Are Involved in Roosevelt's Big Down East Test.

Boston, April 26 (A.P.).—A full slate of delegates-at-large favoring Alfred E. Smith for President was elected by Democratic voters of Massachusetts today to represent this State in the national party convention. Incomplete returns from district delegates contests showed Smith candidates also to be leading in a majority of the districts reported.

Returns from nearly half of the precincts of the State, including a majority of the precincts of Boston, gave the Smith candidates for delegates-at-large a lead of more than 2 to 1 over the rival slate, pledged to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York.

Senator Walsh's Lead.

Returns from 769 precincts out of 1,685 in the State gave Senator David I. Walsh, leader of the Smith-pledged-at-large delegation, 55,516 votes, against 22,111 for Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, leader of the Roosevelt candidates for delegate at large. Mr. Curley, high man at this point, on the Roosevelt State-wide slate, was trailing 27,000 votes behind the lowest candidate on the Smith ticket.

The Democrats will send 36 votes to the national convention. The fight for Smith here was led by Gov. Joseph B. Ely and United States Senators David I. Walsh and Marcus A. Coolidge.

Senator David I. Walsh led the Smith group with 38,309 votes, against 13,933 for Mayor Curley.

In the Republican primary, President Hoover was assured of 31 of the 34 votes available. In the few district contests, the single Hoover-pledged candidate in the First District was far ahead in early returns. a Hoover-supported candidate in this district was running about even with the unpledged candidate, William F. Whiting, of Holyoke, former Secretary of Commerce.

G. O. P. Wets Far in Lead.

In another Republican contest, in the Ninth District, where prohibition was the issue between two Hoover-pledged sets of candidates for district delegate, the antiprohibitionists were far ahead.

Mayor Curley late tonight virtually conceded the defeat of the Roosevelt slate of candidates.

Smith Voices Gratitude On Massachusetts Vote

New York (Wednesday), April 27 (A.P.).—On the basis of a Boston Post estimate that he had carried Massachusetts three to one in the primary balloting for Democratic national convention delegates, Alfred E. Smith early today issued the following statement:

"The figures as revealed by the Post naturally make me feel very happy and full of gratitude to all my friends in faithful Massachusetts. Tomorrow I will endeavor more adequately to express my appreciation."

FINANCE COMMITTEE URGES HIGHER RATES

Connally Offers Amendment for 50 Per Cent Tax on $2,000,000 Incomes.

Decision on income tax rates to be incorporated in the billion dollar tax bill was postponed again yesterday by the Senate finance committee in the face of determined efforts to increase the normal and surtax rates put in the bill by the House.

Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, is fathering an amendment to increase the surtaxes to 50 per cent on income of $2,000,000 or more.

Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, introduced an amendment striking out the House bill rates and substituting for them the maximum war-time income taxes.

The House bill, under study by the committee, carries a maximum of 40 per cent surtax on income over $100,000. Advocates of heavier taxes on larger incomes have expressed confidence that they would be able to force an increase in the House rates, both surtax and normal. The House normal maximum rate is 7 per cent on incomes in excess of $8,000. Advocates of higher taxes want the normal maximum raised.

Connally Submits Proposal.

The committee approved a proposal by Senator Connally making the income rates apply to Americans residing abroad temporarily, including Government representatives, although Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, opposed it, saying it would do harm to American trade.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills won a point when the committee agreed to eliminate the House provision making the normal income rates apply to dividends received from corporations.

Inheritance and gift tax levies also remain to be determined. The committee approved several administrative changes in the House bill, including rules for application of the gift tax. But it did not pass specifically on that section nor on the inheritance rates. There has been opposition expressed to the House rates as too high. There also have been expressions from committee members that large estates and gifts should be taxed heavily.

Against Inheritance Levies.

Secretary Mills was one of those who protested against the House inheritance levies. He suggested they should not be more than 25 per cent, which would be an increase of 5 per cent over the present law.

The committe also changed the House provision dealing with reserve accruals of insurance companies, making the exemption 3¾ per cent, or the actual rate of accrual if higher than that. The committee also allowed insurance companies the $1,000 corporation income exemption.

Senator Jesse H. Metcalf (Republican), of Rhode Island, introduced an amendment providing for a graduated special tax on pleasure boats running from $2 on boats under 20 feet to $100 on those over 100 feet.

Smith-Roosevelt Parallel Explained

Columbia Professor's Statement on Tariff Given to Both for Use.

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—New light was thrown today on the mystery of how Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith came to make almost verbatim references to the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill in addresses five days apart.

Raymond Moley, associate professor of government at Columbia University, said the reference was included in a statement on the tariff written by Lindsay Rogers, professor of public law at Columbia, and that copies were supplied both to Roosevelt and Smith. The statement was given to Roosevelt for use in preparing a radio speech on April 7. It was given to Smith on March 22.

The governor did not make use of it in the radio talk, but on April 18 incorporated the reference to the Hawley-Smoot bill in his St. Paul address. Five days before, at Washington, Smith in his Jefferson Day speech had said almost the identical words.

Judge Dismisses Counts On Takoma Taximen

Dismissing charges of disorderly conduct preferred against two Takoma Park taxicab drivers by a third taximan, Judge Charles W. Woodward yesterday told them that he would settle any future taxi wars fittingly when they were brought before him. Warrants charging disorderly conduct were sworn out by A. C. Wolfe against Paul Stewart and David Soper, of a rival company, when they accused him of cutting prices in Takoma Park.

Charges of larceny preferred against Lloyd McClellan, of Takoma Park, also a taxi driver, by Wolfe, will be heard May 3. McClellan told police he was half owner of the cab and had not known that his partner was selling it to Wolfe and that he took a headlight from the cab, which was parked in Wolfe's drive while under the impression it was his own car. The taximen were arrested by County Policeman James E. Shoemaker and Town Policeman Frank Lane.

Tubes Attached to Teeth Make Deaf Persons Hear

"Speaker" Changes Sounds Into Vibrations Which Are Carried to Inner Ear; Device Seen as Aid to 15,000,000 in America.

How science has bridged a gap and sent sound vibrations circling around disabled ear organs to bring hearing to the deaf was demonstrated for the first time at the meeting of the Academy of Sciences here yesterday.

This has been done with a device which performs a vital function of ear. In the normal ear three small bones transform sounds into vibrations and carry these vibrations to the fluid of the inner ear.

When these three bones are disabled, the sounds are not transformed and the person does not hear. The device, developed by Dr. Frederick Bedell, of Cornell University, is a substitute for the three bones of the middle ear.

The machine consists of a "deaf speaker" which is attached to a radio, phonograph or a microphone for direct conversation. The vibrations are conducted from the speaker to the deaf person's teeth, cheek or forehead in a tube.

When a person speaks into the microphone, the sound is changed to vibrations, which are carried through the bones of a person's head to the inner ear and hearing results.

Dr. Bedell says that four-fifths of all deafness occures in the middle ear. His "speaker" is made to bring hearing to this type of deafness.

The "speaker" makes no noise, yet the deaf person hears through the vibration tube. It is believed that the device will be useful to many of the 15,000,000 hard of hearing persons in the United States.

Motion pictures which stand out in relief as did the old stereopticon views were described by Dr. Herbert E. Ives, of the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

These "movies" are made by a way of bending light rays with the result that the pictures are not distored when viewed from an angle and have depth.

The method of exposing the pictures and fixing the film to achieve the effect was described by Dr. Ives. The film contains views of the same scenes taken from several angles and "mixed" together.

When the film is projected upon a special screen the effect of the mixing is the depth and relief of the pictures. Light rays from the screen reach the two eyes of an observer from different angles. The effect of this is to make the viewer, in effect, see the picture from two different points.

The complication of the machines used for making these pictures makes their commercial adaption remote, Dr. Ives said.

New objects discovered in "space" indicate another universe similar to our own, according to Dr. Edwin Hubble, of Mount Wilson Observatory, Calif.

He described shining star clusters like those of the "universe" or star system to which the world belongs. They were located in and near the great Andromeda nebula, whose light takes 800,000 light years to reach the earth.

HOUSE VOTE IS SLATED TODAY ON ECONOMY BILL GAG RULE

C. William Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, a member of the economy committee, will propose the plan as a substitute, from the floor. Republican members of the economy committee will support it. Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Republican floor leader, has thrown his strength behind it.

Passage of major items in the sweeping economy bill, after a "hard test," was predicted last night by Representative Henry T. Rainey, Illinois Democratic floor leader.

Leaders on both sides agree that fights, second only in importance to the pay cut strife, will center around proposed consolidation of the Army and Navy and cuts in veterans' compensation and free hospitalization, also embraced in the bill. Representative Snell predicted the Army-Navy merger, opposed by the administration, will be stricken from the bill.

McDuffie Cites Vital Need.

The "imperative necessity" of recommending these and other economies, was stressed last night by Economy Chairman John McDuffie, in his belated printed report on the bill. He placed the savings figure at $200,000,000, while admitting variable estimates on economies. Savings from the Army-Navy merger alone, he said, would range from $50,000,000 to $200,000,000.

Justifying proposed reductions in Federal veterans' expenditures, he said the cost of this item "hangs over the future of the country like a black cloud."

"Under existing laws, and assuming there will be no additional benefits granted, the cost of veterans' relief ten years hence will substantially exceed $1,300,000,000 annually," he said.

Views on Pay Cut.

Concerning pay cut provisions, the report had this to say:

"After mature deliberation in the effort to be fair to all classes, it concluded that a formula which would exempt the first $1,000 of salaries paid and which would impose on the amount of the salary in excess of $1,000 an 11 per cent cut, would be the fairest method of effecting the end sought. It imposes as light reduction as possible on those in the lower brackets as is consistent with a reasonable policy of retrenchment."

Citing precedent in action of municipalities in cutting wages from 3 to 20 per cent, the report enumerated Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Minneapolis, Cincinnati and Kansas City.

Chairman McDuffie estimated the limitations on veterans' compensation would mean dropping 28,300 from the benefit rolls. He made the following detailed estimates of savings under the bill:

Elimination of Saturday half-holidays, $9,000,000; suspension of automatic increases in pay, $2,100,000; retirement of superannuated civilian employes, $3,000,000; reduction of railway mail clerks' subsistence allowance, $3,000,000; reduction of travel allowances for members in Congress, $56,500; restriction of Army and Navy personnel transfers, $3,366,000; reorganization of the Shipping Board, $2,500,000; reducing veterans' benefits, $48,714,000.

As to the President's limited powers to reorganize the Government, the committee, "while unable to name any definite sum as a saving under this title, believed that a very large annual reduction in expenditures is made possible," said the report.

Chairman McDuffie submitted a table showing savings under various pay-cut percentages and exemptions. It disclosed that $105,152,000 might have been saved if the committee had fixed the exemption at $500 under the 11 per cent plan; that only $38,260,000 would be realized if the exemption were raised to $1,500, and $18,332,000 if increased to $2,000.

Before the report was submitted, an attack was launched on congressional salaries on the House floor. Representative Guy U. Hardy (Republican), Colorado, proposed members' and senators' pay be reduced to $9,000; Representative Robert L. Bacon (Republican), New York, suggested a cut to $7,500. Offered as amendments to the legslative appropriation bill, neither plan was acted on.

On the Senate side the steering committee gave the George bill for presidential reorganization of Government right of way on the Senate calendar. Only two items will precede its consideration. The bill is largely similar to reorganization provisions contained in the omnibus bill.

Cut in Jobs Cited.

Senator Oddie (Republican), Nevada, introduced in the record a letter from Commissioner of Internal Revenue David Burnet, pointing out that 2,206 revenue employes must be dropped if the 10 per cent slash is approved in the Postoffice-Treasury appropriations bill.

Representative James M. Mead (Democrat), New York, chairman of the House postoffice and post roads committee, painted a dire picture of what might happen if the Postoffice bill is cut. It would mean, he said, no mail delivery in some rural districts, two or three times a week in others, abolition of village delivery service and only one delivery a day in city residential sections.

He opposed pay cut and Federal furlough plans, contending the latter would cost postoffice clerks an average of $958 a year, when loss of overtime pay and other factors were considered.

To Seek Opposition Harmony.

Representative Mead this morning will meet with Chairman John J. Cochran, of the House expenditures committee and Chairman William P. Connery, jr., of the House labor committee and others interested in opposing employe retrenchment plans. An attempt will be made to coordinate opposition.

Representative Connery and a number of pay-cut opponents have been absent from the city, participating in their State primaries. Representative Cochran said they all would be back today. Representative LaGuardia said if they are not back he will sponsor a "filibuster" until they return.

Beginning today, the House will hold day and night sessions until the omnibus bill is disposed of, probably late Friday.

House leaders yesterday found a new place to economize. Chairman Joseph J. Mansfield, of the rivers and harbors committee, announced all bills for waterway improvements have been eliminated from the legislative program. Thirty-eight improvements recommended by the War Departent engineers, including $124,000,000 for the upper Mississippi, are affected.

HINES BARES TOTAL VETERANS' EXPENSE

Says Cost of Another War Will Be Spent by Government by 1945.

(Associated Press.)

Expenditures on World War veterans were described yesterday by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines as equivalent to "financing another war."

The administrator of veterans' affairs told the House ways and means committee that if the present rate is continued until 1945, "the Government will have spent $21,500,000,000, or the cost of the war, on the war's veterans."

Hines was called before the committee as an opposition witness to cash payment of the soldiers' bonus. He spoke for nearly three hours, filling the record with a maze of figures regarding the 3,539,507 certificates now in force.

At no time did Gen. Hines state his personal attitude toward the bonus issue, though he advised newspapermen he would do so if asked later by the committee. But he attributed much of the belief that full payment of the bonus now is due veterans to the form in which the certificates were printed.

"We printed on the certificate its face value twenty years hence, and not the actual amount of the bonus determined due the veteran," he said.

From the mass of statistics introduced by Gen. Hines, spectators gleaned that:

Full cash payment of the face value of the bonus certificates would cost $2,422,826,014.

About 400,000 veterans eligible for loans have not borrowed on their bonus certificates, leaving $317,525,000 available for lending.

Outstanding loans aggregate $1,386,828,000.

To cancel interest charges on loans until the certificates mature in 1945 would cost $1,116,708,000; to remit interest to date would cost $55,000,000.

About 600,000 veterans are unemployed, and from 500,000 to 700,000 on part-time employment.

field included nearly 2,400 State, district and local candidates.

In the face of the almost total absence of final results from the Smith-Roosevelt duel for 68 district delegates to the convention, and the meager State-wide totals on delegates at large, factional leaders reiterated their preelection claims.

Delegates Not Bound.

Followers of Gov. Roosevelt predicted he would gather in from 60 to 65 of the 76 convention votes. Smith leaders conceded Roosevelt was certain of a bloc of 28 delegates, largely in districts where all entries were regarded as being pledged to the New York Governor.

On the other hand, they maintained Smith would get the entire bloc of 14 delegates from Philadelphia, half Allegheny's 10, and the Luzerne-Lackawanna districts.

Among the 20 candidates for delegates-at-large who will have half a vote each, contests exist for only four places. The other 12 have agreed to abide by the preferential vote.

Of the remaining eight candidates, four have held out for an uninstructed delegation. Their four opponents are Roosevelt men.

The preferential vote, under the State law, offered little more than an opportunity for a moral victory for the winner. The delegates at large, who have agreed or declined to be bound by the State totals, will emerge from the fight legally free to vote as they see fit at the national convention at Chicago. Roosevelt advocates were hoping that the vote would be of such a majority that both the Pennsylvania delegates and other States would regard it as the final handwriting on the wall. Smith supporters, with equal confidence, predicted a close or fairly close result—and one which would still leave the delegates free to support whomsoever they desired.

Representative Patrick J. Boland (Democrat), won renomination on both tickets in the Eleventh Congressional District, which embraces all of Lackawanna County. He was unopposed for the Democratic nomination, and in the Republican primary he was leading the nearest of two opponents by 16,714 to 4,575, on the basis of nearly half the returns.

Councilman Arrested.

Minor trouble was reported in various parts of Philadelphia.

Councilman Windom Bryant was arrested on a charge of "interfering with the conduct of an election while an officer and an employe of the city." A Negro voter accused him of handing out sample ballots and interfering with the election.

The issuance of about a dozen warrants in the Fourth Congressional District climaxed one of the most bitter fights in the city.

There Arthur Sellers, deputy coroner, and Representative Benjamin Golder were the contestants for the Republican congressional nomination.

The William S. Vare organization had turned thumbs down on Golder and had put Sellers in the running against him.

Golder's followers had the warrants issued, charging their opponents with illegal assistance to voters. A judge of election, two organization committeemen and other Vare workers were among those named.

The Vare forces also concentrated against former Mayor Harry A. Mackey, a candidate for the General Assembly, who was opposed by Howard M. Long, a former United States commissioner.

Mackey, before his split with the organization, managed Vare's campaign for United States senator in the famous fight in 1926.

FINANCIAL WRITERS BRIBED, CHARGE MADE BY LA GUARDIA

the senatorial pulses resumed their normal palpitations the examination of Mr. LaGuardia began—in all seriousness.

Mr. LaGuardia, it developed, had been looking into this stock exchange business for several weeks. He stood ready now to place in the record his broad and charitable judgments of men—both living and dead—and institutions in Wall street and all its byways.

The nub of Mr. LaGuardia's statement—which he buttressed with a trunkful of "evidence"—was that in 1924-1925 a certain New York financial promoter had paid large sums of money to financial news writers for puffs and ballyhoo supporting their issues. All of this, Mr. LaGuardia charged, was part of a nefarious conspiracy to "rig the market" and to "pawn off worthless securities on the people of the United States."

In the recital of his conclusions, Mr. LaGuardia frequently gave expression to an almost uncontrollable indignation, and nearly every point he made was sustained by voluminous newspaper clippings.

Near the end of the hearing the laconic Mr. Watson, of Indiana, asked the witness:

"Have you anything fresh?"

"I believe," Mr. LaGuardia replied, "that the same sordid story could be told of almost every stock pool. I believe the same thing took place in the Kreuger stocks."

Checks Exhibited.

At the beginning of his testimony the little Representative spoke in such a low voice that Senator Couzens, the other Republican member of Senator Norbeck's steering committee, asked him to speak out. This he did.

One A. Newton Plummer, described as a New York publicist, was named by Mr. LaGuardia as the man who had paid out a total of $286,000 to financial writers for publicity. Three checks made out by Plummer in 1924 were held aloft before the committee. Two, for $50 each, were in favor of J. F. Lawther, then connected with the New York Herald-Tribune, but now unknown to New York newspaper circles. The other was for $140.02, in favor of W. J. Jomper, then on Financial America.

Pulling his material from the trunk like a magician at a rural matinee, Mr. LaGuardia produced scores of examples of stock market ballyhoo, some of which, he said, had been paid for in cash in cases where certain financial writers were "ticklish about taking checks." He told the committee he did not wish to disclose the name of the payoff man at this time.

A check for $184 was offered as evidence of a payment to one Charles P. Murphy, of the New York Evening Mail. It was dated December 5, 1924. Reminded later that the Evening Mail was not published under that name after January, 1924, Mr. LaGuardia explained:

"There may be some confusion about the dates, but the facts are correct."

Mr. LaGuardia did not volunteer much information as to how the "evidence" came into his possession. He was so fearful that it might be hijacked from him, however, that he placed it in the custody of the Washington police about ten days ago. Soon after it was produced in the committee room yesterday, it was divulged that most if not all of the material had been gathered as part of a projected expose of Wall street.

The same A. Newton Plummer had gathered the material laboriously for some fifteen years, while he was engaged in publicity work in New York. But he had been indicted soon after he began work on the book.

Mr. LaGuardia did not go into detail as to the nature of the indictment, nor did he mention the publisher or prospective date of publication of the book.

Operations Specified.

Specifically, Mr. LaGuardia cited alleged paid publicity operations in Savage Arms, Indian Motorcycle, Pure Oil, Maxwell Motors, Simms Petroleum and Superior Oil, and named financial writers formerly connected with the Wall Street Journal, New York Times and the New York Evening Post.

Plummer, he said, would tell to whom he had paid $171,000, but refused to specify payments of $114,000 as the men either had died or were out of jobs.

Step by step, in illustration, Mr. LaGuardia traced the alleged operations in Indian Motorcycle. It had started, he said, at $5.50 a share on November 30, 1929, when only 500 shares were traded. It reached a high of $17 on March 8, 1931, when 171,000 shares were traded. On June 28, 1931, 5,900 shares were traded again at $5.50.

"The same thing took place in Kreuger bonds and stocks," Mr. LaGuardia said. "They were sold to the small retired business man, school teachers, dentists, lawyers, doctors with a little money to invest."

"It has been stated by members that the exchange has nothing to do with promoting or ballyhooing stock," he said at another point. "I am prepared to say that any such statement is false."

As proof of misleading statements about stocks, LaGuardia drew from his documents a communication sent by Hornblower & Weeks to customers on March 3, 1932, predicting a bull market or a "period of accumulation incident to a bull market."

"Any such optimistic prophecy is not justified," he added. "For good reasons, I do not want at this time to make public the name of the payoff man," LaGuardia said.

Soviet Recognition Welcomed as Issue

Fish Says That Republicans Would Like to Fight Against Proposal.

(Associated Press.)

A challenge to make Russian recognition a clean-cut party issue came yesterday from Representative Fish, New York Republican. In a statement he referred to assertions by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic leaders in the Senate and House, favoring recognition of Moscow and added:

"Both of these Democrats hold official positions, and to date no Democrat in high authority has taken the trouble to repudiate or even oppose such declarations.

"If the Democratic party intends to go on record in favor of recognition it should place such a plank in its platform and I am sure the Republican party would welcome such an issue and uphold the record of the last three Republican administrations in opposition to recognition of the Soviet regime.

"The American people are entitled to know whether the Democratic leadership in the House and Senate represents the position of the Democratic party on this important issue."

Garner's Record For Labor Cited

Rayburn Shows Speaker's Consistent Advocacy of Such Legislation.

(Associated Press.)

Support of labor legislation by Speaker John Garner was the subject yesterday of a letter from Representative Rayburn (Democrat), Texas, to Garner Club officials in California.

Rayburn, national representative of the Texas Garner-for-President committee, wrote:

"Mr. Garner always has been a consistent advocate and supporter of legislation in the interests of labor. Particularly outstanding in this connection was his successful effort made during the present session to secure enactment of the anti-injunction bill.

"He was in full accord with the eight-hour law of 1916, but was unable to vote thereon as he was in a hospital at the time the bill was before the House. He voted for the Barkley bill in the Sixty-eighth Congress to provide for expeditious and prompt settlement, mediation, conciliation and arbitration of disputes between carriers and their employes and subordinate officials.

"There have been no roll calls in the past three or four Congresses on major labor legislation, but the Speaker has consistently voted viva voce on legislation along these lines."

Mitchell Refuses Opinion for Senate

Declines to Say Whether Recent Rail Mergers Violate Law.

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Mitchell, in a letter to the Senate yesterday, declined to express an opinion on whether recent railroad mergers or combines had violated antitrust laws. His statement was in reply to a resolution by Senator King (Democrat), Utah.

"The first two subdivisions of this resolution request me to give an opinion to the Senate on the legal phases of the subject matter of the resolution," Mitchell wrote. "I feel obliged to refrain from responding to this request."

He cited a long list of precedents, and added:

"Congress has accepted this long-standing interpretation of the law and has never attempted to look to enlarge the powers or duties of the Attorney General so as to require him to give opinions to either house of Congress or to committees thereof. * * *

"With the utmost deference for the request of the Senate, I am obliged to decline to give an opinion in this case."

Senate Credit Act Called Farm Aid

St. Paul Banker Praises Provisions of Norbeck-Steagall Bill.

(Associated Press.)

Passage by the Senate of a measure to make debentures of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks more liquid was characterized yesterday by F. H. Klawon, president of the Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Paul, as an important step toward "giving the farmers a lower rate of interest."

He said the Norbeck-Steagall bill made credit bank debentures eligible collateral for loans from Federal Reserve Banks to members of the Federal Reserve System.

"As the bill has been reported favorably by the House committee on banking and currency," Klawon added, "we anticipate it will become a law shortly. It will give the debentures of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks a higher degree of liquidity so that those purchasing them will be able to get cash quickly for them should a condition arise making it necessary for them to do so. It has been estimated that it should reduce the rate of interest borne by the debentures by ½ to 1½ per cent.

SMITH FAR AHEAD IN BAY STATE VOTE

and now a resident of Massachusetts, carried the fight to the smaller cities and towns during several weeks of campaigning. The Smith forces made little effort to fight back until the week before the balloting, when the campaign leaders took the stump in Smith's behalf.

Curley, who himself had been a Smith supporter in 1928, argued that the voters should work toward the nomination of a candidate "who can be elected."

Walsh Says Vote Shows Smith Still Formidable

(Associtaed Press.)

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, declared last night the early returns from the Massachusetts presidential primary showed that Alfred E. Smith will be a "formidable figure" in the Democratic national convention and that his candidacy had been given "a strength and impetus that must be reckoned with."

"The emphatic majority in favor of Gov. Smith far exceeds expectations," he added. "Massachusetts results further indicate that Gov. Smith has millions of loyal followers in the Democratic party who still believe in him and accept his leadership."

New Haven's Delegates Are Assured for Smith

New Haven, Conn., April 26 (A.P.).—The largest bloc of delegates to the Democratic State convention was virtually assured Alfred E. Smith, presidential candidate, as a result of overwhelming victories tonight in New Haven ward caucuses.

Supporters of the former New York Governor elected 184 delegates against 11 for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to the town convention which meets Thursday to choose New Haven's 61 delegates to the State gathering. Other Connecticut towns will choose their delegates to the State convention Thursday.

CRISP TO MAKE RACE FOR SEAT OF HARRIS

Will Oppose Gov. Russell for Unexpired Term; George Has No Opposition.

Atlanta, Ga., April 26 (A.P.).—Representative Charles R. Crisp announced his candidacy today for the unexpired term of the late Senator William J. Harris in opposition to Gov. Richard B. Russell, jr.

The governor announced his candidacy yesterday with the appointment of Maj. John S. Cohen, president and editor of the Atlanta Journal, to serve as Senator Harris' successor until after the elections in November.

Representative Crisp, dean of Georgia's delegation in Congress, made his announcement in a statement issued at Macon. He was en route to Washington from his home in Americus.

They will contest in the Democratic primary in September for the remainder of Senator Harris' term that expires in 1937.

The primary will witness the nomination of two senatorial candidates.

Senator Walter F. George's term expires in March of next year, and he is a candidate for the nomination again. Thus far no opposition has appeared.

Veteran political observers say it will be the first time Georgia has ever voted for two senators simultaneously.

Gov. Russell's action left the gubernatorial field open, and already two aspirants have announced their candidacies and another is expected tomorrow.

Those having declared are H. B. Edwards, a representative in the State Legislature, and Dr. John R. Lewis, Louisville.

Eugene Talmadge, State commissioner of agriculture, has intimated to associates that he will announce tomorrow.

Maj. Cohen met Gov. Russell at the governors' conference in Richmond today and received his senatorial credentials. He indicated he would go to Washington and take the oath of office forthwith.

Hotel Men Merge Convention Bureau

Board of Trade Committee to Take Over Work of Discontinued Unit.

The Washington Hotelmen's Association has discontinued operation of its convention bureau, after an existence of ten years, and merged it with the Greater National Capital committee of the Washington Board of Trade, it was announced yesterday.

Augustus Gumpert, who was in charge of the hotelmen's bureau, will become associated with Curtis Hodges, executive director of the Greater National Capital committee, and C. N. Nichols, the latter's assistant, in direction of the new work.

Hotels have agreed to support the work of the committee, which last year brought scores of conventions to Washington, hundreds of thousands of tourists, and disseminated millions of words of publicity and hundreds of pictures.

PRESIDENT WELCOMES DAUGHTERS OF 1812

MRS. GANN SPEAKS ON MENACES IN U.S.

Stresses Dangerous Influences in Times of Stress to Daughters of 1812.

Declaring that if this Nation ever perishes "it will be through suicide," Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, told the National Society, United States Daughters of 1812, last night that organizations such as theirs "must protect the country from the dangerous influences within."

Speaking at the annual banquet of the society at the Willard on the subject of "The Principles Which Endured," Mrs. Gann said "the greatest vigilance is needed in times such as these," and that the problems of the day "must be met by sound thinking and sound judgment." She observed that "atheism and communism and similar insidious influences have their readiest audiences in such times as these, when poverty besets the Nation."

Mrs. Gann projected her predictions against a background of the War of 1812, citing "the heroic achievements" of the United States Army and Navy. "The American volunteer, then as now," she said, "has proven himself to be the finest in the world."

Wears Colonial Costume.

Mrs. Gann, attired in colonial costume, as were the Daughters, congratulated the society for its sponsorship of the bill to make "The Star-Spangled Banner" the national anthem.

The society was also addressed by Mrs. Henry Bourne Joy, national president, Founders and Patriots of America; Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, national president, Daughters of American Colonists; Mrs. Russell William Magna, newly elected president general, Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. John F. Weinman, who spoke on "The Girl of 1812," and Mrs. Horace M. Towner, of Iowa, regent of the Mount Vernon Association, who stressed the importance of preserving the Washington home as Government property so that it can be a shrine that will always endure.

Mrs. Magna told the Daughters "that the finest thing a man or woman in America today can be is an American; that his finest duty is to support American institutions; his finest contribution, citizenship, and his higher honor to belong to a patriotic organization."

Defend Washington.

Mrs. Joy and Mrs. Buel took issue with the insinuations that Washington was not a deeply religious man, citing quotations from the First President which reflected his belief that religion and morality "were indispensable."

Mrs. Robert J. Johnston, national president of the society, presided; Mrs. Samuel Williams Earle, Mrs. Samuel Preston Davis and Mrs. Samuel Z. Shope, honorary national presidents, brought greetings.

Miss Emily Roosevelt sang, and a musical reading, entitled "Old Virginia Reel," was given by Mrs. Augustine Todd, accompanied by Miss Anne Mary Bentley. Patriotic airs were played by the United States Marine Band. Mrs. Daniel Webster Snyder, of West Virginia, was chairman of the committee in charge of the banquet.

MOVIE TAXATION HIT BEFORE PEN WOMEN

Censorship Outside Profession Also Scored by Connery at Convention.

Describing the moving picture theater as "the poor man's paradise," Representative William P. Connery, of Massachusetts, spoke in opposition to all forms of taxation on moving picture theater tickets at last night's session of the sixth biennial convention of the National League of American Pen Women at the Willard.

Representative Connery pointed out that taxation of this amusement prevented the poor man from obtaining the relaxation "he needs so badly at this period." He also opposed censorship, "except by the profession itself," declaring that "it is needed within the profession."

Nominations of national officers and State vice presidents for the term of 1932-34 will be the principal business at this morning's session. The convention closes tomorrow.

Drama Awards Presented.

B. W. Goldwyn addressed last night's session on "The World Influence of Motion Pictures." Awards were made as follows by Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, national president, to winners of the drama contest.

Mrs. Dorothy Anderson Hogie, of Elizabeth, N. J., won first prize with a play entitled "Illusion;" Miss Antoinette Q. Scudder, of Newark, N. J., second, with a play, "Rescue;" and Mrs. Francesca Falk Miller, of Chicago, Ill., third prize, with a play, "Treasures in Heaven."

Mrs. Miller, who is State vice president, won first prize last year. She is author of sixteen one-act plays and six three-act plays, and has three published books of poetry on the market.

Other Leaders.

Honorable mention was given to Anne Charlotte Darlington, of 1810 Massachusetts avenue northwest, for "The House of the Star;" second honorable mention went to Mrs. Eva Decker Shippe, of Worcester, Mass., for "Contract;" third, to Mrs. Carmea L. Kesting, of Kansas City; for "Acclimated;" fourth, to Mrs. Frances K. Read, of New York, for "Prelude," and fifth, to Miss Gertrude I. Thomas, of Minneapolis, for "Autumn Leaf."

Judges for the drama contest were: Theodore Johnson, Boston publisher; Martin Luther, play publisher and editor of the Expression Magazine, of Boston; S. Marion Tucker, former judge and editor of the Drama League Contests, of New York, and Edward Goodnow, director and manager of the Copley Theater, of Boston, and a director-manager of the Tamworth Summer Theater.

5 DIE, SEVERAL HURT IN GEORGIA TORNADO

Three Homes Are Destroyed; One of Child Victims Is Blown 50 Yards.

Nashville, Ga., April 26 (A.P.).—A tornado dipped into a farming community 7 miles southeast of here today and killed five persons, injured several others and destroyed three homes.

The bodies of the victims, Mrs. Everett Gaskins and two children, the young son of Clarence Padgett and the small son of Joe Harrell, were brought into Nashville, and the injured were taken to a hospital at Valdosta, Ga.

Mrs. Gaskins' husband and two other children were reported in a serious condition at Valdosta. One of the Gaskins children was not expected to recover.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaskins and their four children were in the house when the tornado struck, reducing it to kindling.

The storm left roads and fields in the vicinity strewn with debris of the wrecked houses and limbs torn from trees. Scores of trees were uprooted.

No damage was done in Nashville, although there was a high wind and a heavy rain here.

Reports here said the three houses were the only dwellings struck in that vicinity. It was in them that the deaths occurred.

W. M. Carlton, of Nashville, visited the area shortly after the tornado struck and said a number of small farm buildings had been wrecked by the wind.

"The road was littered in the vicinity with tree limbs which had been blown off by the wind, and with other debris," he said. "An automobile near the point where the storm struck was blown 100 yards and torn to pieces. An iron safe was blown out of the house of Mr. Everett Gaskins. One of the Gaskins children was blown about 50 or 75 yards from the house, which was wrecked."

British Nursery Pupil Treads on Wales' Toes

Newcastle, England, April 26 (A.P.).—A youngster named Patrick, who is a pupil at a nursery school near Gateshead, probably will be telling this story years from now.

The Prince of Wales visited the school today and as the children crowded about him he stepped on Patrick's foot.

"Oh, I'm sorry, Patrick," said the prince, "now you can tread on mine."

Solemnly Patrick stamped on the royal toes.

2 SEIZED IN CHICAGO IN FATAL OHIO BLAST

Men With Stolen Car and Explosives Suspected of Complicity.

Chicago, April 26 (A.P.).—Ohio's search for the explanation of a blast which wrecked its new State office building in Columbus, with loss of ten lives, today involved two men arrested here in a stolen automobile loaded with explosives and dynamiting tools.

They were Edward B. Wallace, 30, once a Federal convict, and Frank Wilson, 24, both of Columbus. They were seized last Thursday in possession of dynamite and tools stolen from the S. A. Healy Construction Co. when it installed a sewer interceptor at Columbus about a year ago. Both were discharged for thievery, officials of the firm said.

Ohio officials first believed the building had been bombed, but later credited a theory of a gas explosion. They denied the men were wanted in Columbus for anything but car theft or as safeblowing suspects.

Wallace admitted, police here said, he had recently been employed in a subcellar of the State Office Building, a $5,000,000 structure nearing completion, which was severely damaged in the blast April 14. He refused to waive extradition to Ohio.

"Why should I waive extradition?" police quoted him as saying. "Let them send the papers on here if they want me. I know what they want me for—blowing up that State office building."

Wallace and Wilson told police they stole the automobile from George Snider in Columbus, and had intended to "blow a few safes," but knew nothing of the fatal explosion. They said they attended a baseball game in Columbus the day of the blast, and that they were en route to Davenport, Iowa, when arrested on suspicion. The car contained several sticks of dynamite, a welding torch, sledge hammer, electric drills and discs and other tools.

Pastor's Employe Gets Jail Term for Larceny

Judge Robert E. Mattingly yesterday sent Lewis Buckner, colored, to jail for 90 days after he had been convicted of a charge of larceny after trust. The colored man was given an automobile and a $20 bill by the Rev. P. L. Bjerre, 2904 Ordway street northwest, with instruction that he was to take the car to a garage for some repairs.

The colored man never reappeared, though the car was later found in the garage, with no payment having been made on the repairs. Buckner claimed he spent some of the money to have the car towed, and appropriated the rest as being wages due him.

HEAD OF PORTO RICO SOON TO VISIT U. S.

Gov. Beverley to Confer With Officials Here on Many Island Problems.

San Juan, Porto Rico, April 26 (U.P.).—Gov. James R. Beverley will sail for Washington Thursday for his first conference with the Secretary of War and the chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs on questions of policy concerning Porto Rico. Gov. Beverley was appointed to his present position three months ago while acting governor in the absence of Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

The governor, it was understood, will devote most of his efforts in Washington to obtaining an extension of the benefits of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to Porto Rico, and to securing Federal cooperation in a program that will insure impartially conducted elections next fall.

The insular Legislature during its recent session cabled Washington suggesting that the island was eager to be included in the scope of the R. F. C. Local business men sent Rafael Carrion, president of El Banco Popular, to Washington to present their needs to Congress, but no headway was made. Mr. Carrion was told that the failure to include Porto Rico specifically in the act prevented favorable action on the request. Gov. Beverley, however, apparently believes that a way yet may be found to bring the island within the scope of the act.

Striking Students Fight Police.

Rio de Janeiro, April 26 (A.P.).—Preparatory school youngsters who are on two-day strike because of increased fees had a lively fight with the police today. The students attempted to induce their friends at the art school to join the revolt. Police fired into the air to disperse them after the demonstrators had indulged in rock-throwing. Some of the rocks were flung at the police and others wrecked the windows of a Ford automobile showroom.

Experts Seek Plague Cause.

Buenos Aires, April 26 (A.P.).—Two experts on tropical diseases had gone from here to Bolivia by airplane today to determine the cause of a plague which recently broke out in the Bolivian border town of Santa Cruz de la Sierra. The plague was at first thought to be yellow fever, but this was denied by the Bolivian government. The experts were sent by the Argentine government and carried monkeys for experimentation.

Railroad Is Authorized.

Bogota, Colombia, April 26 (A.P.). President Olaya Herrera today issued a decree authorizing the National Railway Council to construct the long-planned Provedencia-Capilla de Barbosa section of the Norte Railroad. The council was ordered to assume responsibility for the Cauca department's debt to the Colombian Mortgage Bank for the Santander-Timba Railroad purchased by the nation.

$15,000 More Needed For Symphony Fund

Gifts totaling $2,000 have been made to the National Symphony Orchestra in the last three days, it was announced yesterday. The drive to complete the $75,000 guarantee fund will be continued this week. Close to $60,000 has been subscribed.

It was confidently predicted at a meeting of the women's committee in the home of Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, 2001 Twenty-fourth street northwest, that in another week enough of the fund would be subscribed to insure another concert season here under the baton of Hans Kindler.

Copepod, Relative of Crab, Is What Lures Shad to Bay

When a delicious baked shad awaits gustatory efforts on the dinner table, it is well to remember the copepod.

For it is the copepod which brings the shad into Chesapeake Bay, and ultimately to the fisherman's net and the oven.

What is a copepod? It is a tiny cousin or more distant relative of the crab and the lobster. Vast multitudes swarm in the waters of Chesapeake Bay.

Although their existence is known only to specialists, the countless millions of these creatures constitute a vital link in the ocean's biological food-producing machines.

Two species are practically the only food of the shad. It is the abundance of these almost microscopic creatures which bring the shad to the bay.

In a recent survey of the bay, five new species of this group were located, according to a report by Dr. Charles B. Wilson, of the Smithsonian Institution.

One of these kinds causes the weird phosphorescent effects of the ocean in spring. Present in countless numbers its blue-green luminosity gives the luminous effect to the sea.

JURYMEN PONDER DROWNING VERDICT

disbelieve the statement then there is nothing to the Government's case."

Mr. Collins argued that the "thwarted plan of murder in Virginia was carried to conclusion in the canal." He referred to Crowder's alleged admission that Wimbley planned to sandbag Mrs. Wimbley and her family in Dendron, Va., and burn the bodies so as to collect insurance.

Abuse of Everyone.

"The defense case," said Collins, seems to consist entirely of abuse of everyone, abuse of her mother and father, of her father-in-law and mother-in-law by her first marriage, abuse of the police, abuse of everyone but the foulest person that sits in this courtroom.

"You are to decide, gentlemen, between the word of this colossal philanderer (pointing to Wimbley) and these solid country people who contradicted his story. The defense would have you believe that this confession was the figment of police imagination. In this case, I think the police are entitled to commendation and not condemnation."

Mr. Collins said that, if Crowder's story that he accidentally tipped over the canoe while near the bank was true, a "child could have saved" both Mrs. Wimbley and her daughter, Wilma Traylor. In support of this, he cited the testimony of defense witness Paul R. Rupert, of Clarendon, Va., who said the depth of the canal sloped gradually from the bank to 8 feet at the middle.

Instructions of Proctor.

Discussing the reading of the Crowder statement to Wimbley, Justice Proctor said: "There is evidence that the statement was read to Wimbley and he made no denial or explanation of the plot. The Government contends that his failure to deny the statement amounted to assent.

"Wimbley says he has no knowledge of the reading of the statement; that he had been struck or fell from a chair and was knocked unconscious. If you believe this to be true," he advised the jury, "you should disregard it altogether. If you believe he was conscious and he failed to make an answer, it is for you to decide whether his silence amounted to assent and whether he know what was going on."

Justice Proctor also advised the jury that the testimony as to the character of Wimbley was to be used for one purpose only, and that is to decide what credit the jury should give to him as a witness.

As to the failure of Crowder to take the stand to testify on his own behalf, Justice Proctor reminded the jurors that this is his constitutional right. He told the jurors that they should draw no unfavorable inference as to his guilt because of his decision not to testify.

Change in Naming Jurors Is Favored

Plan Would Be Big Help, City Heads Declare in Report to Congress.

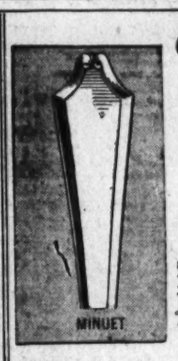

The District Commissioners yesterday reported favorably a bill designed to change the method of selecting jurors in the District after obtaining assurance from the Bureau of the Budget that the measure is not in conflict with the financial program of President Hoover.

The bill would set up a jury commission and require a prospective juror to fill out a questionnaire before being accepted for service. This would eliminate the hazard, now frequently realized, of the disqualification of jurors after a trial is under way or has been completed.

"In the opinion of the Commissioners this legislation is greatly needed and will aid materially in the administration of justice in the District," the report to Congress stated.

Four Speakers Heard; Party Tours Historic Places in Old Dominion.

Richmond, Va., April 26 (A.P.).—After a day spent in visiting Virginia's historical peninsula, members of the governor's conference returned to the capital tonight to attend a banquet and hear addresses by four executives on vital problems of State government.

Gov. Pollard of Virginia presided at the state dinner to which many prominent guests were invited. Principal speakers of the occasion were Govs. Harry H. Woodring, of Kansas; William Tudor Gardiner, of Maine; George H. Dern, of Utah, and Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland.

It was late afternoon when the executives returned from their trip which took them first to Jamestown, where they were shown what the Association for Preservation of Virginia Antiquities has done to mark the site of the first permanent English settlement in America.

Bicentennial Exercises Held.

From Jamestown they returned to Williamsburg, the colonial capital of Virginia, which they had passed through en route from Richmond without stopping. With Dr. Francis Pendeton Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University, as orator of the occasion, George Washington Bicentennial exercises were held in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at the College of William and Mary. Gov. Ritchie presented President Gaines, who told of Washington's work as an educator and asked that the work he had started be carried on as "the surest promise of a brighter dawn."

The governors and a group of other guests were entertained by the college at a luncheon, and the Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin, D. D., told the story of colonial Williamsburg and of the work now being done by Rockefeller interests to restore it to its eighteenth century appearance.

He pointed out that "The English colonial period of American history began at Jamestown, Va., in 1627 and ended at Yorktown in 1781, adding that "these two historic landmarks lie only 20 miles apart. Williamsburg, the continuation of Jamestown and vindicated by Yorktown, lies in between."

The afternoon was devoted to a tour of points of interest in and around Williamsburg and a visit to Carters Grove, where Mr. and Mrs. Archibald W. McCrea were hosts to the executives at a reception just before the start of their return trip to Richmond.

Speaks on Education.

Williamsburg, Va., April 26 (A.P.).—Governors of almost a score of States today heard Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University, assert that for George Washington education was not a matter that called for casual helpfulness, but was a central part of his dream of an ideal state.

The university president said educators might feel the glory of having in their hands Washington's unfinished work and through his example might strengthen themselves in support of education as the surest promise of a brighter dawn.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland presented Dr. Gaines to a huge throng that packed Phi Beta Kappa hall at the college of William and Mary. He recalled that his own grandfather was a Governor of Virginia and that he was a native of Virginia, having been born in Richmond.

Luncheon was served for the governors and distinguished guests at Trinkle Hall on the college campus, after which they started on a tour of inspection of this ancient Virginia capital, now being restored by Rockefeller interests to its eighteenth century appearance.

Hildrup Gets Rum Car Without Hurling Stick

Policeman H. M. Hildrup, attached to the Ninth Precinct, who a short time ago captured an alleged rum car by throwing his nightstick through the windshield, scored again last night when he surprised a man unloading a quantity of alleged liquor from an automobile parked in an alley near Thirteenth and B streets northeast.

The man said he was Roland S. Stegall, colored, 30 years old, of 1825 Seventh street northwest. He was charged with transportation and illegal possession of 126 half-gallons of alleged liquor. A bond of $1,000 was set for his release.

Heavy Sentence Given Man on Check Counts

Two of the stiffest sentences ever given in Police Court on bad check charges yesterday sent Maxwelton Thompson, 46 years old, to jail.

On one charge of bad checks, he was given 360 days, with a $500 fine, or a penalty of 180 days more in lieu of the fine. On the second charge, when Thompson's record was shown, he was given the same sentence. Police said Thompson had been arrested 38 times on various financial transactions.

Baby-Substitution to Gain Legacy Bared by "Father"

Philadelphian's Petition Says Unwedded Woman Offered Unborn Child and Refused Later, But Another Mother Turned Over Her Baby.

Philadelphia, April 26 A.P.).—Fantastic details of a baby substitution, allegedly perpetrated by a wealthy and childless married woman to collect an inheritance, and two unwedded mothers came to light today in an equity action filed in Dauphin County Court.

Euston A. Sullivan, of suburban Merion, filed a petition to strike from the vital statistics of the State the record of the birth to his wife of Grace May Sullivan on October 12, 1931, at St. Vincent's Hospital, Philadelphia. His petition denied that he was the father of the 6-month-old girl or that his wife, Helen Blair Sullivan, was the mother.

He declared the baby is the child of Miss Edith Crebbe, a Detroit nurse, who was arrested at Downington, Pa., last week in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping and subsequently absolved in that case.

Sullivan declared his wife, representing herself as Mrs. Gerald E. Hardy, visited Miss Crebbe in the maternity ward of the hospital and conspired with her to represent the baby as that of Mrs. Sullivan.

This was accomplished, it is alleged, by informing hospital authorities that Miss Crebbe in reality was the wife of Euston Sullivan and displaying the real Mrs. Sullivan's marriage certificate. The baby was registered as Grace May Sullivan.

Later Miss Crebbe refused to relinquish her baby to Mrs. Sullivan, the petition declares, but another unmarried mother at St. Vincent's, described as Mary Smith, turned over her baby, and this child was christened Grace May Sullivan at St. Margaret's Church November 8, 1931.

Sullivan says he has no knowledge of the present whereabouts of his wife or the second baby. Miss Crebbe's child is said to be in Detroit.

Just how Mrs. Sullivan's alleged fraud would have won her a legacy was not made clear. Her father was the late William L. Blair, a former partner of Milton Hershey, the candy manufacturer. Blair left his fortune in a trust fund for his widow to be divided at her death. One-half was to revert to a son, William A. Blair, and the other half kept in a trust fund, the income of which was to go to Mrs. Sullivan. At her death this principal was to go to the son or his heirs.

HEFLIN MAKES FIVE-HOUR PLEA FOR OLD SENATE SEAT

corruption. Meantime the crowd in the gallery followed the tilt as if entranced.

Toward the end Tom left Sir Roland, took a flight with Lord Byron, and then, in a paraphrase, shouted:

"Alabama shall be free. * * * By the eternal gods, the votes cast shall be counted as cast!"

This was the end, and here occurred the applause in the galleries. In the Vice President's chair at the time was that spirited senator, George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, stickler for decorum.

"The sergeant at arms shall clear the galleries," Moses roared as he rapped his gavel.

Press Briefly Menaced.

Doorkeepers scurried through the galleries, driving men and women before them, and one fellow even tried to clean out the press gallery. However, Willie Collins, emulating brave Roland, repulsed him.

The Roland in chivalry met a pathetic end, falling before the savage Gascons. And, unless all signs fail, Tom Heflin, politically speaking, is going to take a beating, too.

The Gascons in Tom's case are the men he once sat with, the men he once regaled with Negro stories, and then, finally disgusted with attacks on the Pope and Al Smith. They are Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, and most of the other Democrats in the Senate.

These Democratic Gascons are determined that Heflin was fairly beaten in the 1930 election in Alabama, and they, therefore, are convinced that Senator John H. Bankhead is entitled to his seat.

Decision May Be Today.

They think they have enough votes on the Republican side of the aisle to adopt a resolution making that the the sense of the Senate. Whether they have or not ought to be known today or tomorrow.

Heflin, whose almost every speech was tinged with intolerance before he left the Senate, did not mention the Pope yesterday.

His foe yesterday was the regular Democratic machine in Alabama, which, because of his desertion of Al Smith, read him out of the party and forced to run against Bankhead as an independent, or "Jeffersonian Democrat."

He charged that the primary which named Bankhead was a "bastard primary;" he charged that in the election itself, Heflin ballots were burned and Bankhead ballots substituted; he charged that absentees by the thousands were voted without their knowledge; he charged that school teachers, road workers and others were threatened with loss of their jobs if they failed to vote for Bankhead.

He quoted a statement made by former Gov. Bibb Graves, hero of the klan:

"Tom will get the election, but the machine will steal it from him."

He told a story about the Negro who was always getting drunk and whose church was always baptizing him anew to cleanse his soul.

"And now," he cried, "after all that ballot thieving, all that ballot burning, and all that ballot buying, you would think these gentlemen were ready to be baptized.

"The Bible says, 'I will break the jaw of the wicked and pluck the spoils from his teeth.'

"That's what I am asking for here."

The last of the picturesque statesmen began his speech shortly after noon, and neither William Borah nor Hiram Johnson ever had a better house. At the outset, it looked like a joint session, fully one-third of the members of the House being strung along the wall in the rear of the chamber. Aloft, every gallery save that reserved for the diplomats was jammed to the doors.

Time Is Extended.

The day before the Senate voted to allow Tom to speak for two hours. When he had exhausted these two hours yesterday, Tom was just getting started. It could hardly be expected that the eloquence that had piled up in Tom's system over a year or more could be spilled in two hours.

Senator George Norris, of Nebraska, therefore moved that Tom be allowed to talk until he had concluded his thoughts. Tom leaped at the chance like a seal leaping from a furnace into a lake. He talked for three hours more, flooding the record with his pleas, his diatribes, and his stories, and Mount Ararat was not finally reached until 5:10.

However, there was a purpose behind that long harangue, one aside from the present election contest. Tom intends to run soon against Senator Hugo Black, and that speech of yesterday was designed as his principal campaign document.

Student Mock Convention 'Likes' Roosevelt and Baker

Their Names Receive Greatest Acclaim at Washington and Lee Gathering; Hoover Record Castigated; Claude G. Bowers Present as "Observer."

The names of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Newton D. Baker received the greatest acclaim when presented tonight to the Sixth Democratic (mock) national convention held by students of Washington and Lee University. Adjournment was taken until tomorrow when balloting will be held.

Delegate Roberts, of New York, proposed the governor's name and sixteen delegations participated in the loud demonstration and parade led by a small automobile around Doremus Gymnasium.

Presentation of Baker's name by Delegate Curtis, of Ohio, brought a response practically equal to that for Roosevelt. He was presented as a man "who uses the weapons of intellect and courage; a spotless character."

Delegate Cremin, of Oklahoma, presented the name of his State's governor, William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, as a man "who says what he thinks."

When the name of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland was offered eight delegations paraded. Presentation of the name of Alfred E. Smith of New York, brought a small but noisy demonstration. Massachusetts seconded this nomination.

Other candidates presented to the convention were: Speaker of the House John N. Garner, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois; Owen D. Young, Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, and Harry Flood Byrd, former governor of Virginia, who was presented as "another great Virginian to meet a national crisis."

The convention opened this afternoon with the delegates making merry with noise making instruments of all varities. Keynoter Tyre Taylor, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, had difficulty in obtaining quiet so he could present his speech attacking the Republican administration.

The convention, striving to open its session at 2:15 p. m., was semi-seriously regarded by Claude G. Bowers, official keynote speaker of the Houston convention in 1928, who was present as an "observer." Bowers recalled that in five previous mock conventions the students made an exact prophecy of the actual happenings at the official conventions months later.

Bowers addressed the students in an assembly before the opening of the mock session, citing the historical differences between the two major political parties.

Taylor opened his keynote speech in traditional form.

"As we look back over the last three years," he said, "it is difficult to reconcile the course of our Government with reality. It is a horrible dream or nightmare. Such madness, not to speak of bland indifference of this Government to the welfare of its people, does not belong in the realm of sanity and broad daylight."

Taylor flayed Hoover and the Republican administration, and declared the Hawley-Smoot tariff had made America "a hermit nation," inspiring retaliatory tariffs which have driven American industry abroad. He held the Republican party in part responsible for the increase of crime.

"Perhaps the most devastating indictment that can be drawn against Mr. Hoover and his administration," he said, "is that, knowing a world crisis was impending, he and his advisers resolutely refused to face the facts and persisted in a campaign to mislead the American people. Even after the crash, when it was perfectly clear to informed persons that America was moving in the shadow of a major economic eclipse, prosperity was represented to be 'just around the corner.'"

As an indication of the powers of prophecy with which the students of Washington and Lee appear to be endowed, the record shows the nominees for previous mock conventions

1908—William Jennings Bryan. (Also nominated by the actual convention.)

1912—Deadlock between Champ Clark and Woodrow Wilson, broken when the faculty stopped the convention and the students "nominated" Judson Harmon. (They apologized for the error.)

1916—(Republican convention.) Charles Evans Hughes nominated.

1920—No convention.

1924—After a deadlock between Alfred E. Smith and William G. McAdoo, John W. Davis nominated. (The "big convention" repeated this history.)

1928—Nominated Alfred E. Smith.

ROOSEVELT WILL SIT 2 SEATS FROM HOST

Govs. Ritchie and White Rate Distant Seats for Fete at White House.

(Associated Press.)

Only a single seat will separate the leading Republican and Democratic presidential contenders when they break bread together at the White House tomorrow night.

This seating arrangement for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt of New York was tentatively agreed upon yesterday by those who juggle the delicate questions of precedent and rank at White House social functions. The occasion is the President's dinner to members of the governors' conference, now meeting in Richmond, Va.

Here is the way the problem was worked out:

John Garland Pollard, Democratic Governor of Virginia, rates the seat of honor at Mrs. Hoover's right as host to the governors' conference.

Norman S. Case, Republican Governor of Rhode Island, as chairman of the conference's executive committee, has the second honor seat, at Mrs. Hoover's left.

Gov. Pollard's official hostess, or, in her absence, Mrs. Case, of Rhode Island, will sit at President Hoover's right hand.

Gov. Roosevelt of New York, who ranks third in the list of male guests by virtue of his membership on the conference's executive committee, would sit next to the Virginia hostess, or Mrs. Case, on the President's right.

The White House social arbiters gave weight in their deliberations first to membership upon the governors' executive committee and second to the date when the States represented entered the Union.

Under this system another candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland will be seated some distance from the President. So also will be Gov. George White of Ohio, Democratic "favorite son" choice of his State.

MASSIE PROSECUTION CLAIMS TRIAL POINT

defense set up the claim that Massie was insane only from the time Kahahawai admitted attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the accused officer, until Massie was arrested less than two hours later.

Fighting for sympathy for the accused quartet, George S. Leisure, associate of Clarence Darrow in the defense, attacked Ulrich's statement that the political future of Hawaii was involved in the forthcoming verdict. Leisure argued that Ulrich was taking a rather selfish view in asking the jury to consider the fate of the Territory rather than that of the defendants alone.

Although attorneys on both sides of the case expressed a desire to get the case to the jury tomorrow, the arguments of Darrow and Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley and Judge Davis' instructions to the jury remained to be delivered. Darrow said he would require about three hours, beginning tomorrow morning.

Ulrich's argument contained remarks such as:

"You can not allow yourselves to follow your feelings."

"The alleged fact that the deceased assaulted the wife of one of the defendants furnishes no defense for any of the defendants."

"If you accept this insanity plea, then you publish to the world that Hawaii is a safe place to commit murder if you have money enough."

"You can not make Hawaii safe against rape by licensing murder."

The defense attorney pictured to the jury how Massie had suffered and said there was nothing in the jury's oath to make conviction either compulsory or desirable.

He asserted the prosecution had been forced to abandon an attempt to prove first degree murder. The four are charged with second degree murder.

ARCHITECTS OF U. S. TO MEET HERE TODAY

65th Convention of American Institute Will Be at Mayflower.

The sixty-fifth convention of the American Institute of Architects will open at 10 o'clock this morning at the Mayflower Hotel with an address from the president of the institute, Robert D. Kohn, of New York.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the institute will be celebrated with a dinner at the Mayflower at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Officers will be elected and fellowships and other honors awarded.

Conference on Capital.

The Bicentennial conference on the National Capital will be held Friday morning, when the institute will join with other national societies to shape a program to further the plan of Washington.

The convention is expected to result in action to develop cooperation in the building industry, and housing and public works will receive particular attention. Speaking on the trend of modern home building, William Ludlow, of New York, chairman of the committee on industrial relations, told The Post last night that he believes "the personal home will continue to flourish, even though the rich no longer build palaces."

Hoover Survey Criticized.

He took exception to the first report of President Hoover's survey on social trends in which it is pointed out that the rich Americans are ceasing to build palatial homes, and that this may mean the passing of the personal surburban dwelling and the rise of the model village or the standardized house.

"The model village and standardized house are indeed much to be desired to house a certain class of people, but the passing of the individually built and owned home would be a calamity," Mr. Ludlow asserted.

PLAN TO REFINANCE FARM DEBTS RAPPED

Proposal Held "Disastrous" by Loan Board Leader Before Senators.

(Associated Press.)

Farm leaders, Government officials and the Senate agriculture committee yesterday were told by Paul Bestor, chairman of the Farm Loan Board, that the Frazier bill to refinance farm debts "would be disastrous to the country."

The group, gathered to discuss ways in which relief can be provided, heard Bestor oppose the measure sponsored by the North Dakota Republican as not founded on sound business principles.

"If you can do anything to relieve commodity prices," he told the group in answer to Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, "you will surely relieve the farmer. Anything, that is, within the realm of reason."

The Frazier bill provides for a bond issue and notes to permit loans to farmers at 1½ per cent interest to refinance their indebtedness. This, Bestor termed "class legislation," and said while it would relieve the farmers temporarily, the ultimate effect would be "to destroy the farm-loan system."

Defended by Frazier.

He told Chairman McNary he did not think the lowered farm rate would have much effect on urban home or industrial loans and that competing farm lending groups could not meet it.

Frazier, questioning him sharply, contended "the sound basis of value is the land value," asserting "if that isn't a sound basis, then we have none in the country."

"As Wall street gamblers borrow money cheap," Frazier said, "it is hardly becoming of you, Mr. Bestor, as chairman of the Land Bank System to oppose this bill as giving the farmer special privileges."

John A. Simpson, president of the Farmers Union, which is sponsoring the Frazier bill, told the group "shipping interests" get loans at from ⅜ to ⅝ per cent.

Favors Low Rates.

Bestor said he favored the lowest rates possible for farmers, but not contrary to sound principles.

Asked by Simpson if he thought the Farm Board was going to "save this situation under present plans and policies," Bestor replied it was confronted with a hard job.

The Farm Loan Board leader told E. A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, that liberalization of loan requirements to embrace more borrowers might aid in the general situation.

The allotment farm relief plan will be presented before the conference today by M. L. Wilson, of the Montana State Agricultural College.

Hale's Naval Bill First on Calendar

Banking Reform Measure Second and George's Proposal Third.

(Associated Press.)

The Hale bill to build up the Navy to the London Treaty strength was given calendar preference yesterday by the Senate steering committee.

The banking reform bill of Senator Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, was placed second in order, followed by the resolution of Senator George (Democrat), of Georgia, authorizing the President to reorganize the executive branch of the Government.

Fourth on the list announced by Chairman Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, came the Democratic emergency road fund bill, long since approved by the House. The resolution of Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, providing for Government operation of Muscle Shoals, or for leasing the properties under a number of conditions, was made next. Sixth and last was the Hawes-Cutting Philippine independence bill.

Keller, 1124 Morse street northeast, Washington, and Miss Elizabeth Aldridge, of near Washington, narrowly escaped serious injuries yesterday when an automobile in which they were riding caught fire near Middletown and was wrecked. State road officers said the car struck a truck parked along the road, smashing the gasoline tank. The flames spread so rapidly that the occupants barely had time to climb to safety.

Miss Aldridge was taken to the City Hospital and after treatment for lacerations and bruises was discharged. Wolf was arrested and fined $1.75 by Magistrate J. Hollin Kefauver for reckless driving. The Middletown Fire Department was called to extinguish the flames. The party, on a trip through Western Maryland, was taken home by District of Columbia motorists.

Col. Patrick Quinn Quits Democratic Committee

Providence, R. I., April 26 (A.P.).—Col. Patrick H. Quinn, Democratic national committeeman from Rhode Island since 1916, today announced he would not be a candidate for re-election when the Democratic State convention meets next month. Col. Quinn, who is widely known in the party nationally, said he was withdrawing from the field in the interests of party harmony.

He has been opposed by former United States Senator Peter Goelet Gerry, who, it is understood, seeks the national committee post.

Dry Referendum Planks By Both Parties Urged

Little Rock, Ark., April 26 (A.P.).—A proposal that the Democratic and Republican parties include a common plank in their platforms to submit the prohibition issue to a referendum of the people was made at the Republican State convention here today by J. A. Tellier, keynote speaker.

"This method ought to be acceptable alike to proponents and objectors, for the paramount question is not temperance or intemperance, but the enforcement of law or unbridled racketeering which is asserting itself over and above the law," Tellier said.

HIGHER GRAIN RATES ASKED BY RAILROADS

Four Wheat States Would Be Hit by Program Offered at I. C. C. Hearing.

Chicago, April 26 (A.P.).—Higher grain rates would be imposed on four prime wheat States in proposals made today by Western trunk line railroads at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on freight rates of grain and grain products.

James P. Cherry, of the carriers' rate committee, offered the proposals which would increase rates in Kansas, Oklahoma, North Dakota and Nebraska as a railroad exhibit in the general rate hearing.

A. B. Enoch, chairman of the carriers' legal committee, termed them "an attempt to preserve the present income" of the roads. Rates for the Far West and Pacific Northwest probably will be presented tomorrow.

The increases would run as high as 25 per cent but some reductions in rates were included. Rates from Kansas points to Kansas City and from North Dakota points to Minneapolis were hiked highest. These points received favorable consideration in the grain rate structure built by the commission last summer and later thrown out by the Supreme Court after the carriers had petitioned for a rehearing.

Rates from Oklahoma points to Galveston and Houston, under the proposals, were advanced more as a general rule than those from these points to the Kansas City market.

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about the flavor of CHESTERFIELDS—something about the blending and cross-blending of fine tobaccos—that gets to you, every time.

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about their mildness, too. It is the mildness that comes from the ripest, sweetest, mellowest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos. There is no bitterness in them . . . no harshness.

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about the taste. It is that good, pleasing taste that comes from the right kind of tobacco, cured in the right way—cured for two years or more. It means that to make CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes, millions of dollars are tied up in tobacco leaf—but it's worth it.

CONGRESS KEEPS ITS PORK.

The public should not be deceived by Congress demagogues who harp on economy and then take pains to see that pork-barrel appropriations are not disturbed. Both the House and Senate have taken action which reveals a callous disregard for human beings and a tender solicitude for pork.

In enacting the Interior department bill Congress carefully provided for pork-barrel projects, on the excuse that this squandering of money will provide employment; yet the horizontal cut in other items in the bill will throw out of work 6,000 full-time and seasonal employes.

In the Treasury and Postoffice bill another 10 per cent horizontal cut is to be made. It is specifically provided that the pork-barrel item of $4,500,000 for "new construction" in twelve favored States shall not be disturbed. Here again the excuse is that the new construction will provide employment; yet the cut in other items will well-nigh paralyze both the Treasury and Postoffice departments. Between 40,000 and 60,000 employes will have to be discharged. Among them are internal revenue officials who will be needed to collect revenue under the new tax law. Congress is imposing new and complicated taxes, and yet proposes to make it impossible to collect these taxes.

An increase of letter postage rates from 2 to 3 cents is necessary for revenue purposes; and yet the bill under the Senate's 10 per cent cut will result in wretched postal service. Railroad mail clerks will have to be discharged. The work of assorting mail will be delayed until it reaches the city of destination, delaying deliveries by at least twelve hours. Towns with carriers will be deprived of them. Rural mail carriers must be discharged and routes consolidated, resulting in two or three deliveries a week instead of six as at present. Thousands of clerks would have to be discharged, thereby increasing the unemployment burdens of many cities.

The House promptly accepted the Senate's cut in the Interior department bill, together with the careful safeguarding of the pork-barrel feature. There is no reason to doubt that the House will agree to the mutilation of the Treasury and Postoffice bill, throwing 40,000 to 60,000 men out of work while distributing $4,500,000 in pork to favored States. Secretary Mills' warning that the Treasury will be unable to administer the new tax law efficiently with a heavily reduced personnel seems to have had no effect. Hence it may be expected that there will be delay, confusion, and loss of revenue. The estimated yield of taxes under the new law will not materialize if the Treasury is unable to collect the taxes.

The House has passed the pork-barrel roads bill, making a gift of $132,000,000 to States which have already failed to match the Government in providing road-building revenues. This bill is cunningly framed to win western votes, and it accomplished its purpose in the House. It will almost surely pass the Senate, as the number of western senators interested in this pork is greater than the number of senators who might oppose the measure for the sake of real economy or because they do not get their share of pork.

Fortunately this bill has met with executive opposition and will encounter a veto if it reaches the President.

The House proceeds with its plan to strike off 11 per cent of all Federal salaries over $1,000. This will invite a general wage-cut throughout American industry.

Thus, according to the plans of Congress as thus far developed, thousands of employes are to be discharged outright, others already underpaid are to be gouged, the public service is to be mutilated, and pork-barrel appropriations are to be undisturbed. Such is the statesmanship of Congress as it stands. That is the much-advertised "cooperation" of Congress with the President in effecting economies in the Federal establishment.

CREDIT AND CONFIDENCE.

While Secretary Mills was outlining in New York the relief program of the Hoover administration, the Federal Reserve Board announced in Washington the first fruits of the credit expansion movement designed to turn commodity prices upward. Leading member banks of the Federal Reserve system increased their loans and investments by $61,000,000 last week. This additional credit undoubtedly flowed into the channels of business and industry.

Ever since last September the loans and investments of banks have been contracting. Banks have been struggling to put themselves in a liquid position. Relief measures adopted by Congress and the Federal Reserve Board have now made it not only possible but profitable for banks to extend new loans and renew old ones without fear of being unable to meet the demands of their depositors. Consequently, the credit extended to the public increased last week for the first time in nearly seven months.

This fact coincides with Secretary Mills' opinion that the forces of deflation have fairly well spent themselves. The way seems to have been cleared for recovery, if the people are ready to take advantage of it. "Credit and confidence," says Secretary Mills, "are the magicians that must solve our paradox for us." Uncle Sam has set powerful forces in motion to restore credit. It is up to the people themselves to supply the confidence.

The period between September and March brought about one of the most drastic deflationary movements that the country has ever witnessed. Prices fell 7 per cent; production, 9 per cent; loans and investments of Federal Reserve member banks, 12 per cent, and deposits in those banks, 16 per cent. These figures tell the story of a vicious deflationary circle. But hoarding seems to be on the decline and, if the expansion of credit continues, the entire circle of economic forces should begin moving in an upward direction.

"The only way that I know to bring adequate relief to the people of the United States," said Mr. Mills, "is to set in motion forces that will make economic recovery possible". The Government has made a contribution of inestimable value toward that end. It remains for business enterprises and the consuming public to supplement these efforts, going forward in confidence.

THE POSTAL PROBLEM.

The Senate finance committee is wrestling with the postal deficit in its relation to the tax bill. A large number of witnesses appeared before the committee to protest against the increase in first-class postal rates which was written into the House bill. The proposed 3-cent stamp looms up as one of the most controversial items in the bill.

Postmaster General Brown has estimated the deficit in his department at $150,000,000 for the next fiscal year, not including special expenditures. Such an enormous loss for a business enterprise is very disconcerting. Nearly every one agrees that the Postoffice Department should be self-sustaining, aside from the subsidies granted to ocean mail, air mail and franked mail. But the method by which that condition may be achieved is the subject of controversy.

The Treasury recommended and the House adopted a 50 per cent increase in first-class postal rates, which is calculated to raise $100,000,000. That is the most simple method of raising postal revenue. But first-class mail already brings a substantial profit to the Government, while second-class mail shows a loss of 78 per cent; third-class, a loss of 28 per cent, and fourth class, a loss of 12 per cent. Interests which make extensive use of first-class mail strenuously object to subsidizing the other classes.

The popular theory that first-class mail does not have to meet private competition and can, therefore, be taxed without loss of patronage is unfounded. More than 60 per cent of all first-class mail is purely commercial in character. With a 50 per cent increase in postage rates much of the advertising that is now distributed by this method would be driven into third-class mail, or into private channels. Many concerns could distribute their own advertising for less than 3 cents per piece. It is quite probable that the amount of revenue to be derived from 3-cent stamps has been overestimated.

At first glance, the contention that each branch of the postal service ought to pay its own way is appealing. But it is well known that second-class matter, consisting of newspapers and other publications, would immediately be diverted to private carriers if the postal rates were increased. Likewise higher parcel post rates would shift a large part of this mail to express companies. This makes it extremely difficult to divide costs equally between the different classes of mail, even though that may be theoretically desirable.

As a matter of fact, the Postoffice Department can not compete with private carriers on an even basis. Virtually all the difficulties of the postoffice system arise out of that fact. While rates are being increased it would be well for the postal committees to look into this problem and to suggest remedies that will enable Uncle Sam to hold the business he now has in the postoffice system. Higher first-class rates seem to be necessary to balance the budget, in spite of the inequities they will entail. But every practical step should be taken to eliminate the inefficiency and extravagance which make it necessary for the postal system to operate various branches at a loss in order not to lose business to its competitors.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

The present Philippine government was created by Congress sixteen years ago under an act known as the Jones law. It is patterned after the American Government. It is invested with wide local powers. As the Constitution and the Federal acts are not in force in the islands, the Philippines have in effect more independence from the Federal Government than have the States of the Union.

The bill of rights in the Constitution is incorporated in the Jones law. This means the Filipinos have individual liberty. But they have no right to declare war, which relieves them of the obligation to prepare for war. The Philippine government does not concern itself with international problems, thereby enabling it to address its energies entirely to internal affairs.

Over 98 per cent of the government personnel are Filipinos. The Legislature is 100 per cent Filipino in membership. The chief justice of the supreme court is a Filipino. A Filipino can be appointed governor general under the Jones law. To present graphically the extent of the Filipinization of the government, an American who runs afoul of the law is arrested by Filipino police, charged by Filipino prosecutor, sentenced by Filipino judge and incarcerated by Filipino warden.

There are two Filipinos in Congress elected by the Philippine Legislature. They have a voice but no vote, but their voice is one of thunder, for it has a commanding influence. They receive from the United States Treasury the same salary and perquisites as members of Congress. Filipinos are admitted to West Point, the Naval Academy, the Army and Navy, the civil service and the merchant marine. They are not subject to the immigration laws, and they receive the same service from American consulates and embassies abroad as is accorded American citizens.

Contrary to general belief, the Governor General of the Philippines, who happens to be an American, is not the representative of American sovereignty in the islands. That representative is the Philippine government as an organic entity of which the executive is an integral part. The other branches are as much agents of the United States as the executive branch. The appointment of a Filipino as governor general is a matter of administrative policy.

Legally speaking, the Filipino political leaders who hold office under the Jones law are Federal officials. That they devote considerable attention to the extra-governmental activities of Philippine independence promotion does not alter by a scintilla their legal status. The Filipino Federal officials are clothed with a dual representation. They act both for the Filipino people and the American sovereign power. That some get their office by election and others by appointment is only a method provided for in the Jones law. The right to elect is only a right delegated by that act. The sovereignty does not reside in the Filipino people today.

The Philippine government is created to govern the islands, not to decide on their future political status. An independence resolution by the Philippine Legislature, while legitimate, is extra-jurisdictional. It belongs under the same general category as a resolution of a State Legislature on a treaty pending in the United States Senate. Its weight is measured primarily by its soundness, reasonableness and timeliness.

The Hawes-Cutting bill in the Senate recreates the Philippine government into the Commonwealth of the Philippines, to exist until a new status is decided upon by Congress after a Filipino plebiscite is held fifteen years after its passage. In the meantime America's sovereignty is not impaired; only her responsibility is recast and redefined.

An elective executive is provided for, and over the commonwealth government an American high commissioner will rule and reign. In theory and in hope, this official is to be a guardian angel to keep the Philippines from involving America in international complications and to function as a watch-dog on the insular treasury. In practice, the high commissioner has the death-dealing powers of a high executioner of Filipino liberties. That he will occupy the executive mansion in Manila according to specific provisions of the bill is not a mere matter of residence, but is symbolic of his overshadowing authority.

Judged on the basis of political science, the government which the Hawes-Cutting bill purposes to erect in the islands constitutes a backward step in the process of granting the Filipinos an increasing measure of self-government. The Foreign Policy Association, many of whose officials favor early independence, doubts whether the bill will bring about independence at all. In their quandary the Filipinos seek light and clarification.

Triumph for President.

Hartford Courant.

The President has accomplished no greater triumph during the congressional session than the acceptance by the committee on economy of the House of Representatives of his omnibus measure for reducing governmental costs. The surrender of the committee reveals the barrenness of their own ideas on the matter. When the President originally advanced his proposals, the leaders of the House were emphatic in declaring that they would have nothing to do with them. Their attitude would have been justified had they been able to agree upon a satisfactory alternative measure, but they were not. Confronted after weeks of futile discussion with a concrete program by the President, they had no choice but to abandon their own pretensions, which they have done.

The Saga of a Scientist and the Vermin He Made.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

DR. WEN, the great scientist, completed his 865th experiment and sat down to await results. In the bottom of a test tube lay a small brown object no larger than a pea. Wen tilted the tube and the object slid out on the table.

Then the impossible happened. The object began to pulsate. It lived. Science had learned to create life!

But this was not the end of the miracle. As Wen leaned over the table, breathless with amazement, the live thing grew larger, writhed in a curious convulsion and divided itself into halves. The severed portions pulsated still. Their shape changed. Heads, arms, legs appeared. And before the incredulous scientist's eyes there came into being two perfectly formed bipeds no larger than his thumbs. Male and female he had created them.

It isn't necessary to tell of Wen's pride in achievement, of his awe, his painful sense of responsibility, his fascinated interest, his affection for the creatures he had made. He neglected all other matters to study the miracle he had wrought.

And yet, so easily do we overlook the obvious, a year had passed before he realized what he had made of himself.

The little creatures had been fruitful. Their progeny swarmed all over the laboratory. All were like the first pair in appearance, but in all other ways they were different.

The first two had been tame. They recognized Wen's voice and followed him about. But as the little creatures multiplied, they developed other interests. Although he provided food enough for all each day, they fought over it and played sly tricks to get more than they could use. And they selected certain spots on the floor which they claimed for their own and defended against intruders. Busy at their own little affairs, they no longer appeared to hear Wen's voice.

Wen had learned their simple language and had installed amplifiers to make their faintest squeak intelligible. He knew their every thought.

On the morning of the 366th day, the little creatures fell on their knees as usual when Wen poured out their food. Adoration shone in their uplifted faces. "Why," said Wen, "the little beggars worship me."

Next morning tragedy came. By signs and by punishments Wen had warned his creatures not to climb up on the table lest they find some poison and die.

They had disobeyed. They had broken his law. Scores of them lay dead on the table and on the floor. And the survivors, many of them ill, shook their tiny fists at him and cried out against him.

"My fault, eh?" said Wen. "Well, it's true I made you but that fault can be undone."

And he swept them into the sewer.

Reckless Blocs.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

This power of the blocs in Congress has recently been strengthened by two factors—the failure of the last elections to give either party a clear working majority in House or Senate and the radical changes in the House rules which have weakened committee control of legislation.

Some political observers are worrying over the effect these congressional bloc activities may have on the coming presidential campaign in cutting across party lines and confusing such issues as taxation, governmental economy, currency inflation and the tariff. They foresee wholesale transfers of allegiance by members of both parties.

This opens up an interesting subject for speculation. But of more immediate practical importance is the question whether at this session one bloc will be able to defeat a sane and adequate new tax bill, another to sidetrack the first vigorous move for governmental economy that has been attempted in a generation, and still another to force down the credit of the United States by debasing the dollar. What is needed more than anything else is a restoration of responsible party control in Congress to hold in check the reckless little groups that threaten to play hob with constructive legislation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Reader Analyzes Proposed 11 Per Cent Salary Cut of Federal Employes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What could be more hypocritically unfair than the action and the proposed action of Congress on the perennial question of equalization of government workers' pay?

After some 30 or 40 years of agitation and labor the reclassification act was passed. The unequalization was increased by the lower paid receiving a small increase and the already higher paid receiving a larger and unfair increase. That was unsatisfactory and some who thought they were fair minded involved the Welch bill with the ostensible idea of mollifying the dissatisfaction.

Then came the riot.

Workers who were receiving $1,200 per year were given the generous increase of $60 a year. Some who were getting $1,800 were given $120 increase, an increase of 5 per cent and 6 2-3 per cent respectively. And some who were getting $2,000 were given $3,500, an increase of 75 per cent, or more than the entire augmented salary of the lower paid employe.

Some who were getting $4,000 were given $6,000, $6,400, $7,000, and some who were getting from $4,000 to $6,000 were given as much as $8,500 and $9,000, and so on in thousands of instances. For record of cases see Mr. Blanton's speech in Congressional Record of April 14, 1932.

Now comes the report of the House economy committee after eight weeks' labor and proposes a reduction of 11 per cent on all salaries over $1,000.

Take the conscientious striver who had an increase from $1,200 to $1,260. Eleven per cent from $1,260 leaves $1,121, $79 less than his original meager pay. Take the man who had an increase from $4,000 to $7,000. Eleven per cent from $7,000 leaves $6,230, still an increase of $2,230, over his former grossly unequal pay.

If the 11 per cent cut becomes law, may we not hope for many new faces with new, fresh minds to consider the fairness of legislation regarding compensation? N. H. C.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE CHANGING WORLD.

Is it possible that we
Shape this world by what we see?
Build it, make it, write its terms,
Catalogue discovered germs
And spend all our time and strength
To increase its breadth and length?
Is this world the very same
Into which Christ Jesus came?

Does the graybread chemist grope
To enlarge man's view and scope?
Does the old earth pass away,
And with every dawning day
Is it possible some change
Brings a new world and a strange?
Who can tell what wonders loom
In the laboratory's gloom?

When men learn what forces rule
Atom, grain and molecule,
Who can say on land and sea
Just what wonders yet may be?
Who will dare to prophesy
What new suns will ride the sky,
Or what great discovery soon
May put man upon the moon?

Is it possibe that we
Limit life by what we see,
And with map and chart and plan
Fix the boundaries of man?
May be marvels yet unfound,
Which discovered may erase
All we've learned of time and space.

FORD TELLS HOOVER OF NEW FARM PLAN

Believes That Factory Hands Could Save $500 Yearly by Tilling Own Land.

(Associated Press.)

A gray-haired and quiet spoken automobile manufacturer, Henry Ford, of Detroit, outlined to President Hoover yesterday his newest plan for saving factory workers about $500 a year through combining farming and industry.

Ford's visit to the White House came as a surprise. Even he himself appeared startled when suddenly surrounded by a group of newspapermen as he was leaving the Executive Mansion.

The manufacturer explained he had spoken to Mr. Hoover of an experiment in progress on his Dearborn farm. Its details, he said, could not be fully explained at this time.

Outline of Farming Plan.

Ford intimated his plan centered upon having big factories place their workers within reach of open country upon which they could conduct small scale, scientific farming.

It was his belief, he asserted, that with a small piece of farm land, perhaps part of a community plot, a worker could raise sufficient foodstuffs to supply many of the needs of his family table while still retaining a factory job. He indicated he would make a more detailed statement of his plan shortly.

The manufacturer seemed shy under the barrage of questions shot at him from all sides. He was clearly grateful when a companion, who had remained in the background, stepped up to whisper in his ear: "Mr. Ford, your car is waiting."

To Visit Virginia Gardens.

"I'll be out as soon as I can get there," he replied.

He explained, smiling, that with Mrs. Ford, a garden enthusiast, he was going to motor through Virginia to "look over some flower gardens" during the exhibitions there this week. He was headed, he said, for Richmond.

Asked if he had discussed the economic situation with the President, Ford said he had reiterated his idea that "if people who quit business to go into gambling several years ago would quit that and go back to producing something, they could sell all they produce."

'Forgotten' German Soldier Is Released

Veteran Held Prisoner by French 12 Years Until Case Is Revealed.

Berlin, April 26 (A.P.).—Paul Schwartz, a German army veteran, who was forgotten for twelve years during which he was a French prisoner of war at Devil's Island, came back to Germany today once more to enjoy freedom. His case was a hodgepodge of conflicting law. Born in Corsica of German parents, he was taken to Alsace-Lorraine by his family when still an infant, and when the war started he joined the German army, doing service until the armistice.

In 1919 Schwartz went to Kiel to join his mother, who had moved there after his father died. Kiel was in French hands then, and, because Schwartz had no traveling papers, he was arrested. When it was discovered that he was a native of Corsica, the French charged him with high treason, for Corsica is French, and the French law claims as citizens all children of the second generation born on national territory.

Schwartz was court-martialed and sent to Devil's Island. For years he was forgotten. Then some one told the foreign office about him, and the French commuted his sentence.

The committee will meet again when China and Japan have accepetd the agreement reached at Shanghai.

Tokyo, April 26 (U.P.).—Declaring that Japan must reject the League of Nations committee of nineteen resolution on the Shanghai question, the newspaper Mainichi said today that the question of Japan's quitting the league is now a matter of mere formality.

Depression Is Described As Blessing in Disguise

By JOHN J. DALY

GREED and the worship of riches are said to be the cause of the present slump. If that is so, everything ought to be easily mended—for who is greedy, and who is rich?

The beautiful part of the whole business is this: Everbody now is about on the same level—office boys and chief executives, senators and scholars, stock brokers and bums on park benches.

Bachelors and married men are standing on common ground. The bachelors, who thought they were lucky because they had no wives to support, are now called upon to take care of their nephews, nieces and maiden aunts. Married men, who once had to support their wives, are now letting their wives support themselves.

So everything is evening up.

It probably is good for the entire race, since it sets people to thinking—and when people start thinking, things begin to happen.

• • • •

SOMEBODY will come across an idea, pass it along, and the world will start off to a new high. Thought, after all, is more potent than wealth, and friendship greater than riches.

People, being brought closer together, begin to cooperate—and where there is cooperation there is peace.

Nations—which are nothing more nor less than families grown large—are all in the same fix, and that, too, is a good thing, for the nations and for the families.

So, you see, everybody ought to be mighty happy, because everybody, more or less, is suffering from the same malady, which is a blessing in disguise.

Quota on U. S. Leather Exhausted in France

Paris, April 26 (A.P.).—The American quota on patent leathers other than kid, on worked and tanned cowhides and on calfskins, is exhausted for the second quarter of this year and no more may be imported until June 30, the official journal announced today.

Goods shipped or bonded before the present notice will be allowed to enter France, however. The import quota on industrial leather goods from countries other than Great Britain, Germany and Luxembourg, as well as incadescent lamps from countries other than Germany and Holland, also is exhausted until June 30.

Russian Farm Operatives Gain.

Moscow, April 26 (A.P.).—More tractors and other agricultural machines are in the fields of Russia than ever before and on April 20 the sown area was double that on the same date of last year. The government's figures showed 16,106,750 acres had been sown on that date as compared with 8,297,500 at the same time in 1931. This year's planting program calls for cultivation of 255,875,000 acres as compared with last year's 243,712,500.

Stirling to Return From Peru Today

Ethnologist Had Harrowing Experiences Among Head-Hunters.

Mathew W. Stirling, chief of the bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, after two months of harrowing experiences among the head-hunting Jivaro Indians of Peru and Ecuador, will arrive in Washington today, it was announced yesterday by officials of the institution.

Stirling, who recently was reported a victim of the head-hunters, a report which caused much concern before the rumor was discounted through an official communication from the scientist, arrived in New York Monday bearing an extensive collection of Jivaro Indian trophies for the National Museum.

According to Associated Press dispatches, he found the tribes a most friendly people, although curious, as the men weave their own cloth and do the family laundry.

England May Cancel Russian Trade Pact

London, April 26 (A.P.).—Great Britain is considering cancellation of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement with a view to more equal distribution of trade between Russia and Great Britain, Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, told Parliament today.

He said the government had been impressed by the fact there was a large preponderance of sales of Russian products in Great Britain in return for comparatively small purchases of British goods by the Soviet. Board of trade figures for 1930 show exports to Russia of £6,000,000 and imports of £34,000,000. In 1929 exports were £3,000,000 against imports of £26,000,000.

Utah Bank Department Loses Plea for U.S. Loan

Salt Lake City, April 26 (A.P.).—The State Supreme Court today ruled that the Utah banking department is without authority to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on assets of closed banks.

The court divided three to two on the case, brought by a depositor and stockholder of a local bank.

3 HAVANA STUDENTS GUILTY IN PLOTTING

Machado Is Held Periled by Arms Scheme; 8-Year Sentences Given.

Havana, April 26 (A.P.).—Three former Havana students, tried by military judges week before last for violation of the 1904 explosives law, have been found guilty and sentenced to eight years imprisonment, it was announced today.

The court returned the verdict immediately after the trial ended, but, as in the case with all such decisions, it was submitted successively to the fifth military district, the army chief of staff, the department of war and navy and President Machado before being made public.

Charges were lodged against the defendants—Ruben de Leon, Ramiro Valdes Daussa and Rafael Escalona—after Marianao police and army officers entered the house they occupied in Alnendares suburb last January, and said they found cached arms and ammunition.

In a garage nearby the raiders discovered an automobile loaded with dynamite, so contrived as to be set off electrically from some distance. This, witnesses charged, the youths had prepared to assassinate high authorities of the government.

Five days are allowed for appeal, in case it is decided to take such action. If the case is appealed it would next be heard by the superior military council and, finally, by the supreme court.

Senator William E. Borah brought the reported plight of the three students to the floor of the United States Senate on April 11 with the statement that he had been told they had been imprisoned two months and had been denied permission to see attorneys or friends.

Mr. Borah said if his information was correct he did not think it was a matter in which the United States could be indifferent.

Havana officials admitted the youths had not been allowed to see friends and relatives in order "to prevent further plotting."

An official said the youths had six times placed an automobile in a position to blow up President Gerardo Machado of Cuba before they were arrested.

Ireland's Oath Bill Faces Test Today

Fate Depends on Attitude of Labor Group; Held to Violate Pact.

London, April 26 (A.P.).—Dominions Secretary J. H. Thomas told the House of Commons today that President Eamon de Valera's bill to abolish the oath of allegiance amounted to repudiation by the Irish Free State of the settlement of 1921, under which the Dublin government accepted Dominion status in the British Empire.

The bill will meet its first real test in the Free State Parliament tomorrow, when it comes up on second reading. The party of former President William T. Cosgrave has filed notice of its opposition. Whether the measure is adopted depends on the attitude of the Labor members who hold the balance of power.

The Dominions secretary informed Parliament that Mr. de Valera had been told in unmistakable terms about the British government's position that the bill violates the Anglo-Irish settlement.

FERRARA, RETURNING TO CUBA, MAY ACCEPT FOREIGN MINISTRY

has often been invoked with the government to assuage the rigorous decrees and arbitrary decisions that have sometimes been announced there.

The most important results are looked for in the economic relations between the two countries as soon as Ambassador Ferrara takes over the direction of the foreign policy of his government. Hitherto this has been handled exclusively by the President himself, although on several occasions he has invited his Ambassador at Washington to come to Havana for a conference whenever any decision of momentous importance was necessary.

Before leaving the Ambassador declared that Cuba would continue to maintain the payment of her bonds and private loans in the United States in the face of almost general repudiation of similar loans throughout Latin America. The maintenance of Cuban credit is deemed by the Ambassador to be a subject of the most vital interest for Cuba and he believes that even though the budget of Cuba has been sorely pressed in including the interest payment on Cuban loans, the interest and all other charges will continue to be met regularly.

Amelioration of the tariff conditions now existing between the United States and Cuba will also be undertaken as soon as Ambassador Ferrara takes over active direction of the Foreign Office in Havana. Trade between the two countries, it was pointed out here yesterday, has declined to a greater extent than any other trade recessions in any parts of the world. Compared to the balance of trade existing at the end of 1927, the figures for last year reveal a reduction of almost 80 per cent. The decline in Cuban-American trade began even before the general decline in all other commodity prices and the various artificial attempts that have been made by the Chadbourne plan, and other systems, have failed to produce the relief expected.

Cuba embarked on a policy of diversification of agricultural products in order to recoup the disastrous drop in the price of sugar, but the effects of the new agricultural policy could not make themselves felt in the face of new American tariffs, which struck at the new crops introduced in place of the sugar surplus.

Ambassador Ferrara is believed to be carrying back to Havana a general plan for reorganizing the foreign policy of the Cuban government which he will present to President Machado for his approval. During his stay of six years in Washington the ambassador has been a most prominent figure in Pan-American relations.

He was a notable figure at the conference on arbitration and conciliation here, at the Pan-American Union, in 1928, and was one of the original members of the committee on conciliation which succeeded in averting the war between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Chaco.

HITLERITES LIKELY TO SHARE IN POWER

Socialist Party Changes Its Attitude About Prussia; Braun to Resign.

Berlin, April 26 (U.P.).—Participation of Adolph Hitler's Fascist party in the next Prussian government appeared certain tonight when Minister of Interior Karl Severing declared that Socialist and Catholic parties were inclined to admit the Hitlerites to a share of power.

The Fascist party became the leading power in the new Diet in Sunday's elections, which destroyed the majority formerly held by the Socialist-Catholic-Constitutional cabinet.

Whether the Fascists would consider a coalition in which the Socialists participate was problematical, but they have been attempting to negotiate for an alliance with the Catholic Center party to form a right-wing government.

The present cabinet headed by Socialist Premier Otto Braun decided today to resign after the new Diet is convened May 24. Meanwhile, the steering committee called a three-day session of the Reichstag on May 9 to consider the budget situation.

The drive to complete the $75,000 fund for the National Symphony Orchestra will be continued this week. How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Bare Backs Had Better Be Better Looking.

THE fact that the Palm Beach colony accepted the large kerchief fashion for bathing suit and beach pajama top this past winter makes one feel that the whole world will be wearing it next summer. For that's the way beach fashions usually work. The kerchief, as you know, ties at the back of the neck and again at the waist, leaving the wide expanse of back bare.

Elsie Pierce.

Which means that bare backs had better be better looking. And wise women are starting now to give their backs a little overhauling, as it were, so that greater back beauty will face the summer sun and the world.

Blackheads and Eruptions.

Any number of young girls and women, too, whose complexions remain quite clear, are nevertheless troubled with blackheads and eruptions of the back. For evening gown and bathing suit, these conditions become quite distressing. As a matter of fact, even when the back is not exposed, it is a source of satisfaction to know that the skin is clear and smooth and fine as a baby's.

As a general rule, blackheads and eruptions accompany excessive oiliness. And as I have so often repeated in this column, diet has a tremendous influence in checking this condition. Exercise to tone the system generally is also helpful.

For local treatment, cleansing and toning are the first essentials. Every night, before retiring, take a warm bath and using a good, bland soap, and a bath brush, work up a good lather. Powdered castile soap is very good for this purpose. Allow the lather to remain on the skin for several minutes before rinsing off. Now, if the skin is oily, you may use a softening lotion, a ready-prepared one preferably, or you may add two tablespoonsful of epsom salts to a pint of hot water, as hot as you can stand without scalding the skin. Apply on compresses over the blackheads. This will soften the impurities and make the blackheads easy to remove. Cover the fingertips with tissues and gently press out any blackheads that yield. Don't press with the nails, but with the sides of the fingers. This done, pat with cool water, then a skin tonic (witch hazel may be substituted) and if you have a good blackhead-pore cream apply a little to the areas where the blackheads have been removed. If there are eruptions, use an antiseptic acne cream instead.

For the dry skin, cleansing with cleansing cream is advised. Then a little heated oil should be applied to soften the blackheads. The blackheads are pressed out as above and the blackhead-pore cream applied, or the antiseptic cream if there are eruptions.

For the evening gown, before powder, an acne lotion may be used. Choose one that has healing properties and at the same time may be used as a finishing lotion and powder base to give the skin a lovely finish and temporarily conceal blemishes.

If you will write for my diet, exercises and health rules, follow these and follow the treatment outlined above, you should soon succeed in ridding the skin of blackheads and eruptions.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

WHY EAT NUTS?

THE use of nuts as a food has never been on a proper basis. We eat them as something of a teaser in connection with our full meals—not to say overfull meals. When used in this way they are placed within reach with the expectation that they will be nibbled during the soup course and before the heavy foods come on. When served in this manner they are eaten largely because they are salted, and thus they do some harm in that they contribute to an excessive intake of salt. Some salads contain a small porportion of nuts.

Probably the principal eating of them is not that done at mealtime, and as a part of meals, but between meal munching. All between meal munching, whether done by adults or by children does more harm than good. Whatever prevailing method of nut eating we consider the conclusion is essentially the same—it is wrong in principle.

Nuts are so rich in food values that they deserve to rank with bread, cereals, and meats. They are rich in proteins and carbohydrates, in the first of these qualities ranking along with other vegetable protein foods such as peas and soy beans; in the second, ranking with grain foods. But meat is richer in fats than lean meats, ranking not far below lean bacon and fat fish. It is richer by far in this food element than are the flours and cereals except those that contain germ as well as starch. Not even the germ-including flours quite reach the fat level of nut meats.

In view of all this the claim is made, and can be sustained, that nuts deserve to be ranked along with other staples. That they have not been is because no one has found a way to market them in the standard way that meats and flours are marketed. They become rancid too readily and no one has found an easy, practical way to prevent this. They are too perishable for such trade conditions as are in vogue in, say, the sale of barrel flour.

Another reason runs to the doorsteps of our cooks and dietitians. There are not many nut dishes, and in those we have they are used too much as a garnish. We have a limited number of nut breads and they surpass plain breads in favor always. However, these make use of a sprinkling of nuts for the purpose of flavor. Coarsely ground or pulverized nut meat can be easily mixed in doughs and cooked in an integral part of the bread, and not as a more or less foreign body therein.

There are many kinds of breads, cakes and crackers that are made with an excess of shortening. The fats of nuts can very well replace the vegetable and animal fats used to give this quality to breads. They supply flavors and calories as well as shortening.

MILK AND ORANGE JUICE.

H. F. writes: Is the combination of milk and orange juice beneficial or harmful? In what way?

REPLY.

Beneficial.

The acid neutralizes some of the lime buffer and, by doing so, makes milk more digestible. It also supplies vitamin C and in this milk is naturally low.

WEEDS AND COW'S MILK.

G. N. writes: I read an article about two years ago by a doctor who suspected the jimson weed of causing infantile paralysis when milk cows eat it. That is a mistake, for no live stock will eat it except goats and sheep. It is a succulent plant, with a pungent, nauseous odor and taste. But milk cows are forced to eat it because rough and ready farmers, having it in the cornfield, cut it in silo. The most exasperating thing is that neighbors, helping each other with tight floor platform wagons, the seeds are scattered all over the neighborhood by the bumping of the wagons, so that the tidy farmer has a hard time keeping it out of his farm. It is much more generally distributed than it was 50 years ago. I think the best plan would be for the Government to take eradication in hand, especially in the dairy districts, as it did with the barberry bush.

REPLY.

Infantile paralysis is not due to drinking milk from cows that have eaten jimson weed. There is a disease due to drinking milk from cows that have eaten a weed, white snake root, but it is not infantile paralysis.

I know jimson weed well. It is poisonous. It is easy to interest the State department of agriculture in weed eradication, provided you stick to weeds that harm the farmer's stock. Weeds that harm the farmer and his family are a different matter.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me if I should lift daffodil bulbs every year.

MABEL F. Y.

Daffodils do not have to be disturbed for several years. When bulbs of any kind are naturalized in the lawn, the grass should not be cut until their leaves begin to turn yellow.

Last season both my hollyhocks and my delphiniums were ruined by a rust or blight. It got ahead of me before I made any attempt to control the trouble. This year I want to have a remedy ready for the first sign of disease. Do you know of a reliable spray?

MRS. CHARLES F. S.

Both the plants you mentioned and also hardy phlox should be sprayed every ten days for rust and other fungus disease with Bordeaux mixture or one of the proprietary remedies.

Can I plant lillium regale in the next four weeks or must I wait until June to set out these bulbs? I have always been told I must wait until the ground is warm before I plant lilies.

MRS. JAMES McC.

The latter part of May will be a good time to plant lilies. I would, however, wait until after the 20th of the month.

Do cutworms start their activities as early as the last of May? Last year I lost so many choice plants with cutworms, especially dahlias. Can you tell me a good poison bait to use to eradicate these crawlers?

NANCY D. L.

Cutworms begin activities in May. If you care to write again and will inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to give you the name of a proprietary preparation that will really rid your garden of cutworms.

I have a large fern which has been in the same pot for ten years. Now it is beginning to show signs of dying, especially in the center of the growth of long leaves. The outer ones are healthy, but the inner ones are brown and dry. Should this plant be divided as well as repotted?

CHARLOTTE W.

Yes. Where the plant is so large I think you had better have a florist do the work, as a large plant is hard to handle.

Even so early the ants are ruining my grass, which is just beginning to grow. Last year I waged continual warfare against these pests. Isn't there some way to honestly kill them or get rid of them?

MARY D. G.

If you care to write again and will inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I will send you the name of a preparation which will, if you follow directions on container, cause the ants to depart.

I have some rose bushes (just planted.) Will massey dust, if used early, be likely to prevent the leaves from dying? I always have roses which are defoliated. This must be due to fungus growth.

MRS. THOMAS C. M.

When the leaves of your roses are well grown, start dusting them with massey dust (nine parts of powdered sulphur and one part arsenate of lead) to control such common pests as the leaf-eating worms, black spot and mildew.

I have an old but well-established lawn, which I suppose needs rolling. My man tells me one rolling, if well done, will be sufficient. Is he correct?

MRS. HAROLD F. E.

Yes, one rolling is all an established lawn should need.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Very gracious is this Lelong model in gray chiffon shading to white, with a cluster of red velvet flowers at the draped bodice.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Remember grandmother's "modesty piece?" Maybe you do, and hadn't heard it called that. Well, it has come in for its share of revival this season. The new low V neckline in all daytime dresses practically demands it, else one has to indulge in the most expensive of lingerie, the kind that has a lace top or modesty piece right in it worth showing.

Modesty pieces can be in lace, real lace, of course, since they require so little. Or of organdy, all puffs and pin tucks and embroidery. Or a succession of closely packed frills, row on row, of fine lace. Whatever it is, it is usually something very expensive and elegant, and quite as often as not something that one can tell at a glance is to be worn once and then discarded, its frills and thissis and thatsas making it impossible of laundering or cleaning.

Another reason for this revival is the restaurant dress. A most formal evening gown can be made into a restaurant frock by filling in both the front and back decolletage with a lace modesty piece. One of the outstanding successes of the season shows a black chiffon gown, very formal in cut, with half sleeves that snap on at the elbows and two modesty pieces, to turn it into a gown of less formal type.

And this dainty whimsy lends itself so well to the lightening of dark frocks! Almost all black and navy frocks have to have this white touch, and as a variation on collars and neckpieces, we find this modesty piece nestling coyly in the decolletage of the frock.

It's just the little things that give a room distinction. The woman with good taste and a limited pocketbook knows this very well, and is always on the alert to try this or that in her home. Particularly in the spring, when our thoughts turn not to housecleaning but to house fixin'. So send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this new leaflet Dare has made, which tells you how to go about making a lot of new gadjets for your home. You will really be pleased. And some of these new ideas are delightful for gift making, now or any time. Better send for the leaflet.

Ombre, which means "shaded," is quite in evidence this season. Hats ribbons and fabrics are often thus shaded, usually very effectively, too. Noticeable, though, is it that this ombre is usually one color, seldom merging from one color into another, for instance, as pink into blue.

• • • •

Lelong designed the lovely gown I sketch for you today, using ombre chiffon in gray shading to white. The model has a very straight slim skirt ending in three tiers and trains, and the very bloused bodice is effectively trimmed with red velvet flowers. Simple, too, but quite in keeping with the lines of the mode, is the cape effect, new, yet old and ever new.

Fashion French.

Fantaisie (fon-tay-zee) means "fancy." "Soie fantaisie" would be "fancy silk."

• • • •

Flowers are whimsical and lovely as they trim the new dresses. Trimming one shoulder only and the other arm and shoulder draped with a semicape is especially popular, as illustrated.

You'll love the new skirt cut with its clever diagonal lines to reduce hip bulk. The crossover bodice has applied band that is very effective and becoming, besides producing a flat line much appreciated by the larger figure.

A patterned crepe silk is an excellent medium for this model. Plain blending shade crepe is used for the bands and bow. Lace is used for the tiny vestee.

Style No. 3173 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Crinkle crepe and sheer woolens are also suitable.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Just Self-Conscious.

MY DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: The answers to your letters always seem to be most sensible.

I don't know if you can help me because I was made this way and just happened to be in the last row when the blessings were given out.

I was born without any personality whatever and that isn't bad enough. I always say the wrong thing at the wrong time and now I am afraid to make friends with other people, because I know they would only learn to hate me, so I just keep by myself, but life isn't meant to be lived that way and I'm sure if I have to live like this much longer I will go out of my mind.

I am married and have a wonderful husband and two children, but have always been afraid to have children for fear they would be like me. God was good when he sent them to me because I couldn't go on living without them, and they are healthy, fine-looking children, if I do say it myself, and hope they always shall be and grow up to be fine men.

What I wanted to ask your advice about is, do you think there is any help for me before I get any worse? Can I help myself? Should I go to a doctor to get his advice? I hope there is some way out for me for the children's sake. We haven't much money to spare and I hate to waste it on myself by going to a doctor if there is another way out.

I read a lot and get out as often as I can, but we live out in the country and when one can't make friends it is pretty dull. MOTHER.

Begin by having your children's friends in, and from that progress to the grown-ups, and you will find that all self-consciousness has disappeared. Thousands of people—especially women—are beset with the same fear of saying the "wrong thing at the wrong time." It is a natural result of inexperience. To get along with people one must become accustomed to being with people. Activity in church and school affairs where you can at first sit back and do very little talking is the finest experience in the world. A woman recently wrote me that five years ago she was the most miserable person when she wrote for advice, and thought she could never follow my instructions, but now she is the most active member in her church and in parent-teacher work and as happy as the day is long. The answer is that most intelligent women need social and community activity to round their lives and failing to find it are unhappy.

So, start with the neighbor's children, then the neighbors, then the church, and so on. You are above the average, you know, and should really be helping in your community. So get busy and five years from now you, too, will be writing in to tell how you have changed! Best of luck!

APPLYING INFERENCES TO THE BIDDING.

A BRILLIANT and interesting example of drawing correct inferences from the bidding, not only of partner, but opponents, occurred in a recent rubber game in a Pittsburgh bridge club. The hand afforded one player an opportunity to make a brilliant game bid through the deductions drawn from his partner's two bids, which by inference must place with him a stopper in a suit bid by an adversary. It gave to a player on the other side the opportunity, which he embraced, of making a brilliant Defensive bid, because he also had drawn correct inferences from the bids of his partner and his opponents. The hand was:

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The Bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explantory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
		1♠	2◇
2♡	Pass(1)	3♣(2)	3◇(3)
3♡	3NT(4)	Pass	Pass
4♡(5)	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—West's hand suggests no action at this time.
2—Correctly showing his second biddable suit.
3—Even with a passing partner, East's hand is so rich in play-tricks that this bid is fully warranted.
4—A brilliant bid. West, of course, has two of the suits adversely bid aptly stopped. His partner's Rebid of diamonds must indicate both length and strength and, by strong inference, a stopper in the club suit. West sees almost certain prospects of game.
5—South's hand, in view of West's bid, is without any defensive value, but does have at lease 5 tricks with hearts as trump. With partner's Opening bid and later showing of another suit, the contract can not be badly defeated.

In the play, West opened the four of diamonds, which East won and led a trump. West cleared the Dummy Hand of trumps and then led another diamond, his partner thus winning 3 diamond tricks. The Declarer, drawing a correct inference from the bidding, when he won the next trick, finessed the spade, and when the finesse held, discarded his losing club on the Ace, holding the penalty to a mere 200 points—a small 1 4 when a game was at stake.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The good Contract player draws inferences from every bid made by his partner and the opposing players. The revelation of the location of honor and distributional strength frequently increases or decreases greatly the value of a hand.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Gives a Requested Recipe for Lemon Curd.

IT'S a long time since we have even thought of a lemon curd, Mrs. Thompson. Yes, it keeps a long time if sealed, but you need not store it in your refrigerator. Just a cool shelf somewhere will do the trick, which naturally would not mean a shelf over the kitchen range. Quite possibly your difficulty with the curd came through that addition of "just a bit of sour milk to be on the safe side." The word curd does imply sour milk but this is a curd of another sort, as you will see from the recipe which we hereby give you, along with a wish for better luck next time. Now to thoughts of tomorrow's dinner and it's to be veal in pot pie form, for which a cheap cut may be slected.

Lemon Curd.

4 egg whites
6 egg yolks
2 cupfuls sugar—granulated
4 lemons
½ cupful butter.

Beat eggs separately, then mix them together. Add the sugar and butter, blended together, and the juice and grated rind of the lemons. Put mixture in a double boiler and stir until it is the consistency of honey. Pour into glass jars and seal. Lemon curd keeps indefinitely.

THURSDAY'S DINNER.

Veal Pot Pie with Dumplings
Corn Pudding
Tea Muffins
Olive and Celery Salad
Apple Sauce
Gingersnaps
Tea or Coffee.

Veal Pot Pie.

3 pounds veal
6 potatoes, cut in halves
2 onions
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut the meat into two-inch cubes and place in kettle with onion, salt and pepper and enough hot water to cover. Simmer until meat is tender, about an hour. Strips of salt pork are sometimes cooked with the veal to add flavor. Half an hour before serving add the potatoes. Place dumplings around edge of platter and put meat and potatoes in center. Thicken gravy with a little flour stirred to a smooth paste with water. Pour over the meat and dumplings.

Dumplings.

2 cupfuls flour
3 teaspoonfuls baking powder
½ teaspoonful salt
1 tablespoonful butter
¾ cupful milk—approximately.

Mix the sifted flour, baking powder and salt, and cut in the butter with two knives. Add the milk gradually as for biscuits. The milk should be sufficient to make a soft dough. Drop by tablespoonfuls into the stew. Cover closely and steam for exactly twelve minutes without removing the cover. Be sure liquid is boiling during the entire time. Serve at once, removing dumplings to the outer edge of the warmed platter and place the stew in the middle.

Corn Dumplings.

2 cupfuls scalded milk
2 eggs
1¼ teaspoonfuls salt
Dash of pepper
2 tablespoonfuls melted butter
1 can of finely chopped corn or equivalent in fresh corn (cooked)
2 tablespoonfuls flour sprinkled over corn

Mix corn, seasonings and milk. Add the beaten eggs and melted butter. Put into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm. If the oven is too hot it will seperate as an overdone custard.

Tea Muffins.

2 eggs
1½ teaspoonfuls sugar
½ teaspoonful salt
1 cupful milk
2 cupfuls flour
3 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 tablespoonful melted butter

Beat the yolks of the eggs until thick and lemon colored and add the sugar, salt and half of the milk. Add the flour and baking powder sifted together. Mix thoroughly, add the butter, remaining milk and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Cook in muffin rings on a hot griddle, turning once so that they cook on both sides. Split, do not cut, and butter before serving.

The WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: Here I am to bother you again. I repeat my height and weight, for I know you can not possibly remember. I am 5 feet 3½ inches tall and weigh 128 pounds. My problem is this—my doctor says I am in perfect health, but he doesn't want me to get any fatter. I must stay as I am. How many calories do I need? And what shall I take between meals when I'm terribly hungry? Is there any simple dish (like egg or fruit) that would be nice for luncheon?

Some time, if you should like them, I'll send you some wonderful European recipes from my own country.

"GRATEFUL."

If you are to stay just as you are, according to doctor's orders, my dear, you will require about 1,900 calories daily—more or less depending on your own individual needs and requirements I am sure your doctor will help you plan your diet, but there are just a few things which may help in connection with his suggestions. There are certain foods we must have, whether we are reducing, anxious to gain weight or concentrating on remaining at normal weight, which is, after all, the most ideal and the easiest situation of the three.

These foods are those which our body needs in order to keep running smoothly, to avoid a possible breakdown or other misfortune. They are the foods which are vital to our health and happiness. Once these essentials are taken care of, you may add whatever foods you like, always with an eye on the scales to see which way the arrows point.

Your day's ration should include the following: One-fourth pound of lean meat, one or two eggs, one cupful milk, four pieces wholewheat bread and as many calories in vegetables and fruits each day as your normal weight in pounds. Your normal weight, remember, not the weight that you would like to be regardless of doctors' orders or reliable charts.

Broths, tea and similar stimulating beverages will help to satisfy your appetite without causing a gain in weight. Milk, fruit juice drinks, &c., are also good. As for luncheon, there are many simple egg dishes, fruit salads, appetizing soups, &c., which would be ideal, depending on your own likes or dislikes in the matter. There are omelets, plain, wth tomato, vegetable, ham or jelly; creamed eggs, baked eggs with tomato sauce and the like. As for salads, the variety is almost endless. Of fruit or vegetables, composed of leftovers, if need be, they are very delicious, attractive and good for you.

We should very much appreciate having some of your European recipes.

UNSAFE!
...to wash handkerchiefs used during colds, grippe, flu

Don't endanger yourself or others. Use KLEENEX Disposable Tissues

EVERYONE knows what a repulsive job it is, to wash handkerchiefs used during a cold. But do you know it is dangerous as well?

Those handkerchiefs are literally teeming with germs. They are unfit to be touched. They certainly should not be mixed with other clothing.

Don't use handkerchiefs when you have a cold! Use Kleenex—the new, sanitary, disposable tissue that makes ordinary handkerchiefs seem uncivilized.

Kleenex is a disposable handkerchief. It is made of soft rayon-cellulose. Though gentler and more absorbent than any handkerchief, it costs much less. So little that you can destroy each tissue as soon as used. You avoid self-infection from handkerchiefs during a cold. At any drug, dry goods or department store.

Traffic Cases Gain On "Fixing" Edict

Police Court Work Doubled in Drive on Forfeiting of Collateral.

Police Court traffic cases have almost doubled in number since the edict went out this week that there was to be no more "fixing" of cases in the corporation counsel's office at Police Court, where minor offenders were permitted to put up small collateral and forfeit it.

Now, all traffic offenses must be carried through. Those who put up collateral in the police stations must go to court if they hope to get any money back, and yesterday almost 90 cases were heard, not counting those in which collateral was forfeited.

Policemen who used to get back on their beats in the late morning or early afternoon now are kept waiting in Police Court almost all day.

and the District line, commonly known as 'Jimmie LaFontaines,' has been closed, we demand that all persons obligated to uphold the law of Prince Georges County keep said gambling place closed for all time."

The jury issued an appeal to all citizens to "give their aid and help to the law enforcement officers" and "to show proper respect for all laws." It also called on the sheriff and chief of police to remove the causes of friction between their forces "if, as we are led to believe, they have knowledge of the disturbing element."

The jury incorporated in its report an expression of regret at the death of Summerfield D. Hall, clerk of the circuit court, and recommended the construction of a ward in the jail for prisoners suffering from contagious diseases. It returned 95 indictments and ignored 26 cases.

Those named in the last indictments were: Anna R. Scott, false pretenses; Garfield Williams, possession of liquor; William R. VanNoy, possession; Etheline Hill, possession; Ernest Diggs and Edward Good, assault with intent to rob, larceny and receiving stolen goods; W. P. Plumley, possession, and Sarah Kanns, possesson. Two indictments charging Diggs and Good with assault with intent to rob, larceny and robbery were returned.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

A BRIEF surreptitious period of truancy from the rigid edict of what Charles Francis Coe playfully terms "the croaker" yesterday afternoon was rendered vastly more pleasant than it could possibly have been otherwise by a call from Miss Leona Powers, charming and gifted leading woman of the National Theater Players, piloted by Mr. Stephen T. Cochran, impresario of that admirable organization.

Miss Powers, it becomes obvious after even a brief chat, is a child of Thespis in whose veins runs the gypsy blood of the born trouper. She has been on the stage since childhood, loves it and has never lost one single iota of her enthusiasm for the footlights. This, I think, is easily discernible in the uniform excellence of her portrayals she offers an appreciative public.

While this unaccustomed business of being "under wraps," as we say in the clocker's stand, has precluded my seeing Miss Powers in her current role in "On the Spot," it has not at all dulled by awareness of the fine performance she gave in the Players' opening bill, "The Church Mouse," under conditions of preparation that only serve to make the achievement all the more notable.

On a great many of the aspects of the theater that form the usual basis of such a chat, Miss Powers and I are in agreement almost to the point of unanimity. On everything, as a matter of fact, except that she rather doubts my not wholly firm conviction that there is no such thing as an "actor proof" role. But neither of us, I believe, is in any mood for wrangling about that!

What with all the turmoil that has attended the introductory interval of the National Players' season, gown-shopping and wardrobing—as she was yesterday afternoon—apartment hunting and one thing and another, this ebullient young actress has been rather on a merry-go-round since returning all the way from the Coast to renew earlier friendships and repeat earlier triumphs.

When the problem of domicile is finally solved, it is not improbable that Miss Powers and Kathryn Givney will be found ensconced in a duplex, or something, at, or near, the corner of Sixteenth and H.

Since that is where a lifelong friendship with Beulah Bondi, another splendid actress, was renewed—if you know where I mean—and since Miss Powers and Beulah are "just like that" and have been for years, I am sorry to have to warn these two delightful Players that I shall probably find the address not easy to forget.

Of course, they can always leave word at the desk that they're out!

There is a bit of excitement in the air about the coming to the Palace on Friday of the experimental tabloid version of the musical comedy, "Girl Crazy"—recently seen here in screen form, with Wheeler and Woolsey starred—which has been reduced not in essentials of song or story, but merely in the matter of running time.

This may prove to be a happy solution of the quest for something new in the way of stage divertissement to balance first-run picture programs. If "Girl Crazy" clicks in the key cities, it is the plan to reduce other successful musical hits to similar proportions.

But the matter of staging is no day off for the backstage crews of the picture houses! With the principals, all those chorus girls and the sets to be handled, the Palace's invisible functionaries are wondering how many of the 70 people can be hung from the grid when not on, and how much scenery the authorities will permit them to stack out in the middle of Thirteenth street!

Oh, yes—music by George Gershwin. And the screen feature will be Jackie Cooper and Chic Sale in "When a Feller Needs a Friend." What a bill!

Monday afternoon in reporting a conversation with Rodney Collier, of the Rialto, for yesterday morning's column, without waiting for his typed copy, I neglected to state specifically that the reserved seat policy, and price scale of from $1 to $3, for the world premiere of "The Doomed Battalion" will prevail at the special Friday night opening performance only. That, however, I understand to be the case. So now you know.

What a thrill it must have been to the residents of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, some 35 in number, ranging in ages from 70 to 90 years, to view Fannie Hurst's "The Symphony of Six Million" as guests of Hardie Meakin at RKO-Keith's yesterday afternoon.

This story of the Ghetto and Park avenue, New York, with its homely humor, pathos and poignancy must have conveyed to the minds of these venerable people something of the mental stimulus that the late Ezra Meeker might have derived from a performance of "The Big Trail" or "Distant Drums," or an Oklahoma pioneer from "Cimarron."

Well might they have sat back in contentment, so truly has Miss Hurst written, and said to themselves, "These are our people."

Because good things are frequently held for the last—and partly, if you must know, because Eddy Gilmore just phoned it to me—it may not be too late for you to learn that on May 6, Wesley Eddy, one of the most popular masters of ceremony Washington has ever had, will return to the Palace Theater for an indefinite engagement in the same capacity.

Wes terminated his record-breaking engagement of 72 weeks, or 75 weeks, or 70-however-many-it-was, at the Palace on May 10, 1929, but has since been back frequently for single weeks with traveling units, the last time having been the week of June 26, 1931. He was supposed to have been here with Jean Harlow recently, but plans were changed at the eleventh hour, or last moment, or maybe even later.

The only one ever to approach the Eddy term of continuous service is Maxine Doyle, the mellifluous mistress of ceremonies at the Earle, who now, as I understand it, has surpassed it by a week or two and is still happily going strong.

The Wesley Eddy Club may now, at last, hold its revival!

It may be interesting to know, too, that the Maj. John S. Cohen, editor and publisher of the Atlanta Journal, appointed by Gov. Russell of Georgia to succeed the late William J. Harris in the United States Senate, is a close personal friend of Carter Barron, managing director of the Loew interests in the Capital.

It was upon the Atlanta Journal, too, incidentally, that Eddy Gilmore was serving as a newswriter when Mr. Barron persuaded him to come to Washington and assume the post of director of advertising and publicity for the Loew houses in this city.

And are the boys elated?

And so, to paraphrase Mr. James Fagan slightly, back to bed.

U. S. Enters Brief Answering Raichle

Contends There Was No Misjoinder in Indictment of Lawyer.

Special attorneys of the Department of Justice yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a brief attacking the contention of Frank G. Raichle, former defense attorney for G. Bryan Pitts, that the indictment charging Raichle with obstruction of justice and with subornation of perjury contained a fatal misjoinder of offenses charged.

The Government attorneys, Nell Burkinshaw and Nugent Dodds, contended that there was no misjoinder in the indictment such as to make it invalid. They contended also that even if there was the court could direct the Government "elect" as to which charges were to be submitted to the jury at the conclusion of the testimony.

Justice F. D. Letts took the brief under advisement. He will announce his decision next week. If the motion filed by Raichle is sustained he will be freed of the necessity of facing the charges, which grew out of defense testimony in Pitts' trial in December, 1930. Pitts recently withdrew his appeal from a conviction on which he was sentenced to serve fourteen years for embezzlement.

2 STARS SUSPENDED FROM MOVIE WORK

Disputes on Contracts Cause Ousting of James Cagney and Marlene Dietrich.

Hollywood, Calif., April 26 (A.P.).—Marlene Dietrich, blonde beauty from Germany, and James Cagney, two of the best money making performers in motion pictures, were suspended by their studios today because of disputes over their work and salary, respectively.

Hardly more than 24 hours after Paramount Studio suspended Josef von Sternberg, noted director and discoverer of Miss Dietrich, she was lopped off the pay roll for not showing up for work on a picture which Sternberg had refused to direct.

At the Warner Studio, it was said that notice of suspension had been sent to Cagney, who had been holding out for $4,000 a week instead of $1,600 he has received under a long term contract.

Cagney said he had not received the suspension notice in the mails. Just returned from New Yrok, he went out to the lot today, walked past executive offices to his dressing rooms and left later with a big bundle under his arms, saying it contained personal belongings.

Miss Dietrich's attorney, Ralph Blum, said she had received notice of suspension, but did not say what she expected to do about it.

She was ordered to be on the set ready for work at 10:30, a. m. today on the picture "The Blonde Venus," under Director Richard Wallace. It was said the office of B. P. Schulberg, Paramount executive.

She did not appear and did not send an explanation, so suspension was ordered.

While there was no further announcement from Schulberg's office, it was understood that court actions against the actress and Von Sternberg, now on a New York visit, are being prepared.

Action was threatened yesterday in Schulberg's statement saying the company is forced "to determine whether those under contract are employes, or can do as they please."

Three Men Burned In Cruiser Blast

Fire Follows Explosion on Vessel Tied Up at Indianhead.

Three men were seriously burned yesterday in an explosion and fire aboard a 35-foot cruiser tied up at a wharf at Indianhead, Md.

They are William Abell, 28 years old, Compton Brooke, 20, and Henry P. Ward, 45, all of Indianhead. Abell was working in the engine room of the craft, the China Girl, owned by J. C. Work, of Mason Springs, Md. Brooke was helping him, when Ward, foreman of the Government works there, came aboard.

The three men had started out of the engine room and Abell had just set his foot on the first step of the companionway when the explosion occurred. He was struck on the head by a beam, but managed to help Brooke, who was dazed, from the blazing craft. The fire was extinguished by the Indianhead Fire Department.

Origin of the fire is not known. All three men said they were not smoking, and said the electric current had been turned off. After the accident they were taken to Providence Hospital in an ambulance of the Naval Dispensary, and were suffering from burns about the face and head. They will recover. The China Girl is a twin-screw cruiser valued at about $5,000.

LEE FAMILY SHRINE TO GET FAMOUS ART

Four Historic Paintings to Be Given to Arlington House Saturday.

Arlington House, the home of George Washington Parke Custis, adopted son of George Washington, and also the residence of Robert E. Lee, will receive four historic paintings, the gifts of patriotic societies, at exercises next Saturday afternoon. Secretary of War Hurley will be the principal speaker. The historic house will be completely refurnished to show its condition during its occupancy by the Custis and Lee families. It is believed that originals of the paintings to be presented at one time hung at Mount Vernon and were bequeathed to Custis under the will of Washington.

The ceremonies Saturday will be broadcast at 3:40 o'clock over Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va. A feature of the unveiling of the portraits will be the introduction of George Lyttleton Upshur, of New York, who is said to be the last member of the Custis and Lee families to remember Arlington as it was before the Civil War.

Mr. Upshur is the son of Rear Admiral John H. Upshur, U. S. N., and the grandson of Capt. William George Williams, of Mexican War fame. Mr. Upshur was eight years old when he was taken to Arlington to say good-by to the Lee family and was present when Gen. Lee resigned his commission in the United States Army.

Organizations sponsoring the presentation of the paintings are the Society of the Cincinnati, the General Society, Sons of the Revolution, General Society of Colonial Wars and the General Court of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America.

The portraits are the following:

George Washington in the uniform of a colonel in the Virginia militia during the French and Indian War. It is the earliest picture of Washington in existence. Lafayette, the original by Beale, and the copy by Miss Hattie E. Burdette, and two others, Eleanor Parke (Nelly) Custis, the original of which once hung in Arlington House, and Maj. Gen. Henry (Light Horse Harry) Lee. The exercises will be held on the front lawn and porch of the house.

WEDNESDAY APRIL 27, 1932 SPORTS

YANKS SOLVE CROWDER AT START FOR 6-5 VICTORY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS department today may be compromising a principle, for I have always held anonymous letter writers comparable to snipers from ambush, lacking the courage to make a square fight and not entitled to consideration, but the wholesome interest of the fan who signs himself "Old Pop Bottle" has a ringing appeal and the rostrum is his, though he takes exception to a recent column of the over-signed:

"To the Editor of The Post—Sir: 'In his 'This Morning' column, Shirley L. Povich says that it is Owner Clark Griffith's idea that there is 'no mystery whatsoever in the mystery of the batting weakness among pitchers.'

"That may be correct, but when you ask why, I am forced to disagree with Mr. Povich and the Nats' boss. I don't think that it is any excuse for a weak-batting pitcher, slim or stout, to say that his hard training to make good as a pitcher affects him to the extent that he is 'hardly equipped to meet the demands of a batter against big leaguer hurling.'

"Of course, it would be cruel to try to force pitchers into the .300 class, but for the good of the game it's about time to get rid of the old idea that punk stickwork by pitchers is to be expected. As Mr. Povich says, 'Little is expected of pitchers at the plate. They can strike out weakly or pop up and retire from the batter's box after a performance that for any other player would have been ludicrous.'

"Well, it strikes me that insofar as weak batting is expected of pitchers, that explains their low averages. When you see a husky young hurler disgrace the batter's box with some Miss Nancy pokes at the pellet, it's just schoolboy stuff.

"On account of the moss-grown pitcher's alibi idea when it comes to batting, young pitchers who are making good in the big leagues become so proud that they think they are so important as pitchers that they don't have to hit. Soon, they become chesty enough to leave the plate without a blush after being made monkeys of, and I guess they don't find the habit easy to break."

"The old idea is all wrong. I don't think rookie pitchers with natural batting ability will lose much if encouraged not to neglect it. They should be told that they are expected to hit the ball on the nose at least once in every four times at bat, and any indifferent behavior at the plate should win them a call-down.

"Then there would be more Uhles, Earnshaws, Wes Ferrells and Lloyd Browns in the pitching ranks, and I think the game would be more improved on that account.

"My favorite pitchers are those that can crack out base hits. The fans enjoy a hit by a pitcher in a pinch as much as anything else. If two or three more of the Nats' pitchers this year develop into hitters like Lloyd Brown it might easily mean the winning of a dozen or more extra games and the pennant.

My favorite pitchers, "Old Pop Bottle," are those that can go in there and pitch nine innings with some degree of effectiveness even if they bat .000 for the season. Hitting pitchers are greatly desired, but pitching pitchers are a lot more help.

There's a lot of excuse for weak-hitting pitchers, but there's no excuse, it is true, for pitchers who go up to the plate and just go through the motions. Too many of them give up when they get a bat in their hand, and I, too, often wondered why it is tolerated by the managers.

But a pitcher in there trying to hit faces tremendous odds. Don't forget that they are looking at real pitching only once in every four or five days, compared to the regulars in there facing big league pitching every day in the week. Fellows like George Earnshaw, Wes Ferrell and Lloyd Brown are the exceptions. They've got native batting talent. Did you ever try to hit big league pitching?

Tennis Secondary Say U. S. Helens

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—Tennis comes second to both of California's Helens, Moody and Jacobs, they said tonight in separate interviews before sailing for foreign courts to swing racquets on the same side of the net in American team play.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, many times a champion and conceded a favorite for singles honors on any amateur court, said after an exhibition match she may play in tournaments only "a couple of years" longer. Her enthusiasm for art, her husband and her home loom big in her life.

Miss Jacobs, said by the sports writers to be in better tennis form than ever in her career, wants to write.

"I'd rather write fiction than anything in the world," she said on the damp deck of the Leviathan just before it steamed away. She is going to Germany to play for the first time there. She then will go to France, where she will appear in the same tournament as Mrs. Moody. Both later will go to England to play in the Wimbledon tournament.

Mrs. Moody will sail tomorrow night on the Aquitania for France.

Brown Beats Barry on Decision

Mohawk Ace's Rally Offset by Rival's Early Lead.

Young Van Wins His 6th Straight K. O.; Grove Surprises.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE fistic argument between Natie Brown and Reds Barry that started last January in a bout that ended indecisively came to a conclusion last night before 2,000 rabid fans in Portner Arena, Alexandria, when Brown emerged the winner by a shade from eight furiously fought rounds.

In contrast to his earlier performance, Brown went to work early last night and piled up a lead that carried him to his sixth successive victory despite Barry's late rally. Referee Charlie Short, who rendered the decision, gave Brown the first, second, third, fourth and eighth rounds and called the sixth even.

The Post score sheet, however, showed less of a margin for Brown, giving Barry the fifth, sixth and seventh and recording the eighth even, for the Southeast heavyweight took the play away from Natie after the fourth round with a two-fisted attack that exploded on all parts of fair territory.

Brown Hits Harder Blows.

With much the stronger blows, Brown fought methodically throughout, winging home hooks to the redhead's face and body while rushing in. Barry employed superior speed to good advantage and dodged and rolled away from many blows, but he made the mistake of fighting defensively too long. When he found he could trade wallop for wallop, it was too late to overcome Natie's early lead.

There were no knockdowns but both were badly shaken up at intervals. In the first stanza, Barry caught a pair of steaming rights on the head that bounced him into the ropes, while Brown absorbed several jolting right uppercuts to the stomach in the sixth. Toward the last Barry was beating his foe to the punch with looping blows from both mitts.

The preliminaries were made especially notable by the sixth successive knockout victory of Young Van, local middleweight, and an upset triumph scored by Harry "Kid" Groves, Baltimore featherweight. Van, whose record now excels that of any Capital novice of the past decade considering the length of his career, subdued Ray Litton, of Newmarket, Va., after 2 minutes and 50 seconds of the second round. The referee stopped the slaughter.

Groves Pounds Out Decision.

Groves, favored in the weights, 126 to 117, pounded out a six-round decision over Joe Fino, hailed as Mexico's best bantamweight. This one kept the crowd in an uproar from bell to bell, as both fighters flailed away relentlessly. Groves' weight advantage, in the final analysis, gained him the victory. Fino weakened near the end.

K. O. Riley, a statblemate of Barry from the Mohawk Club, dropped Whitey Saylor, Birmingham, Ala., welterweight, for the count in the third round of a scheduled four-rounder. Doug Swetman, local featherweight, outpointed Bob Portna, of Bolling Field, in four, while Ossie Stewart, colored welterweight from Baltimore, kayoed Bob Woolsey, of this city, in No. 3.

Godwin to Risk Title Against Phelps Monday

Bob Godwin, Southern light-heavyweight champion, will defend his title against Cowboy Owen Phelps, of Arizona, in the feature bout of the Day Nursery's show next Monday night in Portner Arena, it was announced last night.

U. S. DRIVER INJURED.

La Baule, France, April 26 (A.P.).—Babe Stapp, the California automobile racer, was injured today and the car in which he hoped to establish a new world speed record was destroyed when it caught fire during a trial run on the beach here.

Stapp and his mechanic were in the machine when it burst into flames about 75 yards from the start. Both jumped and were only slightly hurt.

GORILLA JONES WINS.

Trenton, N. J., April 26 (A.P.).—Gorilla Jones, Akron, Ohio, Negro, recognized as middleweight champion by the National Boxing Association, outpointed Young Terry, of Trenton, in a twelve-round title bout here tonight. Terry weighed 158 pounds; Jones, 151.

Jack Sharkey, At Bout Site, Boastful

Asks Only One Solid Smack at Schmeling on June 16.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, April 26 (A.P.).—Big and bellicose as ever, perhaps even more of both, Jack Sharkey drove into town today to express some of the strangest sentiments that ever fell from the lips of a prize fighter.

"I don't care," he said, "if there aren't ten people out to see me fight Max Schmeling June 16. I don't care if there's only the two judges and the referee. All I want is one solid smack at the Dutchman."

Jimmy Johnston, little mogul of Madison Square Garden's boxing world, stared at him in amazement.

"But John," he gasped. "You mean * * * You don't * * * Not no cash customers * * *"

Anticipates No Big Gate.

Sharkey was very firm about it.

"In these times there won't be many customers anyway. You aren't fooling anybody talking about $1,000,000 gates and 80,000 people. I don't care whether anybody comes, except Schmeling. I'll ruin him."

A trifle irascible, probably due to having driven his big car most of the night from Holyoke, Mass., where his stablemate, Ernie Schaaf, fought last night, Sharkey had a fine time arguing bitterly with Johnston, posing for pictures, and leading a band of raggedy kids around the battery of steam shovels that are coughing out the basis of the Garden's new outdoor stadium in the dirt of Long Island.

"This thing won't be finished by June 16 either," he announced with finality. "Don't try to tell me. I've done plenty of pick and shovel work in my time. I know. You're just trying to fool the people."

Browned Battler Weighs 210.

Weighing 210 pounds, browned from battling salmon for the past couple of weeks in Maine lakes, Sharkey helped with the picks and shovels and posed with an old buddy from Binghamton, N. Y., he found driving one of the trucks.

He had in mind picking a training site before he headed his big car back toward Boston late in the afternoon, but he did not get around to that. He probably will train at Orangeburg, N. Y., again, and expects to fight at 200 pounds.

Montgomery Builders Lead State Bowling

The Montgomery County Building Association team went into the lead in the first annual Maryland State tournament at Bethesda last night by virtue of a 1,745 score. The Collegiates, who led at the conclusion of the first night hostilities, dropped to third as Blue Bird Dilliards, of Hyattsville, rolled into second place on the strength of a 1,726 count. Ray Hoffman's 389 set was a telling factor in the Building Association team's work.

Sam Parks' 428 set, coupled with L. Pugh's 322, enabled them to forge ahead in the doubles with a total of 750. Iseman and Ashcroft dropped to second with 705, while Brown and Lyddane slipped back into third with 702.

Davis Cup Tennis Seats Selling at $1

The announcement by Lawrence A. Baker, of the Chevy Chase Club, that the Davis Cup matches between America and Canada tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, may be viewed for $1, has caused a gratifying rush for tickets. Reserved seats are $2 and box seats $3. Tickets may be obtained at three convenient stations, Spalding's, the Junior League rooms, at Connecticut avenue and Q street, and the club itself.

Red Sox, Hitless 5 Innings, Pound Grove Off Hill in 6th

Macks' Star Southpaw Shelled for Six Runs as Boston Triumphs, 10-2; Defeat Is Sixth for A's in Last 7 Games.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox, making their first appearance of the season here, displayed total disrespect for the pitching prowess of Lefty Grove today and pounded the Athletics' southpaw ace and his successor, Ed Rommel, for a 10-to-2 victory.

For the first five innings the Sox couldn't get a hit off Grove, but they amply made up for the failure in the sixth, when they bunched five of their ten hits for six runs. They made another tally in the eighth off Rommel and three in the ninth when Earl Webb topped off the proceedings with a home run with one on base.

Eddie Durham pitched the Red Sox to their third victory in eleven games this season. He gave the 1931 League champions only five hits and blanked them after the first inning. The defeat was Philadelphia's sixth in seven games.

Two walks, followed by a single which Al Simmons caromed off Durham's glove into left field and Foxx's foul fly gave the A's both their runs in the first inning. They held this margin until the sixth, when Hal Rhyne got the first hit off Grove just after Williams' error had put Rothrock on first. McManus, Webb, and Pickering hit a single apiece to bring in three runs. A walk filled the bases and Charley Berry cleared them with a double.

Two hits, an error, and an infield out brought the eighth-inning run, and Rhyne's triple and Oliver's double in the ninth preceded Webb's homer, which was his third hit.

WESTERN and Business settled their baseball differences on a soggy Eastern Stadium field yesterday, Western gaining a 4-2 victory after nine innings of torrid play, cooled somewhat by frequent showers.

The victory lifted the boys from across the creek from the cellar to third place in the series, and dropped Business into fourth.

A pair of timely home-runs from the bat of another of the huckstering Hillearys, Leo, and a superb mound performance by "Wild Bill" Payne, clinched the victory for Western. Hilleary's first round trip blow came in the first inning with two out and

MT. PINETZKI WILL FACE SHIKAT

Ponderous Pole Will Substitute for Stein Here Tomorrow.

A MAJOR operation upon the nose of Samuel Stein, the eminent Jewish wrestling champion, has caused promoter Joe Turner to supplant him with the ponderous Pole, Mount Leo Pinetzki, who will take up the task of meeting Dick Shikat in the feature mat match tomorrow night, at the Washington Auditorium.

Pinetzki and Shikat are old rivals. Their match in New York a month ago was about the most important grapple happenng in a year, for it ended the mile-long winning streak of the man mountain and thoroughly established Shikat in the minds of his followers as the real "champion."

The bout was enacted again in Philadelphia three weeks ago, and again Shikat was the winner.

Shikat Can Better Londos' Showing.

Shikat has a chance to earn many more local followers tomorrow night, since every movement he makes probably will be compared with those of Jim Londos in his match with Pinetzki here two weeks ago. If Shikat wins decisively, which Londos did not do, there may arise long and loud howls that Londos give the German another chance—not that such howls

Hoover Pairs Vines With Wright

Allison to Be Foe of Rainville in Davis Cup Singles.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE HUGE and wondrous machinery of the Davis Cup tennis matches was set into motion yesterday on the lawn of the White House when President Herbert Hoover groped good-naturedly around the lining of Bernon Prentice's hat and withdrew the names of Wilmer Allison, Marcel Rainville, Ellsworth Vines and Dr. Jack Wright, the four players who will meet, in the order named, tomorrow afternoon at the Chevy Chase Club when Canada and the United States open the week-end's court hostilities.

Friday the national doubles champions, Allison and John Van Ryn, will meet a yet to be named Canadian combination, and Saturday the four singles players chosen today by the Chief Executive will reverse opponents and play the fourth and fifth matches of the great international battle of wits and racquets.

Nonplaying Capt. Prentice, of the American forces, chose Vines and Allison yesterday morning, basing his selection on the splendid play the national champion and his Texas seminemesis have shown in the six weeks of preliminary tournamenting which has been going on throughout the South.

Rainville Conquers Martin.

Rainville gained his place on the Canadian team yesterday morning when he defeated Walter Martin, big Vancouver youth, in a dog-eat-dog four-set encounter, 6—0, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3, after trailing by 1—3 in the fourth set before the withering drives of the younger man. Rainville's inherent steadiness finally told, but it was two exhausted players that loped from the court to the showers in order not to be late at the presidential hat trick.

Indeed, it seemed at about 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning that the White House engagement would seriously interfere with the Canadian elimination match. Rainville, by some desperate steadiness, had pulled up to 3-3 in the fourth set when it was suggested that they cease firing until afternoon, but the Montreal backcourter seemed to know what was coming and insisted upon finishing the match.

Vines Shows Power In Beating Van Ryn.

Between showers yesterday, while the courts were absorbing moisture like some giant blotter, carpenters continued to get the miniature stadium into condition and the teams played long and strenuously in order that Thursday, Friday and Saturday will find them at concert pitch.

Ellsworth Vines, making his first appearance on local courts, gave a sensational exhibition of sustained power in all departments of the game to win from John Van Ryn without undue trouble. The doubles pair of Van Ryn and Allison had difficulty in a set with Vines and Frank Shields which was not terminated.

Dr. Wright, on the next court gave them all something of a lesson in how a tennis ball can be hit with superb form and yet carry sting galore.

NATS' UPHILL FIGHT FUTILE AFTER TYING SCORE IN 8TH INNING

Marberry, Johnson's Fourth Pitcher, Solved for Winning Run After Yankees' 5-2 Lead Is Gradually Erased.

Homer by Dickey Features 4-Run Rally in Second; Ruffing Checks Nats After Pennock Weakens Near End.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

NEW YORK, April 26.—One bad inning by Pitcher Alvin Crowder upset the Nats' well-laid plans here this afternoon and cost them a defeat that dropped them from the runner-up position in the league standing. The final score was 6 to 5 in favor of the Yankees, and four of these allen runs came in the second, during which Crowder was replaced by Frank (Rags) Ragland. Later, Johnson used Bob Burke and Fred Marberry, these changes being necessary due to the use of pinch hitters.

Winning pitcher—Ruffing. Losing pitcher—Marberry. Umpires—Moriarty, Dinneen and Hildebrand. Time of game—Two hours 32 minutes.

Marberry was charged with the defeat as what proved to be the winning run was scored off his slants, while Charley Ruffing, who relieved the veteran southpaw, Herb Pennock, and toiled but one and two-thirds innings added the triumph to his record.

The Washington pitchers issued ten bases on balls and three of them were turned into runs. In fact, the turning point of the game was reached when the weak hitting Pennock was passed by Crowder in the second. Had he been retired instead of walking, the Yanks would have tallied only two runs instead of four in this round. Lary previously had walked and later scored in the first, while it was his stroll in the eighth that ultimately was turned into the winning run.

Nats Tie Score In Eighth.

All told, the slugging Yanks were held to ten hits, but the fact that five, including a homer by Dickey, with one on, came in one round accounted for the victory. True the Nats later evened the count, tying the score at 5-all in the eighth, but this big second round actually decided the game.

Gehrig, with three singles, was the game's high gun, while Cronin, with a triple and single, and Reynolds, with a double and a single accounted for more than half of the Nats' seven hits between them.

All of the scoring of the first half of the game was packed into the first two innings. An error by West let the Yankees break the ice in the first and the Nationals came right back in the next session to become one up by virtue of a two-run splurge. Hardly had the cheering died down, however—yes there were a number of Washington rooters on hand—when the Yankees pounded Crowder off the peak while registering four times.

A walk to Lary was later turned into the run credited to the home crew in the first. One was out when he drew it and Ruth's pop to Myer was the second out. Then Gehrig singled to West and Lary counted when the center fielder let the ball skid through his legs.

Cronin walked opening the second and Reynolds quickly scored him on a double to right center. Helpful outs by Judge and Bluege let Reynolds register. This put the Nats one to the good, but they did not hold this edge long, for Crosetti opened the home half with a one-baser and Dickey followed with a home run into the right field stands. After Lazzeri popped out, Pennock walked, Byrd doubled, Lary inserted a long fly, and Ruth and Gehrig singled.

These happenings scored two more runs and two were on the sacks when Ragland relieved Crowder. He walked Combs, to fill the bases, but then forced Crosetti to hit into a force play.

Three Nats Stranded In Fourth.

This ended the scoring until the sixth, although three Yankees were left in the third, the result of a second double by Byrd and two walks. Singles by Cronin and Reynolds and a walk to Bluege put three Nats on in the fourth but netted no runs.

Cronin opened round six with a triple and scored on Reynolds' roller to deep short. Burke must have thought the plate looked like a pendulum in the home half, for he walked the first two to face him, and, after the next two had been retired, packed the runways by passing Crosetti. He managed to get out of the hole by holding Dickey to a pop foul to Judge.

The Nationals managed to knot the string in the eighth, although it took no particular punch for them to do so. West opened with a single, and, after Cronin walked, Lazzeri fumbled Reynolds' grounder to fill the bases. Judge and Bluege then came through with long flies which allowed a mate to register after each catch. Judge's blow missed being a homer in the right field stands by less than a yard. Pennock gave way to Ruffing following Judge's looper.

Bases on balls, which hurt the fingers of both Yankees, bobbed up again in the natives' eighth to put the Yankees in front again. Marberry was on the mound. Lary drew one, took third on Ruth's single and tallied on Gehrig's infield out.

It looked as though the Nats might at least tie things up in the ninth when Rice, up for Marberry, coaxed a free trip to first. Myer poped out trying to sacrifice, however, and then Manush and West went down swinging.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

New York, April 26.

THE abbreviated series between the Nationals and Yankees will be completed here tomorrow. Manager Walter Johnson plans to start Lloyd Brown on the hill, the southpaw declaring that his salary wing is now in condition and that he is ready to make a belated starting debut. Paul Andrews, a promising young right-hander, is expected to oppose him.

Bennie Chapman, of the Yanks, will be out of the game for some time, being laid up with a floating cartilege in his right knee. Lou Gehrig also is hobbling around like a hen on a hot griddle with a badly twisted left ankle. He probably would have been benched but for the fact that he has a consecutive-game playing streak which he wants to keep alive. Today's fracas was No. 1,051 for him.

Capt. Hunter Maguire, former athletic officer at Walter Reed and an enthusiastic Washington fan, was at the game, but he could not quite pull the Nats to victory.

Manush beat out a swinging bunt in the first, but then became tangled up in a traffic jam on the bases which saw both him and West killed. Lazzeri to Lary to Gehrig.

It looked as though Byrd would get a homer when he opened the game for the Yankees with a long looper. Manush, however, backed up to the short left-field fence and snared the ball at arm's length over his head.

The Nats' second run scored in round two was due to the fact that Lary did not come up cleanly on Bluege's roller, with Reynolds on third at the time. The Yankee short fielder saved himself an error by recovering the ball quick enough to make the out at first.

Dickey's homer, with Crosetti on first in the second, was the twenty-first homer by Yankees in ten games, an average of two a contest. The record is 154 per season, set by the Yankees in 1927.

Two were on and two were dead when Ragland relieved Crowder in the second. He got two strikes on Combs and then filled the bases by walking him on four successive balls. In the third, Ragland walked Lary, again packing the aisles with two out. "Rags" pulled out of this latter hole by fanning Ruth.

Cronin thought he had pounded out a homer opening the Nats' fourth, but Umpire Moriarty ruled it foul. It was a drive which curved outside as it was heading for the left field

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 26.—Her Grace, Ral Parr's smart filly, defeated what was left of the field in the Glyndon, the day's feature race, after three scratches left a group of only four to face the barrier. Her Grace was coupled with Avalon in the betting. The public made the entry an odds-on favorite, with the luke-warm betters taking Finite, and the moonshooters Bitsy O'Neill.

Finite finished second by a length after putting up a good battle against Her Grace, with Avalon in third place, another length and a half behind. Bitsy O'Neill failed to show improvement and passed the judges' stand a length in front of a tractor.

There seemed to be a lot of "catch-me spirit" about the way Leishman took Finite away from the barrier. Her Grace was right up to Finite's saddle post, with Avalon close by. Finite held the advantage coming down the stretch and it appeared that the gelding might stick on top to the wire. However, Jockey Hanford found that closing drive in Her Grace and the filly forged to the front to work out a mile after tucking away the purse.

10,000 See Performance Score in Opener.

The crowd soared above the 10,000 mark again. The track, fairly slow at the start of the program, was a second behind time by the second race, due to a shower which sent the customers scurrying to the betting ring.

Performance, a Swift and Sure filly from the Mereworth Stud, accounted for the chief end of the opening purse under the handling of Charlie Allen. Nahunta, with Hanford up, was second, with Imagale third. Nahunta broke on top, followed by Performance and Lady Chase. The front pair stayed close together until the stretch turn, where Allen took Performance to the top. The filly proved the best in the stretch run. Imagale made up a lot of ground to take third.

Hagerstown, making his first start of the season, wasted no time in collecting brackets. The son of Sandy Bell showed a keen liking to the track, turned slow by a shower, and raced Jaffa into defeat. From where we were sitting it looked like Fair Jack had won the race by a head with his late rush, but the judges gave it to Hagerstown, and the chart makers were forced to write it a nose. Boscobel held the show end of the purse safe.

Brave and Bold Leads Three-Year-Olds.

The Mereworth Stud collected its second purse of the day when Brave and Bold, with Charlie Allen again in the saddle, stepped down to defeat the 3-year-olds that sought the Riderwood Purse in the third race. Brave and Bold, which set most of the pace, won from the driving Microphone, with Busted in third place.

Unlike his company, Brave and Bold is not named for either the Preakness or the Derby.

Pending finally scored, taking the fifth race for the Greentree Stables. The Pennant colt was forced to put out all his speed to keep Mouthpiece safe. The ancient William T. drove into third place.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PERFORMANCE, $7.80, $3.70, $2.70; NAHUNTA, $5.50, $4.10; IMAGALE, $3.90.

PERFORMANCE, hurried into contention, followed NAHUNTA closely after the first sixteenth mile, assumed a short lead when straightened into the home stretch and, continuing stoutly under urging, began drawing clear in the last twenty yards. NAHUNTA, vigorously ridden from the start, saved ground and held on resolutely when challenged. IMAGALE met with slight interference directly after the break, went to the outside for racing room and closed stoutly under punishment. LADY CHASE was unable to stay with the pacemakers after breaking fast. NORTH SHADOW went evenly throughout. The last three at the start broke tardily.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, foaled in Maryland. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:00. Off at 3:05½. Winner, J. D. HAGERSTOWN, displaying good speed when fully in his stride, raced JAFFA into defeat and, holding on gamely, just staggered in to outstay FAIR JACK. Latter outrun early, responded readily when placed to punishment and, closing fast when straightened into the home stretch, was catching the winner rapidly. BOSCOBEL, saving ground wherever possible, was inclined to bear to the inside repeatedly during the stretch run and had to be taken up several times. LILLYBET was unable to improve her position. TARQUIN was forced to race on the outside from the start. JAFFA quit badly after three furlongs.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Riderwood. For 3-year-old colts and geldings. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:38. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAVE AND BOLD, $8.00, $3.20, $2.60; MICROPHONE, $2.70, $2.50; BUSTED, $4.10.

BRAVE AND BOLD, rated close to the pacemaker until midway of the turn, went into command without effort and was under steadying restraint all through the final furlong. MICROPHONE, hustled to the front, was shaken up when challenged, and held on well under a drive. BUSTED, slow to settle in his stride, secured clear passage on the inside when entering the home stretch and closed fast. KNIGHT'S CAP showed a good test for the entire trip. MISCALCULATE finished going stoutly on the outside. THE CRANE was never a dangerous factor. RUMMY displayed early foot, as did MAJOR LEE.

FINITE outran his opposition under slight restraint, saved ground, but could not resist the winner's effort when shaken up. AVALON, taken under slight restraint early, closed stoutly in the final drive. BETSY O'NEILL was overmatched.

PENDING, restrained while racing in near pursuit of DANCING MACK, assumed command when approaching the home stretch and, holding on stoutly, outstayed MOUTHPIECE. Latter worked his way up on the outside when moving to the pacemakers, responded gamely, but hung during the final furlong after making a stout effort. WILLIAM T., going well placed early, held on well for the closing drive. DANCING MACK displayed good speed while setting the early pace, but weakened during the final quarter mile. CHICSU was outrun for the entire journey. The others were never dangerous.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK.

There's a lot of horses around here that are beating each other. Brave and Bold showed up the highbrow Preakness and Derby hopefuls. Yesterday's showers kept the crowd guessing as to the condition of the track. No wonder old C. Jackson grinned when he knew Redcliffe was home the other day. Ladfield was shipped to Pimlico for the Preakness.

Hit a winning stride yesterday. If you must wager, there are spots and spots and here's ours.

BILL.

The Whitney entry of DAISY CUTTER and THREE DAGGERS seem to have an edge over the good 2-year-olds that seek the $10,000 added Aberdeen Stakes over the 4½-furlong sprint route. DAISY CUTTER showed excellent speed in her only test. THREE DAGGERS has a bad post, but may overcome that to be a factor. Both have worked well. The Foxcatcher pair of STAR FAIRY and GOLDEN FATE are likely to have much to say about the division of this purse. Both are promising. CANTORIA for third money.

FIRST RACE—BURNSIDE is in a spot where he should leave the maiden ranks. Ran evenly behind War Hero the other day. LOUIS MERRYMAN'S last showed promise and I see him second ahead of REHOBOTH.

SECOND RACE—PREDICT has a good chance to carry down the major part of this purse. Came from far back the last time to beat out everything behind GAY PARTY, and will be up there today providing he makes a faster break. GAY PARTY and ROKEBY, in the entry, to place, PANCHO LOPEZ for third.

THIRD RACE—CON AMORE may come back to the races with a victory. Workouts have been keen and the little mare should defeat these. CANRON has been showing a high turn of speed both in trials and races and may make it hot for the opposition here. MARLENE likes a slow track. See her third.

FIFTH RACE—TICK ON will get a test in actual racing today and looms the best of the group. Headed for bigger and better things, according to the horsemen. MAD FRUMP will be the one to beat. SPRING STEEL for third.

SIXTH RACE—REPENTANCE made up a world of ground behind Equipoise in the Philadelphia. Off that race the Sun Flag gelding appears to have this race in his grip. MYNHEER ran Spanish Play to a head last season and is said to be ready. ROYAL RUFFIAN for third.

SEVENTH RACE—TULACH ARD, after also running yesterday, is named in this cheaper company. See him the winner ahead of FAIR BILL and BOOKIE B., the Fletcher-Arthur entry.

14 in Almost Certain Starter Class for Derby

Large Field to Seek Classic Honors Is Indication.

LOUISVILLE, April 26 (A.P.).—With fourteen thoroughbreds listed as almost certain starters, and almost a score in the probable starter class, prospects are that a record field will face the barrier in the 1932 Kentucky Derby May 7.

The largest derby field in history went to the post in 1928, when 22 3-year-olds ran and Reigh Count triumphed. If as many start this year as their trainers say will start the field will be an unwieldy one, but horse racing is uncertain at best and the next ten days probably will change many calculations.

Top Flight Among "Certain" Entries.

The almost certain starters include C. V. Whitney's Top Flight, the Loma Stable's Tick On, and Shandon Farm's Burning Blaze, the winter book favorites. Leading Western candidates considered almost certain entries are the Three D's Stables' Liberty Limited and Col. E. R. Bradley's Brother Joe and Burgoo King.

Others in the "almost certain" class are R. M. Eastman's Cathop, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Curacao, the late Joseph Leiter's Prince Hotspur, the Northway Stables' Gallant Sir, J. W. Parrish's Cold Check, M. L. Schwartz's Barcelona Pete, C. V. Whitney's Mad Frump, and Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Stepenfetchit.

Outstanding among the "probable starters" are Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's Sweeping Light, which developed from a weakling into a winning juvenile last year; J. J. Robinson's Lucky Tom, winner of the Louisiana Derby, and W. F. Knebelkamp's Delivered, which has recovered from a split ankle.

Others considered probable entries are Charles T. Fisher's Cee Tee, Lon Jones & Sons' Barashkova, the Brandon Stable's Brandon Mint, and Rowdy Boy, which the three D's Stable plans to start with Liberty Limited as an entry.

Train Ride May Make Difference.

The probable starter list is expected to be increased to almost a score when Eastern owners begin shipping their nominees to Churchill Downs within a few days. A complete line-up of the probable Derby field can not be obtained until the eligibles are actually on the ground and reveal how they shape up after their train ride.

Twelve horses started in last year's Derby, won by Twenty Grand, and the Derby was started from a stall gate for the first time in history. The starting gate in use at the Downs last year accommodated only fourteen horses, so it is likely if more than that number start they will be lined up before a wire barrier for the historic mile and a quarter race.

stands. Joe then singled cleanly to right.

Kerr hit for Ragland in round 4 with three on and two gone, but his best was a looper to Byrd.

After Gehrig had greeted Burke with his third successive single, opening the home fourth, he was nipped for a double play when he tried to steal as Combs missed a third strike.

Myer, Manush and West were unable to hit the ball out of the infield in the fifth and went down in rapid order.

Johnson called on two pinch hitters opening the seventh. Spencer, up for Berg, popped to Dickey, but Harris, who represented Burke at the tee, drew a stroll.

Judge's fly in the eighth, which let West score, missed going into the right field stands for a homer by less than a yard. Ruth dragged it down while reaching high overhead and while backed up against the screen guarding the sun god parlor. After this blow, Pennock was excused from further pitching and Ruffing relieved him.

When Marberry walked Lary opening the home eighth, it was the Yankee shortstop's fourth stroll of the afternoon. It was later turned into the run which beat the Nats.

POOLE TO COACH AT G. U.

Harold Poole, former Georgetown pitching mainstay, will coach the Hilltop freshmen baseball team this season. Poole, who graduated last June, starred as a hurler through the period, 1929-1931.

Eastern High Trackmen Face Maryland Cubs

Eastern High's track team, whose days as District champions have been numbered by the track scribes, makes its second outdoor appearance of the season this afternoon when it engages the Maryland University Freshmen at 3:30 o'clock at College Park.

The Easterners, whose green team seems to be losing its color under the careful handling of Mike Kelley, is favored to score its first outdoor victory this afternoon, having been beaten by Episcopal in its initial attempt.

Eastern's ball team plays at home against Georgetown Prep, while Central's nine goes over to Episcopal.

These events make up the day's activities in scholastic sports.

Marines Face W. Va. Nine in Debut Thursday

The Quantico Marines' varsity baseball nine will inaugurate their 1932 season on Thursday, April 28, with a game against the West Virginia University tossers, it was announced today by Lieut. Huffman, coach.

Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, of the Marine Corps, will toss out the first ball.

SHIKAT-PINETZKI IN FEATURE MATCH

will do the least bit of good, but it keeps the mazuma mug a'boiling.

It's quite possible that Pinetzki may win, but not very likely. After all his 280 pounds, 8-foot arms and fixed expression are not a healthy triumvirate of virtues. He will outweigh Shikat by about 60 pounds and be about a foot taller. It does not seem likely that his substitution in place of Stein will hurt the card one way or another, since he has many more clownish and weird characteristics, and in these seem to lie the future of rassling.

The rest of the card remains the same. It reads: Jim McMillen vs. Howard Cantonwine; Fred Grobmeier vs. George Manich; Jack Hurley vs. George McLeod and Nick Nestor vs. Abe Coleman.

LINGLE JOINS PACKERS.

The veteran catcher Cy Lingle, who played with the Des Moines team last season, has been signed by the Omaha Packers.

Tick On Starts Today In 3-Year-Old Debut

Baltimore, Md., April 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Louis G. Kaufmann's Tick On, now cofavorite with Top Flight to win the Kentucky Derby, will make his 3-year-old debut in the mile-and-70-yard Shenandoah Purse at Havre de Grace tomorrow.

Tick On's odds were slashed yesterday when he stepped a mile in 1:38 4-5, the fastest time recorded by a derby eligible. He finished out 1⅛ miles in 1:54 2-5.

In tomorrow's race he will carry 119 pounds, the same weight that has been assigned A. C. Bostwick's Proteus.

DEVITT GOLFERS WIN.

Devitt Prep won its opening match in the Prep School Golf League yesterday, defeating St. John's by a score of 5-1, on the East Potomac Park course. Al Baer was the only member of the Devitt team to lose. He bowed to Hartnett.

Richards (D.) defeated Duane, 4 and 3; J. Baer (D.) defeated Ortman, 4 and 3; Bonnette (D.) defeated O'Leary, 5 and 4; Hartnett (S. J.) defeated A. Baer, 3 and 2. Best ball, Devitt, 3 and 1.

MRS. VON STEINNER'S 162 WINS

Miss Faunce Beaten by 4 Strokes

Congressional Player Gains Mrs. Keefer's Golf Trophy.

Mrs. Haynes Is Low Gross Victor With 87 and 89.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

MRS. ALMA VON STEINNER, of the Congressional Club, yesterday won the trophy donated by Mrs. F. R. Keefer in the 36-hole medal play handicap tournament played on the course of the Chevy Chase Club. Mrs. von Steinner's two rounds of 91 and 93 for a total of 184, with a total handicap of 22, gave her a net score of 162, an advantage of four strokes over her nearest competitor, Miss Winifred Faunce, of the Manor Club, who had a gross score of 178 with a handicap of 12 and a net of 166.

The prize for low gross score for the 36 holes was awarded to Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of the Columbia Club, who was the only player to break 90 in the two rounds. Her cards were 87 and 89, a total of 176. With her handicap of 4 for each eighteen holes she was also entitled to third low net, but selected the low gross prize. There was no prize for second low gross, but the third and fourth low net winners were Mrs. L. G. Pray, Manor, with 201—32—169, and Mrs. Y. E. Booker, Washington, 192—20—172.

Mrs. Wagner Wins Consolation.

In the consolation class the winner was Mrs. E. B. Wagner, Indian Spring, with a card of 204—32—172, the second low net prize being awarded to Mrs. J. F. Gross, Indian Spring, whose card was 214—32—182. The third low net prize was won by Miss Virginia Irwin, unattached, with 215—32—83.

Other contestants who came close to being enumerated among the low net prize winners in the first class were Mrs. Everett Eynon, Columbia, 186—12—174; Miss Louise Claytor, Chevy Chase, 202—28—174, and Mrs. C. K. Osborne, Army-Navy, 196—22—174. At the conclusion of the tournament the names of the six golfers with the highest scores were placed in a hat and one was drawn to win the prize offered by Mrs. F. M. Yager, of the Congressional Club. The winner was Mrs. Max Garber, of the Army-Navy Club, although her score was not the highest recorded on the board. The contestants in this lottery were Mrs. L. W. Comstock, Army-Navy; Mrs. L. B. Brubaker, Washington; Mrs. Ralph Sascer, Washington; Miss Jessica Harvey, Congressional, and Mrs. Lucien Booth, Chevy Chase.

Thunder Shower Hampers Play.

The event was somewhat demoralized by a heavy thunder shower before all the players had finished their rounds, but the sun was brightly shining when Mrs. Keefer, the donor of the cup and the president of the Women's District Golf Association, presented the prizes. Owing to the storm many more or less remarkable cards were submitted, but none was more unusual than the score of Miss Susan Hacker, champion of the Chevy Chase Club, who played through the rain for the first nine in 53 strokes and then negotiated the second nine in 42, a difference of eleven strokes, or more than a stroke a hole.

The women's golf committee of the Manor Club announces that a miniature tournament will be held on the course next Friday morning with all the women members of the club eligible for the competition. Play will commence at 9:30 o'clock with a qualifying round of six holes, after which the contestants will be paired for match play in flights of four.

HILLTOP NINE WINNER, 6-2, OVER W. VA.

Carpenter Scatters 8 Hits in Fast Game; Shows Control.

GEORGETOWN and West Virginia furnished real news yesterday, much like the man that bit the dog. They played a nine-inning ball game—believe it or not—in just 1 hour and 35 minutes. That's one for the historians.

Despite the fact they were breaking custom (three hours is the usual time collegians require to indulge in nine innings), they put up an interesting brand of baseball, with Georgetown exhibiting its best form to date.

Georgetown won by 6 to 2 for its second victory of the season. It was West Virginia's second defeat in the Capital area, the visitors having bowed to Maryland the day before.

Bill Carpenter, husky sophomore, made his debut on the mound for Georgetown, giving a nice account of himself. He showed fine control and yielded but eight hits, which he scattered fairly well.

Opposed to Carpenter was Ed Baker, a left-hander, who gave one less hit, but who was not so perfect from the standpoint of control. He hit one batter and walked another, and both finally scored.

TINY BOXERS COMPLETE TOURNEY

Boys Club and Noel House Each Win 3 Junior Titles.

AFTER three nights of old-fashioned slugging and clever boxing, some 400 spectators went home with their fill of fisticuffs last night as the finals of the Junior A. A. U. championships of the District were staged at the Boys Club.

The Boys Club boxers and the Noel House Team shared the championship honors, each producing three title winners. The Goodacre Boys Club and the Merrick Boys Club each carried off one championship.

In the feature of the finals Harry Gevinson, of the Boys Club, a brother of Louis Gevinson, 118-pound amateur champion of the District, defeated his teammate, Gus Koustensis, in a sensational affray. Gevinson wore Gus down with his body punching, but the latter rallied in the final round and all but won the decision.

In the 90-pound finals Mike Cattella, of Noel House, shaded Chris Albano, of the National Training School, although the fans were divided on the decision of Referee Joe Bateman.

60-POUND CLASS—Joe Petro (Goodacre Club) defeated Pete Reily (Goodacre Club), decision, three rounds.

70-POUND CLASS—Angelo Pappas (Boys Club) defeated Anthony Cattela (Noel House), decision, three rounds.

80-POUND CLASS—Morris Cechini (Noel House) defeated Manuel Kayser (Nye House), decision, three rounds.

90-POUND CLASS—Mike Cattela (Noel House) defeated Chris Albano (National Training School), decision, three rounds.

100-POUND CLASS — William Kemp (Merrick Boys Club) defeated Murray Kraft (J. C. C.), decision, three rounds.

WASHINGTON NET GROUP VOTED

Capital to Withdraw From Mid-Atlantic; Johnson Elected.

THE Washington Tennis Association, in its annual meeting last night at Wardman Park Hotel, agreed to form of itself and its affiliated local clubs a sectional tennis association apart from the Middle Atlantic Tennis Association, which heretofore has held domain over the city's tennis interests.

Elimination of red tape and closer cooperation between District tennis players and the Washington Tennis Association were pointed out advantages which would arise out of such action. The move would have a good effect on the game in this region, it was held. Herbert L. Shepard, present incumbent of the treasurer's chair of the Middle Atlantic, was appointed to head the committee to investigate ways and means of making Washington a separate entity in Middle Atlantic tennis.

Louis I. Doyle and Winfree Johnson reelected honorary president and president of the local net body, while John Ladd was elevated to the vice presidency from the secretary-treasurership, succeeding Clarence M. Charest. William O. Shreve was elected secretary-treasurer.

The meeting went on record as favoring the holding of the forty-fifth District of Columbia championship at Wardman, and an effort will be made to have the meet sponsored by the George Washington Bicentennial Sports Commission and secure the services of ranking national amateurs. Pat Deck was appointed chairman of the District championship committee.

The meeting lent a sympathetic ear to the suggestions of the public parks association that it bar players who have not paid current entrance and ball fees, but reserved action.

The need of development of both boys and girls tennis was stressed throughout the caucus.

Eagle Loft Is Winner Of Old Bird Series

WESTERN TRIUMPHS IN SCHOOL SERIES

Mullock on base. He knocked the second out of the park with the bases empty in the ninth inning, also with two away.

Payne granted his opponents but two hits, fanned eight, and issued but one pass. Errors were utilized by Lynn Woodworth's charges in producing their two runs in the first, and from then Payne breezed through to victory in grand fashion.

Although shaded a bit by his opponent, Silverman attended to the twirling duties for Business in workmanlike fashion. Only seven safeties were gleaned from his offerings, but two of thees happened to be those costly homers by Mr. Hilleary. Silverman fanned four and then nullified this by walking as many.

Stenogs Score Two In First.

C. Schneider and Garner counted for Business in the opening inning. The former walked, advanced on a sacrifice, and came home when Garner rapped one to center field. The latter counted when Western's infield was overcome by an epidemic of errors.

The fray was replete with sparkling fielding. Sherman, at first base, and Steele, in left field, stamped themselves as worthy of all-high consideration with their work yesterday. Ahern, in center field, also played well for the Stenogs, while Wilhoite's fly-snagging for Western was a treat for sore eyes.

SANDLOT DUST

THE THIRD team to represent a taxicab company was added to the unlimited division of the Post's Capital City League last night. The newcomer is Irvin Cab. Diamond Cab and City Cab are already entered. The only difference between the three is that Diamond and City are represented by teams comprised wholly of employes.

Irvin is the Olmsted Grill crew, champions of the senior division last year, disguised in new uniforms. Olmsted Grill was a much respected, and no little envied, group of young men last season. With the roster intact, with the exception of Bud Thomas, who is making good with Chattanooga in the Southern Association, and a few new faces added the team should continue its successful march through the sandlot ranks this year.

"Snitz" Nau, the John McGraw of the sandlots, is again at the helm of the team, and that is 50 per cent of the battle. "Snitz" is a walking baseball information bureau. And the size of his hat has not changed despite his many triumphs on the diamond. Although he will say, be it an admission or a boast, that his present collection of ball players is the smartest and most capable he has ever handled. The club will meet at Nau's home Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, to be measured for uniforms. Sunday it will meet Gaithersburg on the latter's diamond, at 3 p. m.

The Lincoln A. C. can use a few good infielders. Those interested should call Manager Williams at North 6945, between 6 and 10 p. m.

The Pizgah Juniors are booking Saturday games with teams in their class. Congress Heights and Berwyn are especially challenged. Address Manager Leonard Crismond at Marbury, Md.

Games are wanted for Sunday by the Robinson A. C., with unlimited teams. Call Manager J. C. Hays at National 3268 during the day.

A workout for the Vienna Fire Department Team is listed for today at 6 p. m. on the Vienna diamond. For game, call Atlantic 2442.

The Department Store Baseball League will open Sunday with two games scheduled on the Monument Grounds. S. Kann Sons will oppose Palais Royal, and Lansburgh will cross bats with the Hecht Co. in the inaugurals. Both games will start at 11 a. m., one to be played on Diamond No. 3 and the other on Diamond No. 4. This will be the second year for the league and a banner season is expected. Large crowds were attracted to its games last year.

The Sterling Athletic Club has reorganized for the season and is looking for games with strong teams in the unlimited division. Manager Palmer is arranging the schedule at Metropolitan 5344.

The Lutto Jewelers, unlimited champions of Richmond, are anxious to arrange a game in Washington with a fast unlimited team. Address all queries to 104 East Broad street, Richmond, Va.

Joe Fox will twirl for the Sioux Athletic Club against the Richmond Tigers at Richmond Sunday. All players are requested to report at 7:30 a. m. to make the trip.

The Miller Furniture Co. Seniors will meet tomorrow night at 343 Tennessee avenue northeast, at which time all members are requested to turn in their birth certificates.

The Anacostia Eagles would like to arrange games for Saturday and Sunday to be played at Shady Oak. Teams interested should call the manager at Lincoln 4434-J after 6 p. m. The schedule is being arranged for the remainder of the campaign.

ORDINANCE ON BUSES RAPPED IN PETITIONS

Declare Blue Line Has Not Been Treated Fairly by Alexandria Council.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Petitions are being circulated in Alexandria, addressed to the city council, asking the council to reconsider its action of last Thursday in adopting an ordinance effective May 15, which, it is alleged, will have the effect of putting the Alexandria-Washington buses, locally known as the Blue Line, out of business, and, in effect, granting a monopoly of bus traffic to the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington line, owned and operated by Robert L. May.

The ordinance in question, which is intended to regulate bus traffic, and which was drawn up, it is understood, by City Attorney Carl Budweaky, sets forth the routes which shall be taken through the city by buses engaged in interstate traffic, and provides that only bus lines having a Class "A" certificate issued by the State corporation commission shall have the right to handle local traffic within the confines of Alexandria, or between points between Alexandria and Washington. The A. B. & A. line has such a certificate, but the "Blue Line" is operating on a certificate granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Alexandria Commuters' Association, through Harry F. Kennedy, president, has called a meeting to be held in the Maury School building Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, to enter a protest against the action. Protests have been entered by the Alexandria Citizens committee and other civic bodies. Two rules have been issued against the Blue Line by the State corporation commission to prevent that line from picking up and discharging passengers within the corporate limits of Alexandria. The first was dismissed on motion of Charles Henry Smith, attorney for the bus company, and he has filed a brief with the commission in support of his motion to dismiss the second.

The convention committee of Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion, has announced the dates of the annual convention of the Department of Virginia, which will be held in Alexandria, as July 31, August 1, 2 and 3. Tentative plans for entertainment of the large number of delegates and guests were mapped at a meeting of the committee Monday night.

The plans provide for the convention to open Sunday morning with the registration of delegates, and a tea will be served in Gadsby's Tavern Sunday afternoon, by the Alexandria post and the Forty and Eight Society.

Business sessions of the convention will start at 9 o'clock Monday morning, adjourning at 1 o'clock, followed by a boat trip to Quantico. The day's activities will be closed with a ball that night.

Tuesday's session will adjourn about 1 o'clock for the parade at 3 o'clock. In addition to the legion units, there will be a number of military units in line, including C. M. T. C. units from nearby Army posts.

Wednesday officers will be elected, followed with an entertainment program staged by the Arlington Post. Approximately 2,500 delegates and guests are expected to attend.

Two additional attractions for the dedication on May 12 of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple in Alexandria have been announced by the dedication committee. These are the airship Los Angeles, which will fly over the city of Alexandria from 12 to 12:30 o'clock on May 12, and over the Memorial from 12:30 to 12:45 o'clock, and the Navy submarine R-3, which will be moored at the wharf of the Mutual Ice Co. at the foot of Cameron street and will be open to visitors from 3 until 6:30 o'clock.

Notice of the assignment of these vessels to attend the dedication was given the committee by J. Herbert Taylor, who has charge of the naval contingent.

Abner L. Hawes, 50, of 114 North Payne street, Alexandria, a locomotive engineer, died Monday night in Alexandria Hospital. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Cunningham funeral home. Services will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, pastor of the Del Ray Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery. Mr. Hawes is survived by his wife, six sons and five daughters.

J. Owen Lynch, on behalf of the trustees of Alexandria Lodge, No. 758, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, announced at the meeting of the lodge Monday night that $6,000 worth of bonds had just been paid off and the bonds destroyed. This was the last of a bond issue of $25,000 in 1909. The Elks Home is now free from debt. The trustees, J. Owen Lynch, Jerome Kaufmann and A. T. Peake, were given life memberships in the lodge in recognition of the able manner in which they handled the finances of the lodge and discharged this debt.

The Rev. Hugh T. McFadden, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, was installed as chaplain of the lodge by Past Exalted Ruler James Reece Duncan.

A free chest clinic will be held by Dr. H. A. Latane and Dr. Llewellyn Powell from 3 to 5 o'clock this afternoon, at the city health office. A clinic for colored persons will be held at the same time and place tomorrow.

95-Year-Old Pawnee Files for G.O.P. Elector

Oklahoma City, April 26 (A.P.).—William Riding In, 95-year-old Pawnee Indian, has filed for presidential elector in the First Oklahoma District. He placed his thumb mark on a filing blank after being indorsed for the place by the Republican State convention yesterday.

Riding In is in perfect health. He is a veteran of the Sioux wars, having served as a scout for the United States Army.

W. C. T. U. Conclave Asks Parties to Cling to Dry Act

Alexandria-Arlington Branch Holds Wet Forces Have Been Unable to Suggest Better Plan for Solution of Drink Problem.

Declaring that the wet forces of the country "after four years of agitation have not been able to present a better plan than prohibition and that they now offer 'home rule,' which means return to old conditions," the Alexandria City-Arlington Woman's Christian Temperance Union at its quarterly convention held at Clarendon yesterday adopted the following resolution:

"That we request the delegates from our State or district to the national party conventions to give their vote for enforcement rather than a repeal plank."

The morning session opened at the Clarendon Methodist Episcopal Church with the invocation by the Rev. John H. Pearson, pastor. The entire session was given over to the report of officers, all of which showed progress during the last quarter.

At the afternoon session Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, national president of the Parent-Teacher Association, advocated rigid enforcement of the prohibition law. She stated that both of the national parties are now making efforts to include a wet plank in their platform and that if such comes to pass the women of the country will stay at home on election day rather than vote to break down the present prohibition laws.

The convention concluded at the night session with an address by Walter K. Handy, president of the Arlington-Fairfax Week-Day Religious Association. He spoke on "Prohibition a Challenge to Youth."

2 AUDITORS ADDED IN DUNCAN INQUIRY

Action Taken to Speed Work on Accounts; Hearing Is Set Today.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

In an effort to expedite the work of auditing the accounts in the offices of former County Clerk William H. Duncan, indicted for grand larceny of public funds, State Auditors John M. Purcell, jr., son of the state treasurer, and Thomas S. Dunaway arrived in Arlington County yesterday. With their arrival there are now four State auditors working on the books in the clerk's office.

There are now at the courthouse a total of nine auditors, five of whom, is is understood, are working on the books of former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball.

Work in the former county clerk's office by the State auditors started on March 23, while in the former treasurer's office they began their work on February 20. At this time, despite the fact that the work started two months ago, they are not in a position to say when the work of auditing all accounts in all departments at the courthouse will be completed.

The total audit of all accounts is being made at the request of the county board.

William H. Duncan will appear before Judge Walter T. McCarthy in the circuit court today at 10 o'clock to answer the indictment returned by the grand jury at the opening of the April term of the circuit court.

He will be represented by Attorneys Amos C. Crouse, of Arlington County, and Leo P. Harlow, of Alexandria.

The cooperation of both Sheriff Howard B. Fields and county health officer, Dr. P. M. Chichester, was given yesterday to the committee of the county-wide clean-up compaign which opens Monday to put a stop to the illegal dumping of trash on private property throughout Arlington County, according to a statement given out last night by General Chairman Stanley H. Williamson.

Mr. Williamson stated that Sheriff Fields will designate an officer during the campaign to keep a close lookout for persons dumping trash in violation of the law.

Dr. Chichester declared nothing better could be accomplished than to put a stop to the dumping of trash in places other than those specified by the county officials, and that he was heartily in accord with the efforts being made by the clean-up committee.

Mr. Williamson addressed the monthly meeting of the Ballston Citizens Association, held in the auditorium of the Ballston Firemen's Hall. He pointed out that the wholehearted cooperation which is being given by citizens in every section of the county was most pleasing to the committee and declared that the campaign will be a great success.

He was given the assurances of the association that Ballston is 100 per cent behind the movement.

A mass meeting will be held tomorrow evening in the interest of the county-wide clean-up in the Barcroft Community House at 8 o'clock. The meeting is being held under the auspices of the Barcroft School and Civic League. Mr. Williamson, chairman of the campaign committee, and Arthur Orr, member of the executive committee, will speak.

As a part of the George Washington Bicentennial program, the Parent-Teacher Association of the Stonewall Jackson School at Mulhall, Arlington County, will plant four trees on the school grounds tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Magruder, member of the Arlington County board, and the Rev. Henry J. Miller, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, Clarendon, will be the principal speakers. An entertainment program will be offered by the pupils of the schools.

COMMISSIONERS RAP SPECIAL AID SESSION

Board in Prince Georges Is Opposed to Calling of Legislature.

Holding that a special session of the Maryland Legislature would be expensive and that it might not effect any economies, the board of commissioners of Prince Georges County yesterday declared themselves opposed to the proposal.

Convening of the Legislature to pass relief bills has already been discussed in the State and lately several Eastern Shore counties have proposed calling a meeting to lower the State tax of 25 cents. The next regular session will be in January of next year.

Andrew Gasch, chief of the Bladensburg Rescue Squad, appeared before the commissioners yesterday to present specifications for a new ambulance. The county squad last week asked the board to help them in the purchase of a new ambulance, and the board was apparently favorable to the proposal. No action on the purchase was taken yesterday, however.

A committee was appointed to report on the necessity of opening a road from Lohr's Hill to the District line, a distance of about half a mile. It consists of Guy Trueman, Edward Wood and William S. Long. The proposed route is between Suitland road and the Southern Maryland pike. The commissioners ordered that improvement work on the Marlboro-Glenn Dale road should start from the Defense highway instead of from the Central avenue end. Tievo Lehto was appointed forest warden in Takoma Park.

Rum Driver Gets 9-Month Sentence

Takoma Park, Md., Man Is Penalized on Three Traffic Charges.

Charles Brock, 24 years old, of Takoma Park, Md., yesterday was sentenced to serve nine months and five days in the Maryland House of Correction by Judge Charles W. Woodward, in Montgomery County Police Court at Rockville, Md. The judge told Brock he was sorry he couldn't give him more time.

Brock was convicted on charges of driving while drunk, leaving the scene of an accident without making known his identity and driving without a registration card and permit in his possession. He was captured by Policemen C. H. Richardson and C. S. Price, of the Sixth Precinct, after a chase of about a half mile on Carroll avenue, Takoma Park. He is alleged to have failed to stop after striking a street car at the District line, and three automobiles on Carroll avenue.

Primary Election Is Held in Alaska

Votes Cast for Delegates to Conventions and Congress Seats.

Juneau, Alaska, April 26 (A.P.).—Alaska's Indians, prospectors and businessmen, from Ketchikan, on the south, to Point Barrow, on the Arctic, over 2,000 miles to the north, cast ballots in the territory's primary election today. Fair weather was reported throughout the territory, but early voting was slow.

Two Republican and six Democratic delegates to the national conventions will be nominated. There were two slates of Democratic candidates, but both favor the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for President. The Republicans are supporting President Hoover for renomination. There are three Democratic candidates for delegate to Congress, Territorial Senator Anthony J. Dimond, of Valdez, George B. Grigsby, former delegate, and A. H. Ziegler, both of Ketchikan. James Wickersham, Republican incument, is unopposed.

Due to the great size of the territory, which is one-fifth as large as the United States proper, complete returns were not expected for some time. The 1930 census gave Alaska a population of 59,278, of which 29,983 are Indians. The latter have usually voted the Republican ticket.

EXTRA LEGISLATURE HELD UNNECESSARY

Montgomery County Board, However, Will Not Fight Others Seeking Aid.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post,
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4203.

Expressing sympathy with the desire of the county commissioners of the nine Eastern Shore counties to do all that is possible to relieve taxpayers of the State during the present depression, the Montgomery County Commissioners stated that nevertheless Montgomery County is in no condition requiring such heroic measures as a special session of the Legislature.

The commissioners directed that a letter to Horace M. Clark, secretary of the Eastern Shore Commissioners Association at Salisbury, Md., be written stating such belief, but further stating that the Montgomery County Commissioners will not in any way oppose the desires of the officials and citizens of other counties or cities of Maryland for an extra session should their representatives continue of the opinion that conditions in their sections require such a step.

Agencies Meet Relief Needs.

Montgomery County's local relief agencies, headed by the Social Service League, with the aid of a county appropriation of $10,000 and a county pension fund of $8,500 have been able to provide for the apparent needs of the unemployed and will, the commissioners believe, be able to meet the local requirements in the 1932-33 winter. Milk, fruit, poultry and vegetables as cash crops have done much to support the financial condition of the farmers in the agricultural sections and the commissioners state new building activities in 1931 added $3,000,000 taxable basis to the county, while another $1,000,000 appears likely to be added this year.

Tax sales average the approximate amount sold in the preceding several years and all but 6 per cent of the 1931-32 levy has been collected and a two-year redemption period is expected to make much change in this.

The bank deposits of the county show a decrease of but 2¼ per cent in December, 1931, over December, 1930. Summing up these conditions, the commissioners hold that it is not necessary to seek State aid for the county.

Rescind Zoning Action.

The commissioners rescinded favorable action on the Albert G. Hahn rezoning petition because of a doubt as to the ownership of the property. A large delegation from the Bradley Hills Community League appeared to protest the granting of the petition, which is for reclassification from residential to commercial of a triangle at the junction of River road, Bradley boulevard and Potomac road.

The commissioners adopted a resolution providing that no future petitions for rezoning will be accepted except from the owner of the property. They approved the rezoning of the E. C. Thomas property from residential to commercial as recommended by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The property is at Montgomery Hills on Brookeville pike and is changed from residential to commercial. They also voted to construct a concrete bridge over the Little Monocacy River on the Mount Ephraim-Barnesville road at the request of Commissioner Clagett Hilton.

Registration of new voters was held yesterday in the various voting precincts of Montgomery County. There was little excitement and a very small number of persons to be registered. The registration yesterday was for the purpose of giving Republicans an opportunity to register before the Republican primary next Monday.

All of the precincts reported small numbers registering, and the day is not expected to place more than a few hundred names on the books. There had been no intensive drive for registration by either party, and there is no local issue at stake to inflame the voters.

The Kensington Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight at Kensington Elementary School at 8 o'clock. Several important matters are to be acted on, President W. I. Cleveland announced in urging a large attendance.

The conference on street and house number uniformity sponsored by the legislation and legal action committee of the Montgomery County Civic Federation will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School. The conference is to be participated in by representatives of the various civic and business organizations of the suburban areas of the county and by postal authorities and business associations of Washington as well as county officials.

It is hoped to work out a system whereby the present deplorable system of numbering houses and streets can be made uniform, according to J. Bond Smith, chairman of the committee. Some street names are duplicated as many as twenty times, and four and five duplications are common.

Emmett Hickman, 708 Sligo avenue, Silver Spring, driver of an automobile which crashed into the rear end of a Washington Rapid Transit Co. bus on Brookesville road, at North Woodside yesterday, was injured slightly. The bus, operated by Francis B. Ward, of 8107 Flower avenue, had as passengers Mrs. Stephen James, of Linden, wife of the president of the Interfederation Conference; Miss E. Reeves, of North Woodside, and Miss H. L. Haseman, Forest Glen, none of whom was injured. The rear of the bus was damaged. A passenger in the Hickman car, Everitt Schrader, 735 Sligo avenue, escaped injury. The injured man was treated at Walter Reed Hospital for cuts on the head and refused further hospital treatment.

Charles Hopkins, colored, 20 years old, of Sandy Spring, Md., was arrested yesterday by Montgomery County Policeman Charles Barnes, of the Silver Spring substation, and held for investigation in connection with the murder of James Campbell, colored, 22, of Germantown.

Campbell was stabbed in the throat with a knife in a fracas at a colored dance hall near Wheaton and died early yesterday at Freedmen's Hospital.

Two Freed in Raid on Still Rearrested With Brother

Two men who were dismissed on liquor charges last week for lack of evidence were arrested again yesterday by Federal dry agents near Charlotte Hall, Md., and held on bonds of $1,500 each.

They are Sam and Willie Suit, brothers, who live near Charlotte Hall. They were arrested several months ago after agents raided a still near their home. Given a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran in Marlboro last Thursday, they were dismissed because of a weak case for the Government. At the time of the hearing the agents said they knew the location of the new still.

Yesterday they went there and arrested the brothers, as well as a third brother, Alfred. Each of the three was charged with manufacture, possession and possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor. The 200-gallon still and 900 gallons of alleged mash were destroyed.

SECRETARY—You promised you'd do it today, sir.

Ex-Rich Man—I know, but I can't go through with it. We'll have to put it off.

Secretary—You really ought to look at it, sir.

Ex-Rich Man (very nervously)—Now, don't urge me. It's no use.

Secretary (pleadingly and holding the ledger)—Just one little look. . . .

Ex-Rich Man—Not now. . . . I've an appointment downtown and . . .

Secretary (reassuringly)—It won't hurt you. Don't be a coward!

Ex-Rich Man (unconvincingly)—I'm not a coward!

Secretary—You're scared, that's what.

Ex-Rich Man—I am not.

Secretary (tauntingly)—The idea of a great big man like you being afraid to come up and take a look at his ledger! I'm ashamed of you.

Ex-Rich Man—I'm not afraid to look at the ledger. I'm not in the mood, that's all. I can look at it tomorrow.

Secretary—You know very well that if you put it off until tomorrow it'll be the same thing all over again. Be a man and look at your ledger!

Ex-Rich Man (furtively)—I don't feel quite up to it, I tell you. I was up late last night and, well I don't feel like it.

SECRETARY (very coaxingly)—It's one of those things you've got to go through with, and the quicker you get it over the better. Come on now!

Secretary—It'll be all over before you know it.

Ex-Rich Man—No. I can't! I can't! Some other time, please!

Secretary (carrying the ledger toward him)—Take just one little look today and the rest of it tomorrow when you're feeling stronger.

Ex-Rich Man (surrendering, but shaking all over)—Very well, I'll just give it a cursory glance . . . . just one or two pages, that's all . . . Not a thing over two pages. Promise?

Secretary (opening the ledger for him)—I promise.

Ex-Rich Man (as he looks at the figures and staggers back across the room)—Good heavens!

Secretary—There! It didn't hurt much, did it?

Ex-Rich Man (with a groan of despair—Hurt much? It's killing me!

Secretary—Now, tomorrow you can look at it again.

Indian Rulers' Wedding Ceremonies Concluded

Jodhpur, Rajputana Agency, India, April 26 (A.P.).—Six days of splendid ceremonials, marking the marriage of the ruler of Jaipur, who is 21 years old and has a permanent salute of seventeen guns, and the daughter of the Maharaja of Jodhpur, came to an end tonight.

It was a wedding entirely in keeping with the eminence of the families it linked. They are two of the most ancient houses of India. The festivities started last Thursday when the bridegroom-to-be, weighted down with diamonds, pearls and rubies, mounted a brilliantly caparisoned elephant and led his wedding procession through his home city of Jaipur.

MERCHANT ELECTED TELEPHONE DIRECTOR

A. D. Hutzler Joins Board in Baltimore; Plant Extensions Here.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Election of Albert D. Hutzler, president of Hutzler Bros. Co., Inc., department store, of Baltimore, to the directorate of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore City, was announced yesterday, following the regular meeting of the board.

Mr. Hutzler is a native of Baltimore and a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, class of 1908. He is a director of the Baltimore Trust Co., Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., Eutaw Savings Bank, Baltimore Association of Commerce, Pratt Library and Maryland Institute.

Other directors of the telephone company are Alexander Armstrong, of Baltimore and Hagerstown; William G. Baker, jr., R. Howard Bland, Charles H. Carter, Phillips Lee Goldsborough and Henry M. Warfield, Baltimore.

Expenditures necessary for the proper maintenance of the telephone system in the District of Columbia and for replacements amounting to $67,865 have just been authorized by the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. at its regular monthly meeting, held here yesterday. This appropriation brings the total amount authorized to date for expenditures this year to $3,362,198.

The projects authorized will require 21,350 man hours of labor, according to a statement made by John A. Remon, general manager.

Included in these projects are the extension of underground conduit along Benning road from Seventeenth street to Kingman Lake northeast, in the Lincoln-Atlantic central office area and the installation of additional central office equipment in various local offices.

Norman E. Towson, assistant treasurer and manager of the foreign department of Washington Loan & Trust Co. delivered a lecture yesterday on "Foreign Exchange and the Problems Created by the Present Economic Disturbance," before the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University. Mr. Towson gave the lecture at the request of Dr. William Frederick Notz, dean of the school.

Erskine Sees Expected Recovery in Auto Industry Lagging.

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation, said today that the company probably would suspend the common dividend at the board meeting scheduled for tomorrow.

He also indicated that the corporation would show a loss on its operations for the first quarter.

"The automobile business," he told the annual stockholders' meeting, "has not staged the recovery it expected, or at least hoped for, at the beginning of the year.

"Curtailed purchasing power of the average automobile buyer and consumer is undoubtedly accounting for the large loss of volume to the industry.

"Salaries of all officers and employes have been reduced from 5 per cent on amounts of $1,000 and under and up to 20 per cent on amounts of $5,000 and over, effective May 1. Elimination of personnel, consolidations and other economies will produce $1,500,000 of savings per annum in addition to the savings previously effected."

Mr. Erskine stated that the preferred dividend on Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. preferred stock probably will be omitted at the meeting of the company's directors tomorrow.

PARAMOUNT BUDGET BALANCED FOR 1932

Salary Cut Approved; Loans to Be Handled From Profits; First-Quarter Earnings.

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—The Paramount-Publix Corporation will report a net loss for the first quarter this year after depreciation, but it will be less than the amount charged to depreciation, Adolph Zukor, president of the company, stated at the annual stockholders' meeting today.

Taking account of the depreciation the company will show on a cash basis more money taken in than paid out. Actual expenditures in the first quarter were $6,000,000 less than for the 1931 period.

The company was unable to obtain formal ratification by stockholders of the plan to change the par value of the Capital Stock to create a corporate surplus. This requires a vote of two-thirds of the stock, which was not represented at the meeting.

Thus far this year Paramount-Publix has recovered its fixed charges before depreciation by a small margin, it was stated. In answer to a stockholder's inquiry, it was stated that the company held $6,500,000 mortgages and obligations due in 1932 which can be met from the cash budget planned for the year.

Budget Balanced for 1932.

It was also stated that the revolving credit of $13,000,000 recently obtained by Paramount was borrowed by a wholly owned subsidiary holding the company's film negatives, this giving the banks a preferred position on the negatives.

Of this credit $10,000,000 has been obtained and the remaining $3,000,000 can be obtained provided cash expenditures do not exceed the budget plan.

The first fourteen weeks of this year Paramount Theaters circuit showed a net loss, after depreciation, of approximately $1,200,000, it was disclosed.

It was said that proxies at the meeting were sufficient in number to ratify the proposal of the management to substitute for the profit-sharing agreement a plan to provide officers with the right to subscribe for stock.

After the meeting a salary cut of 5 per cent was announced by Paramount Publix Corporation. This is the third cut to be effected by the company. It is said the reduction in pay rolls would amount to about $1,000,000. In addition to the wage reduction, employes will take an enforced vacation without salary in May and June.

DIVIDEND IS OMITTED BY U. S. STEEL CORP.

Largest Deficit in History in First Quarter; Dips in Surplus to Pay Pfd.

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—United States Steel Corporation today dropped the dividend on its common stock for the first time since 1915 and reported the largest deficit in its history for the first three months of 1932.

The company, however, again went into surplus to provide dividend checks for owners of the preferred shares, declaring the regular quarterly disbursement of $1.75 on that cumulative issue.

Omission of the common payment had been widely expected. The directors themselves had forecast such action three months ago when they announced that maintenance of a common dividend depended on business conditions and earnings. Fifty cents a share was authorized at the last previous board meeting, this being a reduction from $1. During boom times Steel common was on a $7 annual basis; many extras also have been paid.

Total Deficiency, $19,523,468.

The depression laid a heavy hand on the big company during the first quarter of this year, for there was an operating deficit of $1,136,607, compared with total earnings of $3,970,920 three months ago and $19,464,836 a year ago. After all charges, including depreciation, depletion and obsolescence, for which $10,740,321 was allowed, and interest on subsidiaries' bonds, there was a total deficiency of $13,218,549, which was swelled to $19,523,468 by payment of the preferred dividend.

No comment was made on either the report or the dividend action. The bare statement that "in view of the reduced earnings for the quarter, no action was taken on dividends on the common stock," but that the regular preferred was being paid, carried the news.

No Word on Wage Reduction.

Neither was there any word concerning a possible wage reduction. For some time past there have been reports that steel manufacturers were considering such action as a means of reducing costs in a time of profitless operations. Since U. S. Steel took the leadership in announcing the October 1 cut, it had been thought today's meeting might bring a statement.

Dividends on Steel common were suspended in 1904 and 1905 and again in 1915. In other years payments have ranged from $1.50 to $16.75, the high coming in 1917, when extras, including a special $1 disbursement for the American Red Cross, amounted to $11.75. In 1901 the first full year of its existence, the corporation paid common stockholders $3.25.

A $7 yearly basis was established in June, 1926, and continued until September, 1931, when this rate was cut to $4. There was a reduction to $2 annually with the dividend paid March 30 last.

Steel Common Eases On 'Frisco Exchange

San Francisco, April 26 (A.P.).—United States Steel common, after selling down on the curb exchange here today to a new low at 28, rallied to close at 28¼, with sales of nearly 1,000 shares.

Steel common closed in New York at 28⅞, after omission of the regular dividend was announced.

Other stocks listed both here and in New York were fractionally lower in sympathy, including American Telephone, Cities Service, Southern California Edison and United Aircraft.

Wide List Participates in Small Upturn Despite Steel Report.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—Stocks rallied again in light trading today, establishing something of a spring record by closing higher for the third successive session.

Net gains were small but general. Volume increased to 782,890 shares, largely because of the greater activity that accompanied a little rally in the morning, although as time for the U. S. Steel meeting directly after the close approached interest waned. Final prices were under the highs.

No hope had been held out for the dividend on Steel common, and with the announcement close at hand some short repurchases of that stock were doubtless made. It closed at 28⅞, up ¾, although at one time it sold up to 29¾. The preferred was up and down, finishing a point to the good.

Wide List Closes Higher.

American Telephone, American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, North American, New York Central, Woolworth, Borden, Air Reduction, Santa Fe and Union Pacific, showing gains ranging from a minor fraction to 1½, afforded a fair cross-section of the market.

Standard of New Jersey strengthened coincident with reports that a large bid had been placed for the issue at 21, which price was under levels touched today. Norfolk & Western, inspired by a regular $2.50 dividend, soared 7 and retained much of the rise. Delaware & Hudson was up nearly 5, presumably in anticipation of a regular quarterly payment at tomorrow's board meeting. General Motors turned heavy toward the close, which was half a point lower.

Steel Report Unfavorable.

The U. S. Steel report was, of course, unfavorable. Although the directors made no mention of another wage cut, Wall street immediately began to wonder whether this poor first quarter showing could expedite a further reduction. Operations of the steel industry generally have made some improvements of late and if a belated seasonal pick-up is sighted it has been thought the wage question may be held in abeyance.

Loans on securities were down $17,000,000 for the reporting banks, although New York district banks expanded these loans moderately. "All other" loans, which include commercial borrowings, rose $16,000,000 at all the banks, but they increased $45,000,000 in this district alone. The loans and investments total jumped $61,000,000. From this statement it was concluded that although some deflation is still going on in the interior the controlled credit expansion program of the reserve system is bearing fruit.

The value of building permits issued in 101 cities during March totaled $20,448,511, a decline of $61,561,618, or 75 per cent, from the figure for March, 1931, according to a survey by Dun's. In February, the total for these cities was $24,349,830 and in January $26,312,756.

A new issue of $250,000 in 4¾ per cent refunding bonds of Wilkinsburg, Pa., is offered by E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc. They are priced to yield 4.55 per cent on maturities of 1936 and 4.40 per cent on maturities from 1944 to 1952.

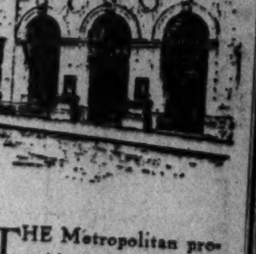

A banking group headed by Dillon, Read & Co., and including Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., and George B. Gibbons & Co., was high bidder for an issue of $1,700,000 in Kansas City, Mo., 4¾ per cent bonds maturing in from 2 to 40 years. The bonds are understood to be offered on a yield basis of 4.35 per cent.

Net income of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, formerly the American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation, for the quarter ended March 31 was $230,305, after taxes, interest and depreciation. In the first quarter of 1931 the predecessor company reported a net loss of $127,392.

N. J. STANDARD OIL TO FORM NEW UNIT

Plans Holding Company for Foreign Interests; Buying in Stock Reported.

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—A regrouping of the foreign properties of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, will follow actual consummation of its purchase of the foreign properties of the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co., it was reported today.

The company is said to be considering the formation of a new holding company for all of its foreign interests with the possible exception of Imperial Oil Co., Ltd., and the latter's South American subsidiary, International Petroleum Co., Ltd. The Pan-American foreign properties are scheduled to be consolidated with subsidiaries of the New Jersey company operating in the same general territory, it is understood.

Owned by Indiana Standard.

Approximately 97 per cent of the outstanding stock of Pan-American is owned by Standard Oil of Indiana. After the segregation of all the Pan-American foreign properties, it is planned to distribute stock in the new company to all Pan-American stockholders on the basis of share for share.

At the same time, in view of the financial position of Pan-American, which had cash and equivalent on January 1, 1931, of $30,000,000, it is expected in some quarters that substantial cash distribution will be made to stockholders after payment is received from the New Jersey concern.

Owners of shares in Standard of Indiana are now hoping that some of the proceeds received from the Pan-American deal will be passed on to them, although officials of the former organization have not indicated their position in this matter. The balance sheet of the Indiana company showed cash and government securities on December 31, 1930, approximating $58,000,000.

Large Buying Reported.

Wall street heard that buying orders for an unlimited amount of Standard Oil of New Jersey stock at $21 a share had been placed with brokers who act for large Standard Oil interests.

Reports that the Rockefellers themselves were participating in the transaction lacked confirmation, but the gossip recalled the order for 1,000,000 shares of the stock at $50 which they were popularly supposed to have given soon after the first market crash in 1929. Standard Oil of New Jersey was quoted just above $21 on the exchange today.

There are many in Wall street who believe that the chances are in favor of declaration of the regular dividend when directors meet on May 2. The company, it is pointed out, has large reserves which were built up over a period of years when earnings were largely in excess of the dividends paid.

It was learned that Edward G. Seubert, head of Standard of Indiana, is expected to arrive in New York tomorrow, presumably to continue the negotiations. It was recalled, however, that Mr. Seubert recently stated that reports the deal was about completed were "premature."

The sugar melt of fourteen United States refineries for the period from January 1 to April 16 totaled 990,000 long tons compared with 1,175,000 in the like 1931 period. Deliveries totaled 865,000 long tons against 1,015,000 a year ago.

(Associated Press.)

The next couple of weeks probably will show whether there is to be a rebound in the steel industry from the conditions caused by extreme fear and shortage of credit, or the familiar seasonal decrease as summer is approached, says the American Metal Market. Fnished steel prices are holding quite firm all along the line and in the trade there are strong expectations that they will continue to hold.

It is reported in steel trade circles that tin plate mills are operating at 50 per cent of capacity, the highest rate of any department of the steel industry.

The New York Curb Exchange has admitted to unlisted trading privileges the new Class "A" and "B" common stocks of the American Cyanamid Co. and has removed from trading the old shares.

Republic Steel Corporation today reported a loss for the first quarter of $2,476,292.79, after charges for interest on indebtedness, provision for depreciation and exhaustion of materials and preferred dividends paid on the guaranteed stock of the Trumbulls-Cliffs Furnace Co. Net operating gain, after charges for maintenance and repairs of plants was $350,-977.89.

The independent preferred stockholders committe of Isaac Silver & Brothers, Inc., in a letter issued today states that creditors of the company at a recent meeting voted in favor of the committee's proposal to eliminate ancillary receiverships for the company at the earliest posible date. The independent committee is composed of John G. Rolph, Morris Voss and Arthur Rudell.

The steel trade today heard further reports of increasing production schedules in the Youngstown district. The American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. this week will again expand production of tin plate at its Farrell, Pa., plant, and the Mahoning Valley Steel Co. will resume operations at its Niles, Ohio, plant on April 27, it was said.

Buying of refined lead is in fair volume and much better than a month ago, it was reported today. The price remains unchanged at 3 cents a pound, New York, and 2.90 cents, St. Louis.

The Socony-Vacuum Corporation today declared a dividend of 20 cents, payable June 15, to stock of record May 6. The two previous dividend payments were 25 cents.

The Jones & Laughlin Co. today declared a dividend of $1 on the preferred stock, payable July 1, to stock of record June 13. Previously the company had been paying $1.75 quarterly.

Inland Steel Co. omitted the quarterly dividend due on the common stock at this time, it was announced today. Three months ago the company paid 25 cents and six months ago 50 cents.

Orders booked by the furniture industry during March were 6 per cent less than those for February and 45 per cent less than for March, 1931, says a bulletin of Seidman & Seidman, accountants for the trade. For the first quarter orders booked by the industry were 31 per cent less than the first quarter of 1931. Shipments for March and the first quarter showed approximately the same decline as orders.

BONDS FIRM IN FACE OF HEAVY OFFERINGS

Treasury Issues Make Net Fractional Gains; Other Groups Steady.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—Today's bond market contest ended in a practical stalemate with the average for 60 corporate securities the same as at yesterday's close.

The United States Government list was steady throughout and all loans except the Treasury 4s and 4¼ retained net fractional gains. The two Treasury issues were only off three-thirty-seconds and one-thirty-second of a point. At the same time the demand for the Federals was the smallest in some time.

The fact that the subscription books on the Treasury's $450,000,000 note and certificate offerings for May 2 were closed at the end of the first day, apparently imparted a firmness to this group as well as to other high grade mortgages.

New Offerings Popular.

At the same time the popularity of State and municipal liens was shown by the announcement that more than $200,000,000 in subscriptions had been received for the State of New York's $75,000,000 note offering.

There was little of interest in the foreign section. French 7½s, after sagging, rallied for a modest gain and the 7s were a trifle lower. German 7s and 5½s recovered, as did some of the Argentines, Colombians, Cubans. Greek government loans continued weak as the result of that country's financal difficulties.

Sales totaled $8,265,000 par value.

Curb Market Sluggish.

The curb market fluctuated indecisively in another session of extremely sluggish trading today. The list eased off somewhat during the afternoon, but closed with extremely narrow changes.

Electric Bond & Share, after selling up to 14½, closed at 13⅞, off ⅛. Commonwealth Edison fluctuated uncertainly, closing at 72, off ⅝. American Gas & Electric, however, finished a fraction higher.

Oils held up better than most groups. Gulf rallied 2 points. Standard of Indiana, which may sell its Pan-American Petroleum stock to Standard of New Jersey, rose to 16, then closed at 15¾, up ⅛. Humble, a New Jersey subsidiary, was unchanged.

Industrials were sluggish and mixed. Ford of Canada A and Aluminum Co. were up a fraction. Deere gained nearly a point and Gray Telephone, 1⅝.

U. S. Playing Card and American Hardware slipped off 1 point, and Hall Lamp 1½, to new lows, in extremely light trading.

WHEAT PRICES RISE ON FROST FORECAST

Anxiety Over Crop Damage Induces Buying; Other Grains Mixed.

Chicago, April 26 (A.P.).—Increased anxiety over crop damage reports and as to big abandonment of planted acreage, especially in Nebraska, put wheat prices sharply higher at times today.

Giving additional incentive to wheat bulls were forecasts of heavy frost and freezing temperatures tonight in Western Kansas and Nebraska. Furthermore, for the first time in many months, a decrease of world's available stocks of wheat made the total substantially less than was the case a year ago.

Wheat closed firm, ⅛ to ½ above yesterday's finish, corn ⅛ to ⅜ off, oats ⅛ to ⅜ up, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Except for a transient early dip in prices owing to a severe downturn in British exchange rates, the wheat market tended upward throughout the day barring reactions due to profit-taking sales. Frost and low temperatures were looked upon as a serious menace to wheat that has reached the jointing stage. Then, too, the Kansas official crop summary said there had been continued deterioration of wheat in the west third of the State, offsetting improvements in central counties. Nebraska official reports told also of "terrific" abandonment of wheat acreage, rains having come too late, and a leading unofficial crop authority sent extremely bullish advices regarding wheat in Edwards, Pawnee and Barton Counties, Kansas, and in sections of Texas and Oklahoma.

Inquiry for flour has been quiet since the opening of the week, according to mill agents and jobbers. Most bids received have been under the market, it is stated. Firmness of wheat markets is helping to maintain confidence among sellers whose quotations are generally firm.

SHIFTING IN OPTIONS DEPRESSES COTTON

Prices Close Down After Early Advance; May Notices 38,500 Bales.

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—Interest in cotton today seemed centered on the first May notices, with an early advance on expectations that they would be promptly stopped, followed by reactions under a continuance of the May liquidation and reselling by early buyers.

July contracts after selling up to 6.24 early, broke to 6.15 in the late trading and closed at 6.16, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 4 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points, with the more active positions selling about 3 to 4 points net higher during the early trading on trade buying and covering in anticipation that the comparatively light May notices would be promptly stopped. There was May for sale, but offerings were readily absorbed by the trade, with that position selling up to 6.06 at the start, while October advanced to 6.48, making net gains of about 3 to 4 points.

May liquidation continued, however, and the market worked gradually lower later in the day. Some early or recent buyers were probably disappointed by the failure of demand to broaden on the early advance and this no doubt led to some liquidation in the later trading. May sold off to 5.97 and October to 6.38 with closing prices at approximately the lows of the day.

According to trade estimates, notices representing 38,500 bales were issued against May contracts. There were rumors that some of the cotton would be taken up for shipment to Germany, but they were not definitely confirmed, and while the trade seemed willing to buy May at about the prevailing differences, the continuance of near month liquidation caused some uncertainty in that respect.

The New York Cotton Exchange service says it is estimated in some quarters that Indian mills are now spinning American cotton at the rate of close to 8,000 bales a week and that their total consumption this season will aggregate between 200,000 and 250,000 bales. Last season Indian mills used only 60,000 bales of our cotton.

Donation to Walker Campaign Probed

Bus Maker Disclosed as Giving to Be Placed in "Favorable Light."

New York, April 26 (A.P.).—The name of Mayor James J. Walker was forcibly brought before the Hofstadter investigating committee today with the revelation that an Ohio corporation contributed to his first campaign fund in 1925 in order to be placed in "a favorable light."

Testimony was adduced and evidence was introduced to show that the Fageol Motors Co., of Kent, Ohio, sent an unstated sum to a "society called Tammany" in furtherance of a desire to sell buses to the Equitable Coach Co., then angling for a triborough franchise.

Regarded by the committee as equally significant in its quest for traces of graft and corruption in the municipal government was the discovery that State Senator John A. Hastings received a salary of $1,000 a month from the bus concern for his services as contact man with the Ohio interests.

Father, 19, Who Killed Baby Girl, Sentenced

Milwaukee, Wis., April 26 (A.P.).—Trial of Joseph Coutley, 19-year-old father, accused of slapping and causing the death of his infant daughter Joan, ended abruptly today when Coutley pleaded guilty to first degree manslaughter. Municipal Judge George A. Shaughnessy immediately sentenced him to serve five to ten years in Green Bay Reformatory.

Efforts of Coutley's wife, Evelyn, to spare him from prison were unavailing. She testified the youthful father loved his little daughter and he had been kind to her until March 30, when, exasperated by a protracted crying spell, he slapped her so violently that she was fatally injured.

California Drought Broken.

Los Angeles, April 26 (A.P.).—Spring showers today and snows in the highlands broke a nine weeks' dry period, freshened grazing ranges and reduced fire hazards in brush lands and forests. It was one of the latest spring snowstorms in years. Six inches of snow fell at Big Bear Lake and Lake Arrowhead. It was the first rain in Los Angeles since February 18.

HENRY'S RITES HELD AS POLICE FIND CAR LIKE SLAYERS USED

Murdered Gambler's Close Friends Attend Service in Funeral Home.

NO FINGERPRINTS FOUND IN STOLEN BLACK SEDAN

Detectives Assigned to Case in Long Conference, but Refuse to Talk.

Shortly before the body of Milton Henry, slain gambler, was sent to Baltimore for burial yesterday after brief funeral services, a black sedan, which may have been the car in which the slayers rode, was found.

The car, stolen from the Mount Pleasant Garage on April 20 or 21, was found by police in front of 2223 Twelfth street northwest. It is the property of Lewis Flemer, of 1851 Columbia road northwest, and has been energetically sought by police in connection with the killing.

Intensive examination of the black sedan—which corresponded closely with the description of the Henry death car—revealed no fingerprints. A set of tags were affixed to the machine which were not attached to it when stolen. These were being traced last night by police.

Investigators in Conference.

Early last night a conference of more than an hour was held between Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, and the group of detectives assigned to investigation of Henry's death. The meeting was shrouded in secrecy and none of the conferees would comment on its subject matter, other than to admit it concerned the Henry case.

Among those at the gathering in the police head's office was Detective Sergt. Frank O. Brass, who was sent to Philadelphia, Camden, N. J., and other points to run down clews regarding the Henry killing. Nothing could be learned as to Brass' investigation. The sleuth returned here late yesterday afternoon and said he would file a report today.

The services for Henry were held at the Hines funeral parlors at 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Only a few intimates were present, besides the widow, Mrs. Regina Henry. Floral tributes to the slain gambler were received in profusion at the undertaking establishment.

River Victim Unidentified.

Meanwhile, no progress was reported by homicide detectives toward identification of the body of a middle-aged man that was found in the Potomac River last Friday. No missing person is recorded in the files of the Police Department that could correspond with the body found, it was said. The belief was emphasized that the body had floated from much farther up the river than where it was found.

A coroner's jury brought in a verdict of death by drowning in the death of James Adams, 50, colored, of 116 H street southwest, whose body was found floating Monday near the foot of Ninth street southwest. It was identified by a sister.

Physicians testified that there were no marks of violence on Adams, dispelling a primary theory that he had been murdered because of a numbers game dispute. The latter grew out of the finding of numbers slips in his pocket.

CARPENTERS' SCALE OF WAGES REDUCED FROM $11 TO $8 DAY

Decline of $18,000,000 in Building Expected by Master Builders.

80 PER CENT ARE IDLE, HEAD OF GROUP STATES

Move Is Seen as Attempt to Meet Out-of-Town Competition.

Faced with a reduction in building activities amounting to $18,000,000 in comparison to the contracts executed in 1930, the Master Builders Association, at a meeting at the Racquet Club yesterday, adopted a resolution to reduce the wages of all carpenters, with the exception of foremen, from $11 to $8 a day, effective May 1.

The notice of reduction, which affects about 3,000 carpenters, was sent to Carpenters District Council and stated that at the date set the builders would be at liberty to arrange their own terms with the wood craftsmen they employed. This move was taken after months of negotiations with the council, which proved fruitless in effecting an adjustment of the wage scale.

A reduction of wages was necessary, according to James R. Skinker, president of the Master Builders, who said that due to a decrease in activity of building of commercial and industrial buildings from $22,000,000 in 1930 to less than $1,000,000 in the first four months of this year, the builders were clamoring for relief.

80 Per Cent Unemployed.

Among the carpenters, Skinker said, about 80 per cent of their number were unemployed, and that indications from a number of the workmen showed them willing to go to work at a wage of $8 a day.

Notice of the reduced scale sent to the Carpenters' Council read in part: "The offer of $1 per hour made by our committee, is, we believe, very fair, due to the present condition of the building industry, and in view of the fact that there are many projects being held off the market due to the present high scale of wages, and that the general public is looking to a wage readjustment in keeping with the decline in the cost of living."

The Master Builders is an association composed of 25 firms and organizations, which represent 95 per cent of the contract builders of Washington. The wage reduction, it was stated at the meeting, was not only necessary to facilitate building operations in the city, but was also an attempt to get down to the scale of Baltimore carpenters so as to be able to compete with out-of-town contractors.

Notice to Mill Workers.

At the meeting, Harry Blake, president of Barber & Ross, Inc., read, at the request of Mr. Skinker, a notice of reduced wage to millwork employes of Washington. The notice was signed by representatives of the seven outstanding concerns which employ mill workers.

Posted at the concerns for the information of the workers, the notice reads in part: "Notice is hereby given to all mechanics employed in our glazing rooms, mills, and shops that, beginning Monday, May 2, we will operate on an open shop basis." The wage scale as stated was minimum rate for mechanics, $5 per day of 8 hours, with a maximum scale of $8 per day for mechanics.

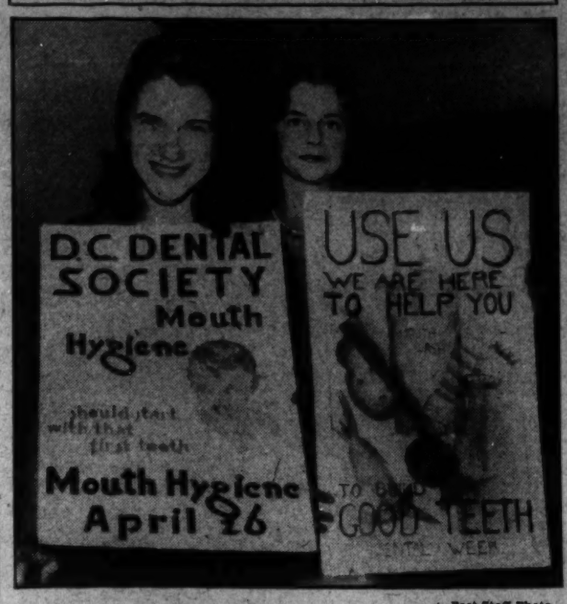

Declared Necessary.

The notice stated: "We find this action absolutely necessary to enable us to continue operating our shops in this city without a definite loss and to make it possible that we compete with shops located outside the city, which operate on a lower wage scale. We are losing work to outside interests continually while working under present conditions.

"It is our desire to continue employment of the men now working in each individual mill or shop, and they as well as other old employes who are not working at present on account of the lack of work, provided that they indicate their intention to continue work under the above conditions."

Other organizations who have filed notices of a wage scale reduction with various of the labor unions are attempting to conciliate the workmen to the reduced scale.

ARTS GROUP STUDIES DEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR NAVAL HOSPITAL

Considers Terraced Design for Grounds Extending to Constitution Avenue.

TREATMENT OF ISLAND NEAR BRIDGE DISCUSSED

Memorial to Jane A. Delano on Red Cross Quadrangle Proposed.

Further study of the Naval Hospital development plans, prepared by the Alfred Architects of Washington and submitted by the Navy Department, was given by the Commission of Fine Arts at a meeting yesterday.

Special consideration was given a plan for a proposed terrace south toward Constitution avenue, prepared by Earle S. Draper, consulting landscape architect.

Important questions pertaining to the development of Columbia Island, in connection with the Arlington Memorial Bridge development, were considered. They were referred for study to Maj. Gilmore D. Clarke, recently appointed by the President as the landscape architect member of the commission, and James L. Greenleaf, consulting landscape architect of the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission.

Confer With Sculptor.

James K. McClintock, of the American National Red Cross; Dr. Tait Mckenzie, sculptor, and Noel Chamberlain Sands, landscape architect, conferred with the commission in regard to plans for treatment of the quadrangle of the Red Cross grounds and for the erection of a memorial to Jane A. Delano, who rendered distinguished service as head nurse for the American Red Cross. The commission gave consideration to a model of the memorial. The plans were approved in general.

Request of the Postoffice Department for recommendation of an artist to design an air mail flyers' medal of honor was taken under consideration.

Mural Painting Received.

The commission received a sketch of a mural painting to be placed in the postoffice at Miami, Fla., from the supervising architect's office of the Treasury Department.

The commission conferred with R. E. Toms, chief of the division of designs of the Bureau of Public Roads, as to traffic signs for the Mount Vernon Memorial highway.

William Mitchell Kendall, of the firm of McKim, Meade & White, architects, was present at the meeting.

Ice Cream Container Hearing Today.

Hearings on a bill legalizing 2½-gallon ice cream containers in the District, opposed by the Colonial Ice Cream Co. but favored by the Southern Dairies, Inc., will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by the Senate District committee.

FORECLOSURE ASKED ON SHOREHAM HOTEL

District Supreme Court Is Requested by Contractor to Issue Order.

The plan of a committee of bondholders of the Shoreham Hotel to take over the hotel in the interests of the holders of notes secured by the property, yesterday received a jolt when Harry M. Bralove, one of a group of three contractors who took over the building and completed its erection, asked the District Supreme Court to order a foreclosure of the building.

The suit filed by Bralove claimed that he held mechanics' liens totaling $148,247.83. He asked that these liens be declared paramount to a first trust of $1,650,000 and a second trust of $500,000.

Mr. Bralove, through attorneys W. C. Sullivan and Young, Simon, Kocnigsberger and Brez, said that the committee of stockholders, Walter B. Guy, Edward F. Colladay, Harry L. Rust, C. F. R. Ogilby, and George W. White, is threatening foreclosure and sale of the property at auction and he asks that his liens, two of which he took over from Edward C. Ernst and John J. McInerney, be satisfied from the proceeds of the sale.

The Shoreham's status is this: There are three trustees in bankruptcy of the Swartzell, Rheem and Hensey Co., who are looking after that firm's interest in the hotel, the Rheem company having financed the building; there are three receivers, John E. Laskey, Spencer Gordon, and Francis H. Duehay; and there is the stockholders' committee which claims control through the placing of more than $1,000,000 in notes in its custody.

There were 96 defendants named in the suit.

Police "Smoked," Man Held for Jury

Four Other Charges Also Placed Against Suspect; Bond Is $10,000.

For the second time this week an alleged "smoke screen" operator was held for the action of the grand jury on a $10,000 bond.

Charles Sumner Lee, colored, 28 years old, was arraigned in Police Court and charged with "smoking" pursuing police in a chase that sent speedometers to 65 miles an hour. Lee also was charged with transportation of liquor.

In Traffic Court he was charged with reckless driving, driving without a permit and no registration card. On the first two he demanded a jury trial and on the latter Judge John P. McMahon fined him $25.

Traffic Problems Topic At Citizens' Conference

Discussion of the left turn for motorists on the green light was held at the meeting of the Logan-Thomas Circle Citizens Association meeting last night at the Northminster Presbyterian Church, and after opinions were expressed that although traffic was speeded up the pedestrians were not safe, the organization adopted a resolution to inquire of the director of traffic about the rights of pedestrians.

Among other discussions participated in at the meeting were the replacement of trees which are killed by storm or accident and the dust and dirt caused by coal delivery. A social gathering with refreshments followed the meeting. Mrs. Ella M. Thompson presided.

Boy, 8, Is in Hospital After Auto Accident

A possible skull fracture was suffered by James Morse, 8 years old, of 817 Upshur street, last night when he was knocked down by an automobile in front of his home.

The boy was struck by an automobile operated by Robert A. Howland, 30 years old, of 1303 Decatur street northwest, when he ran from between two parked automobiles into the path of Howland's machine. Howland notified the boy's parents and took him to Garfield Hospital for treatment.

Ceding Residential Area To Maryland Proposed

Residential Washington would be ceded back to Maryland, and the downtown Government building section transformed into a Federal park, under a bill suggested to the House District committee yesterday by Franklin E. Barrett, local attorney.

Mr. Barrett declared his proposal would solve all of the District's ills growing out of lack of franchise. He charged that every form of local government tried out here has been a failure. District problems are becoming too ramified to take up the time of Congress, he declared.

Chairman Mary T. Norton, who will hold a meeting of her House District committee this morning, said she has not had an opportunity to examine the Barrett proposal, which would confine Washington proper largely to the Mall area below Pennsylvania avenue.

Car Wrecker Is Accused of Overtime Toil

"Yes sir, I wreck automobiles for a living."

With that admission, Kermit Bentley, colored, 27 years old, of 22 Defrees street northwest, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident last night, and warned by police of the Ninth Precinct that if he must work overtime, city streets are no place to do it.

Kermit was arrested after a spirited chase through the Northeast section. Behind the man's machine was a trail of wrecked cars into which he allegedly had crashed before police took up the pursuit.

Rounding the corner of Sixth and P streets northeast, Kermit's machine struck a parked car owned by Edward T. Farrell, of 307 H street northwest, careened several feet and crashed into the car of Harry C. Sherman, of 708 E street northeast.

Backing his machine from the wreckage, Kermit continued on his way. A few blocks farther on, two more cars loomed in his path. These were also struck. By this time, however, police were on the scene.

Kermit's car was overtaken after a chase of several blocks.

SOUTHEAST CITIZENS WAR ON GAS TANKS

Will Ask Congress to Order Removal of Holders as Hindrance to Beauty.

A bill to compel the Washington Gas Light Co. to move its tanks from the section will be urged upon Congress by the Southeast Citizens Association under a resolution adopted last night.

The association branded the gas tanks as a "hindrance to beauty" and declared that they were far afield from the plans of Maj. L'Enfant and Gen. Washington for the Capital. Not only are the tanks an eyesore in the Southeast section, the association contended, but they constitute a menace to health, lives and property.

The resolution pointed to the two explosions and two fires near the tanks and which, they said, threatened the gas storage place and the lives of residents of the section as well.

A civic committee was appointed last night to lay plans for building up the Southeast section. Among the tetative plans afoot is the development of East Capitol street, attempt to bring some first-class hotels and apartments to the area and a fine new theater.

The association indorsed the "block aid plan," and the unemployment committee of the association will attempt to put it in execution.

A special traffic officer at Eleventh street and Potomac avenue southeast between the hours of 7 and 8 a. m. and 4 and 5 p. m. was asked by the association. The intersection is a traffic hazard, according to members of the association and a number of accidents have occurred there.

The eighteenth annual concert of the Men's Glee Club of Howard University in the auditorium of the Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel last night presented as a feature Barrington Guy, former member of the club, dramatic soloist. Mr. Guy, who recently returned from Hollywood, where he took part in several motion pictures, was received warmly by a large audience.

His three numbers, "Into the Light" (LaForge), "The Enchanted Hour" (Hahn), and "The Sleigh" (Kountz), demonstrated the artist's ability. "Sparks" (Moskowski) was well done by Thomas Kerr, jr. The Burleigh numbers by the glee club, including "Deep River," "Were You There?" "Just You," and "Mother o' Mine," were pleasing. Roy Wilfred Tibbs directed. E. H. L.

Robber Pair Pleads Guilty; 45-Year Sentences Loom

Walter Jordan and James F. Donovan, who went on a "two-man" rampage here January 22 and held up two stores, forced three cab drivers to do their bidding at the point of a tiny and almost worthless pistol, and finally came to grief when their last cab victim brought his car to an abrupt halt at Eighteenth and S streets northwest, in front of a policeman, yesterday entered pleas of guilty to three charges of robbery.

They face, because of numerous other charges borne on their records, 45 years imprisonment each, the maximum sentence on each charge being 15 years.

Jordan and Donovan pleaded guilty to robbing Gus N. Parris, 825 Somerset place northwest, in a delicatessen at Fourteenth and I streets northwest; David Turshinsky, a grocer, of 2133 Ward place northwest, and Warren D. Wade, a cab driver, of 107 Fifth street northeast, all on the same night.

They were placed on trial yesterday and when the evidence against them became strong, Attorney Denny Hughes announced they "confessed guilt." The pair was remanded to jail until Friday of next week for sentence.

TARDY FUNDS DELAY DISTRICT ROAD WORK

Starting of Annual Program Waits Congress Action on Appropriations.

A delay in starting the usual highway construction work in Washington will result this year because of the tardiness of Congress in passing the 1933 District appropriations bill, officials of the Engineer Department said yesterday. Ordinarily the funds for this work are made immediately available upon the passage of the bill early in the spring.

The District Commissioners yesterday awarded six contracts for highway construction, to be financed with money now available from the 1932 appropriations. They are as follows:

Construction of concrete roadways, Union Paving Co., Philadelphia, $69,259.59; second group of concrete roadways, Highway Engineering & Construction Co., $84,236.50; concrete alleys; P. T. McDermott Co., Inc., $33,243.50; concrete sidewalks, E. B. Donaldson Bros., $20,290; resurfacing with sheet asphalt, Union Paving Co., $96,244; grading, Warren F. Brenizer, $11,050.

Merchants Favor $600,000 for Idle

Vote to Ask Senate Group to Restore Item in House Measure.

The executive committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association voted yesterday to indorse the proposal of President Hoover to appropriate $600,000 for relief work in the District and to request the Senate appropriations committee to restore this item, which was omitted from the supply bill by the House, Mark Lansburgh, president of the association, announced.

Mr. Lansburgh stated that in view of the fact that the funds of the Community Chest for relief work were about exhausted it is imperative that funds must be appropriated by Congress from District funds to take care of any necessary relief work.

In view of the fact that the people of Washington have no vote and can not, therefore, handle this situation themselves, the association is appealing to Congress to include this appropriation to take care of this situation.

They were passengers in a taxicab operated by Joseph Gully, 29 years old, of 1338 Fairmont street northwest.

Ed J. Stewart, jr., of 1342 D street northeast, was absolved from blame yesterday in the death of Sam Brown, 75 years old, of 2501 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, by a coroner's jury. Stewart was driver of an automobile which struck Brown at Pennsylvania avenue and Twenty-fifth street northwest Saturday. The elderly man died a short time after he was admitted to Emergency Hospital.

Fight on Gasholder Site Looms Today

Public Utilities Body Will Resume Hearing on Controversy.

A lively session is expected today when the Public Utilities Commission hearing on the proposal of the Washington Gas Light Co. to erect a gas holder at Riggs road northeast and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks is resumed in Room 102 of the District Building.

A staff member of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission is scheduled to make a report on other possible sites for the holder. The commission had previously approved the present site on the Murphy tract but had not taken into consideration alternative locations.

A half dozen citizens associations in the Northeast section will be represented at the hearings, as formerly, because of their united opposition to the erection of the gas holder on the site proposed. The holder, which would contain 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas, would be about 155 feet in height.

Battle With Bulldog Sends Workman, 65, to Hospital

A bulldog halted the cement work around St. Stephen's Church, 1615 Brentwood road northeast, yesterday. It sent the cement worker to a hospital after a fierce battle which lasted for a quarter of an hour.

Anthony Norica, 65 years old, of 535 Third street northeast, who was laying the cement for a walk at the church, told police the bulldog apparently did not like his looks, or something, for it suddenly fastened its teeth in his heel.

Norica kicked loose, but that only angered the animal. The dog returned to the attack and while Norica did his best to fight him off, he was badly lacerated by the animal's teeth. Finally the cement worker kicked the dog away far enough to get a head start and ran for aid.

The man was taken to Sibley Hospital where it was found he had been badly bitten a dozen times on the legs and arms.
